JURY FINDS REYNOLDS SLAIN

VETO OF RELIEF BILL TO LEAD TO A NEW MEASURE

Hoover Calls Garner Plan Dangerous.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 11.—[Special.]—The 2 billion 122 million dollar Garner relief bill today ended its stormy career in the house under a stinging White House veto denouncing it as the most dangerous suggestion ever made to the nation.

In the senate tomorrow it will be replaced by a bill meeting the full demands of President Hoover, incorporating the general provisions of the 2 billion 132 million dollar Wagner measure. The widely denounced Garner provision for unlimited government loans to individuals will be eliminated entirely, according to leaders.

Session May End Saturday.

Thus the bitterest fight of the session may end within the next few days and ring down the curtain by Saturday on a congress that has known nothing but storm and strife since the day it convened last December under the cloud of the impending political campaign.

The decision to substitute the Wagner bill in the senate came late this afternoon after President Hoover's message had been read in the house and the Garner bill referred to the ways and means committee, without the formality of a vote, to be rewritten according to the White House recommendations.

It followed a late conference between Speaker John N. Garner [Dem., Tex.] and Representative Bertrand H. Snell [Rep., N. Y.], Republican floor leader for the house and Senators Robert F. Wagner [Dem., N. Y.], Joseph T. Robinson [Dem., Ark.], Democratic floor leader, and Peter Norbeck [Rep., S. D.], for the senate in a senate cloakroom.

Bill Will be Substituted.

Senator Wagner's bill will be substituted for a small road bill which comes up in the senate tomorrow in the interest of speedy adoption of a relief bill by both houses.

It will contain sections one and three of the vetoed measure, providing 300 million dollars for direct relief to the states, 132 million dollars to relief of unemployment by the construction of roads and 200 million dollars for other construction purposes to be expended only on certification by the secretary of the treasury that the fund is available without interfering with regular government financing.

In lieu of the Garner personal loan feature it will provide one billion 460 million dollars for loans to states and municipalities for self-liquidating construction works and $40,000,000 to be allocated to the secretary of the treasury to finance export farm products.

Plan Loan Amendment.

The germ for another possible battle between congress and President Hoover was inserted when Senator Wagner agreed also to include an amendment by Senator Carter Glass [Dem., Va.] authorizing the federal reserve banks to make personal loans to individuals and corporations "in unusual and exigent circumstances" on eligible security.

While the Glass amendment on its face appeared to be the Garner provision in a new dress, Senator Wagner felt that the White House would not disapprove it. It would require the approval of five members of the federal reserve board to make such a loan and only upon evidence that the borrower is unable to obtain credit from private banking institutions.

House Also to Draft Bill.

The house ways and means committee was scheduled to meet tomorrow morning to draft a bill identical to the one which will be offered in the senate by Senator Wagner. The prospect was advanced, therefore, that both ends of the capitol would be working simultaneously toward bringing the relief battle to an end within the next forty-eight hours.

The principal question rested on whether President Hoover would accept the Glass amendment if it is adopted by the house and senate.

In his veto message President Hoover told congress it should not adjourn before enacting relief legislation and laid down a program which would be acceptable to him. He approved sections one and two of the vetoed bill, with the provision that the construction fund be made available at the will of the treasury.

Differ on Loan Issue.

In place of the Garner individual loan feature he suggested the substance of the Wagner bill, the Barbour bill or Hawley bill. The latter measures differ from the Wagner pro-

SCHOOLS MOVE TO CUT MILLIONS ON BUILDINGS

Hope Is Seen for Aid from Banks.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

Three different conferences of the school trustees yesterday and last night clearly indicated that the board will substantially curtail its expenditures for building construction and reduce its tax levy accordingly, if it can obtain cash from the local banks for operating expenses.

It was rumored that the banks will lend the board some money if it cuts its tax levy for 1933 by $15,000,000. The report did not disclose how much will be loaned, but it was said that the amount would be increased if the board cut its tax levy more than $15,000,000. Further, it was reported that the banks cannot and will not lend any money to the board until the legal tangle over the board's securities, now before the state Supreme court in the Matthews case, is straightened out.

Bankers to Appear Tonight.

But regardless of the rumor, representatives of the bankers and President Fred W. Sargent of the Committee on Public Expenditures will appear before the board tonight and state publicly and definitely their position on loans to the schools.

At the board session last night, Trustee Orville J. Taylor suggested reductions in expenditures on buildings from $6,300,000 to $3,300,000. President Lewis E. Myers said privately he thinks a minimum of $10,000,000 can be eliminated from the board's building program. Ernest R. Graham of the committee on public expenditures recommended that all new construction be stopped, which probably means a retrenchment of $11,000,000 to $12,500,000.

President Myers and Mr. Graham favor the completion of only those buildings where the expense to finish would be less than the depreciation if left unfinished.

Would Abolish Department.

In addition President Myers and Mr. Graham would also practically abolish the architect's department, which now has 82 employes, and when the board resumes construction call upon private architects to compete for the privilege of designing the new schools. This saving is estimated around $400,000 a year. Both of these recommendations were made in the report of the survey of the school system by Columbia university.

The board's action last night consisted in the adoption of three resolutions. One offered by Trustee Taylor, provides that three trustees shall negotiate with the building contractors who have claims against the board. The trustees have run out of cash, been unable to borrow, the contractors have not been paid, the work on the buildings has been going on at a snail's pace.

Taylor Favors Savings.

"We can save the free balance in the budget for buildings totaling $3,300,000 and it is a rough guess we can save between $3,000,000 and $5,000,000 more," argued Trustee Taylor. "I favor that saving, and if we can get loans from the banks, a like reduction in the tax levy."

"I favor a reduction in the tax levy only if we get some money from the banks," said Trustee Joseph Savage, who is the leading influence among the holdover trustees. President Myers, Trustees Taylor and H. Wallace Caldwell were made the committee.

Seek Maintenance Cut.

Another committee consisting of President Myers, Trustees Savage, Carr, Buehler, and Mrs. Hefferan was appointed to see how much can be trimmed from the operation and maintenance of the schools. The Strayer report suggested that more than $2,500,000 could be saved on these two items. Trustee McJunkin presented figures last night to confirm that estimate.

Another committee of three members was ordered appointed, at the request of Mrs. Hefferan, to confer with the superintendent of schools to determine whether more economies can be effected. "giving consideration to the controversial matters, such as the Normal college, Crane Junior college, the parental school and branch schools."

Eleven Under Construction.

On the eleven major school projects under construction, there are approximately 300 contracts—an average of 27 per building—but the number of individual contracting firms involved is a much smaller number.

Attorney Roy D. Keehn represents about 180 of these contractors. He

THE GAMBLE

Machine Gun Fire Scatters Belgian Mob

BY ANN SOMERS HOUSE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BRUSSELS, Belgium, July 11.—Climaxing a day of siege by soldiers and police directed on a wartime basis, machine gun squads opened fire in the main square of Charleroi tonight to disperse a milling mob of 2,000 coal mine strikers.

Constantly growing in size the mob had defied all efforts of the troops to scatter them. As the guns were fired over the heads of the mob the strikers became panic stricken. The troops then charged and beat the crowd back out of the square with the flats of their sabers.

A general strike throughout Belgium was decided upon tonight at a joint meeting of committees of the Brussels federation of syndicates and the political federation of the Socialist party. The proposal will be put before the general council of the syndicates tomorrow.

King Albert Returns.

King Albert returned to the capital today from Switzerland. He at once consulted his cabinet as to the gravity of the situation.

Thousands of troops and police, aided by army airplanes, today put down a communist uprising in the strike area, preventing a threatened march of 50,000 striking miners on Brussels. Two wartime generals were in charge of operations.

So efficient was the state of siege that the mining area about Charleroi —scene of yesterday's rioting—was calm except for a few scattered skirmishes and tonight's attack.

Two hundred demonstrators were arrested. The entire district is under heavy military guard.

65,000 Men on Strike.

Charleroi and Mons were military camps today with soldiers encamped around the city hall, sleeping on straw with rifles stacked in the street. Machine guns mounted on armored cars drove up and down the roads. Military planes circled overhead scouting the movements of strikers.

The threatened march on Charleroi and then Brussels was a fiasco. Strikers from the smaller towns mobilized for the march, but there were only 4,000 in line instead of 50,000 as planned.

With women at the head of the column the strikers moved on, carrying red and black banners. As they passed by they tried to get others to join, but met with little success. Upon approaching Manege square in Charleroi, police and troops dispersed them.

MOVE PRISONER, 70, FROM ALIMONY ROW TO HOSPITAL

John Mullaney, 70 years old, 903 West 37th street, retired fire captain who has been in the county jail for a month for failure to pay alimony, was moved to the county hospital last night. He is seriously ill with pernicious anemia.

Mullaney was taken from his cell in alimony row by the Lawndale police and moved to the hospital in a police patrol about 9 o'clock, and shortly before midnight it was said at the hospital that he was "resting easily."

SlipperKnocks Musical Home Into a Discord

The medley of a cornet, a piano, and a wooden heeled slipper made for domestic discord in the Putman home on Ellis avenue, Wheaton, last month. Last night the inharmonious composition was played to a jury of six men in Magistrate Frank Herrick's Wheaton court.

Principals in the case were Byron Putman, 35 years old, an engineer, and his wife, Mrs. Adeline Putman. They have been married six years. Putman is the cornetist; his wife the pianist. The slipper fit her foot but the matter got into court because it landed on his head.

Wife Is the Defendant.

Mrs. Putman, who weighs 115 pounds, appeared as defendant to a charge of assault and battery made by her 175 pound husband. Attorney Oliver M. Olson represented the wife, Attorney Sam Howe represented the husband. Putman took the witness stand first.

"On June 26," he testified, "I was playing the cornet. My wife, to tantalize me, started to play the piano off key. I then gave her what might be described as the bum's rush, but she came back and put a hole in my head with her wooden heeled slipper."

She Defends Her Music.

Mrs. Putman pleaded self-defense. She didn't play the piano off key, she said, and she only whacked her husband's head with the slipper when he tried to stop her from making music.

The evidence in and the lawyers' arguments concluded, Magistrate Herrick gave the case to the jury of six men. One hour and fifteen minutes later they reported a deadlock, five in favor of the husband, and one for the slipper swinging wife. Magistrate Herrick set the case for retrial at 1 p. m. July 20.

Mr. and Mrs. Putman returned to their home. They were not speaking.

HOODLUMS SLUG PRIEST NOTED AS ENEMY OF GANGS

The Rev. Louis Giambastiani, pastor of St. Philip Benizi church, was slugged and seriously injured last night by two unidentified hoodlums who followed him and two companions into the vestibule of the parish house at 938 Cambridge avenue.

He was taken to the Columbus Memorial hospital where early this morning he was reported in a coma. He had been struck three times on the back of the head and once on the forehead. Physicians said his skull might be fractured.

The police believe the attack on the priest might have been made by hoodlums who resented his successful efforts to break up gangs in his district.

Berlin Spurns 'Secret Deal' as Price of Pact

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, July 11.—The so-called "gentlemen's agreement" reached at Lausanne by the former allies had its repercussion in Germany today when a government statement said that "Germany has nothing whatever to do with any agreements between England, France, or other powers."

In the "gentlemen's agreement" the creditor powers at Lausanne pledged themselves not to make the reparations settlement in the Lausanne treaty effective unless their own debts to the United States were satisfactorily revised.

This was again emphasized in Paris last night when Premier Herriot said that the Lausanne treaty "depends on an agreement with America and satisfactory arrangements concerning debts."

Refused to Join Powers.

Germany's statement said:

"Germany has throughout the conference consistently refused to be drawn into any combination whatsoever against the United States and made it clear that she declined to link reparations with interallied debts. Hence no such agreement has been laid before the German government."

While Germany was engaged over the week-end in a vigorous debate about the Lausanne reparations settlement, which reduces her reparations from an original debt of $65,000,000,000 to $714,000,000, seventeen persons were killed and 181 were seriously injured in political riots which swept the country.

Cabinet Approves Treaty.

Chancellor Franz von Papen's cabinet today unanimously approved the agreement reached at Lausanne, "as no other course was left open." At the same time Hitler, leader of Germany's strongest party, criticized the accord and said that the three billion marks Germany is called upon to pay will not be worth three marks within six months.

In a public statement Chancellor von Papen said he "doubted whether the three billion mark bond issue would be floated within 12 years."

"If it is," he said, "it will mean that Germany has recovered economically. The next task is measured at home which the government will undertake immediately to transmit the moral result of the Lausanne conference to the elements of German economy."

Deal with U. S. Reported.

LONDON, July 11.—(AP)—Neville Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer, told the house of commons tonight that British delegates at Lausanne had talked with representatives of the United States before the German reparations settlement, including a link with a proposed revision of war debts by the United States, was reached here.

His remark was interpreted by some newspapers here as a "hint at a secret agreement with the United States."

The chancellor's statement was made after Winston Churchill had said that, knowing the American public opinion thoroughly, he was convinced that "no more unfortunate approach toward debt cancellation could have been made than the procedure adopted at Lausanne."

France to Await "U. S. Pleasure."

PARIS, July 11. — (AP) — France doubtless will wait until after the American presidential election before making any overtures for reduction or cancellation of her war debts to the United States.

Officials at the foreign office today were unable to say when the negotiations with Washington, D. C., would start, but the impression prevailed that France would await the pleasure of the United States. That it would be difficult to accomplish anything before the election seemed perfectly understood.

In the event the negotiations with Washington fail—that is, if the United States refuses to cut the debts—the Lausanne treaty presumably will lose its force and the whole issue of reparations will be returned to its status before President Hoover announced his one year debt moratorium last summer. This would mean that the Young plan and The Hague accords again would be operative.

No Plea to Cut Debt—Stimson.

Washington, D. C., July 11.—(AP)—No European power, Secretary Stimson told newspaper men today, has made any proposal for a revision of debts owed to the United States.

Furthermore, he said, no representative of the state department, either in Lausanne or in Washington, had anything to do with framing the so-called gentleman's agreement reported from Lausanne, which provides the European settlement of German reparations shall not go into effect unless the United States scales down European debts.

A resolution by Senator McKellar [Dem., Tenn.], worded to demand of the state department an answer as to the truth of published reports that the government had expressed willingness to consider further reduction of debt payments, remained before the senate. It was not reached for action during today's session.

WHO FIRED GUN? LIBBY HOLMAN REVEALS LIFE

Says Husband Had a Suicide Complex.

BULLETIN.

Winston-Salem, N. C., July 11.—(AP)—A coroner's jury which had studied the case for three days refused tonight to fix the responsibility for the death of Smith Reynolds. It returned an indecisive verdict that the heir to tobacco millions came to his death from a bullet wound "at the hands of a party or parties to the jury unknown."

[The first reports of the death were that young Reynolds committed suicide.]

The verdict had the effect of releasing from custody Libby Holman, Reynolds' widow, and Albert Walker, his secretary and chum who had been held as material witnesses.

Grand Jury May Act.

No responsibility was placed upon the grand jury as a result of the verdict and it may or may not, as its members see fit, begin an investigation of its own. The grand jury meets tomorrow.

The coroner's jury began deliberating at 8 o'clock tonight and reached its verdict at 11:45 p. m. It was signed by every member of the jury.

In returning its verdict, the jury refused to accept in full faith the stories of Libby, former Broadway blues singer, and Walker, a life long friend of Reynolds, that the 20 year old son of the late R. J. Reynolds, wealthy tobacco manufacturer, killed himself.

WIDOW TELLS OF TRAGEDY

Winston-Salem, N. C., July 11.—[Special.]—Libby Holman Reynolds, former Broadway torch singer, took the witness stand today and revealed some of the innermost secrets of her short married life with Smith Reynolds, heir to tobacco millions. But she did not remove all the mystery surrounding the fatal shooting of her husband last Tuesday night.

Between sobs and breakdowns she described her youthful husband as a "sensitive person with an inferiority complex" which led him to commit suicide because of a consciousness of physical weakness.

Of the actual shooting itself she related but little. She said her mind remained a virtual blank concerning incidents preceding the moment when she heard Smith cry out her name and then a shot. She took his wounded head in her arms.

She said Smith had threatened to kill himself at least eight times, but she had always dissuaded him, at one time telling him that if he intended to shoot himself to please kill her, too, as she did not care to live without him.

Nurses Reveal New Mystery.

Within a short time after she left the witness stand in the coroner's inquest, conducted at "Reynolds," the family mansion, she had heard other witnesses bring in testimony of a more sensational nature, which left certain events still clouded in mystery. There was testimony that the whole group had spent the earlier hours of the night drinking "moonshine" with beer for "chasers."

"Ab" Walker, chum and secretary of her husband, was a central figure in this new testimony and he, himself, added his own story to that of a pair of nurses who injected new drama into the case.

The nurses—Ethal Shaw and Ruby Jenkins—described incidents that followed the arrival of the wounded Reynolds and his hysterical wife at the hospital the night of the shooting.

After Reynolds had been placed in the operating room his wife was located in a room on the third floor. Walker, according to Miss Jenkins, entered Mrs. Reynolds' room and asked the nurses to clear out.

"As I withdrew," said Miss Jenkins, "I overheard Walker telling Mrs. Reynolds, 'Don't talk; don't say anything.'"

Miss Jenkins said Mrs. Reynolds wore only a negligee, which Miss Shaw described as bearing crimson stains. After Mrs. Reynolds and Walker had been left alone a short time, the nurses heard a commotion and broke into the room. Miss Jenkins said she found the pair struggling to help each other up from the floor, as if they had fallen. She overheard Mrs. Reynolds sob:

"Oh, Ah, my poor baby, my baby, my baby."

Walker, astonished, said to her, according to the nurse:

"What are you talking about? What do you mean?"

Mrs. Reynolds replied:

"Don't you know—I am going to have a baby."

The full significance of this testimony was not brought out at the hearing, but attorneys in the case realized instantly that it may have an important bearing upon the disposition of Smith Reynold's share in the $20,000,000 trust fund left by his father, the late R. J. Reynolds, tobacco king.

The will of the elder Reynolds provided for distribution among the sons and daughter and their issues, without any mention of wives or husbands. Without a baby, Mrs. Reynolds might have scant claim upon her husband's fortune, but with an infant, it is believed she would have a valid claim.

Sought to Protect Friend.

While on the witness stand, Mrs. Reynolds had not been asked about her conversation with Walker concerning the baby. Walker himself, in the witness chair later in the afternoon, sought to explain his admonition to Mrs. Reynolds not to talk, as merely due to his anxiety to protect his dear friend from needless publicity. Walker testified that Smith had often threatened to kill himself—as Mrs. Reynolds had stated—and added that Reynolds had told him of his intention to "end it all" just before the shot in the second floor sleeping porch.

Today's hearing took place in a spacious panelled sitting room in the east wing of the Reynolds mansion, directly below the bedroom with the adjoining sleeping porch where the shooting occurred.

Mrs. Reynolds emerged from the bedroom where she has been confined since last Thursday, supported by her mother, Mrs. Alfred Holman, wife of a Cincinnati lawyer, and her sister, Mrs. Myron Kahn, wife of a Hamilton, O., manufacturer.

The eyes of the former actress were swollen with weeping, and her deep tan and her black hair was accentuated against the white silk of her negligee.

Sobbing Breaks Testimony.

Mrs. Reynolds sank into a chair directly opposite her father, cast a quick, frightened glance at the jurymen and the reporters grouped around her, and began to sob in the low, throaty voice that had brought her fame in the remote world of musical comedy.

Throughout the two hours and a half that she was questioned by Solicitor Carlisle Higgins, her testimony was constantly broken by frequent bursts of sobbing, during which her mother pressed smelling salts on her, while her sister, with heaving shoulders, pressed her hands.

The first half of the testimony was taken up with details as to her secret wedding to Reynolds in Monroe, Mich., Nov. 29. He had courted her in New York, in other American cities where she appeared in a road show, and in Europe.

After their marriage, she said, she continued her tour with the road show, in accordance with his insistent wishes that she complete her contract and, when the contract ended last February, she left for Hongkong to join him.

His First Suicide Threat.

Recounting their voyage back across the Pacific last April, Mrs. Reynolds recalled that her husband, not finding her in their cabin one evening, went on deck to look for her. After each had searched for the other in vain, they went separate ways to their cabin and there met.

Brokenly, she described how he had pulled out a pistol and put it to his head. In a jumble of words, she almost shouted her love for the man who was six years her junior.

"I decided that the only thing to do was to act calmly," she testified. "so I said, 'Please, Smith, be logical and put down that gun.'

"He said to me: 'How could you sit there so calmly if you loved me?'

"I pushed the gun away and put my arms around him. I would always do that, and, if the pistol were to go off the bullet would go through me, too."

Forced to Shoot Pistol.

She described an incident in Port Washington, L. I., last summer, where she was occupying a rented house not far from one rented by Young Reynolds. Reynolds had called on her and shown her a pistol.

She said that, not knowing anything about firearms, she was frightened at the sight of the weapon. She quoted Smith as saying he would show her how to pull the trigger of a pistol when one of the chambers was empty.

He put the pistol in her hand, she testified, closed her fingers around the trigger and, standing behind her while she aimed at the dining room wall, made her press the trigger finger. She said he was surprised when the weapon discharged a bullet into the wall.

Mrs. Reynolds told of another occasion at the Winston-Salem mansion, after they came here to live in May. Smith was in one of his "moods" and she found him pointing a pistol at himself.

I said, "Smith, if you are going to shoot yourself, shoot me, too," she testified. "For one moment he put the gun to my head and once more I threw my arms around his neck."

Tells of Fatal Week-End.

The questioning then turned on the events of the Fourth of July week-end. On Sunday, July 3, Blanche Yurka, the dramatic actress, and Walter Batchelor of New York, the former Miss Holman's stage manager, and Mr. Walker, who is about 20 years old, were house guests.

During part of the afternoon, Miss Yurka, Mr. Batchelor and the former actress read part of the script of a play in which they were interested.

Mrs. Reynolds explained that her husband, fearing that her marriage, to him had broken up her career, taken her from her friends, and caused her some unhappiness on this account, had been so eager for her to appear in a stage production of the play that he had been willing to furnish some of the financial backing for it.

Mr. Reynolds, seated in a chair near the lounge on which his bride of a few months was reclining, and Mr. Walker listened to the reading of the play.

"I put my head on Smith's knee," Mrs. Reynolds continued, "because he was sensitive and I wanted to show him by every gesture that I did love him. He drew his knee away."

A few minutes later Reynolds went up to his room and Mrs. Reynolds hastened to join him. She asked him what was the trouble and, she testified, he replied:

"You shrank from me."

"No, darling, I didn't shrink from you," she said.

"Libby," she quoted Smith as saying, "if you did not shrink from me I must be crazy. I see things that are not true and I make you unhappy."

"We used to have arguments about his saying he made me unhappy because it wasn't true," the widow testified, "and that day he repeated 'I know I am going crazy and I'll have to get my head examined.'"

Tells of Hotel Visit.

Then she related that late that evening her husband and Mr. Walker went to the Robert E. Lee hotel. Later Mr. Walker offered testimony substantiating their visit to the hotel. They consumed half a bottle of whisky while talking about different things.

Reynolds returned to the estate on the Fourth of July and that evening Mr. Batchelor left for New York. The next evening, July 5, was the barbeque supper at the Reynolds private lake in honor of the twenty-first birthday of C. G. Hill, a relative of Reynolds' first wife.

At this point in her story Mrs. Reynolds declared emphatically that she could not remember the events of July 5. But testimony obtained from Walker was that drinks had been passed around and that Mrs. Reynolds, in Mr. Walker's words, "was getting tight."

The party broke up soon after 11 p. m. Miss Yurka retired shortly before that hour.

Cannot Remember Anything.

Mrs. Reynolds, whom witnesses described as showing no evidences of having had words with her husband, went for a walk on the grounds, according to Walker, returned to the house at a later hour and, after a brief chat with her husband, went upstairs.

When asked what she remembered about these circumstances, Mrs. Reynolds said:

"I don't remember the party, I don't remember canoeing on the lake. That one memory of the flash of the pistol is the only thing.

"The only picture I have in my mind is Smith standing over me on the sleeping porch.

"First he called my name and then there was a flash and then that crash of the universe—just like everything falling around me. And that feeling of his head in my arms and the warm blood."

At this point she broke off her recital to tell of some things that had caused her husband to brood about the unhappiness of their married life.

Need of "Real Love."

She said she didn't want to marry Smith because she thought he was too young. She told the prosecutor of his begging her for immediate marriage. She quoted him: "'I don't care if you go on in the theater,' he said, 'I want you now—and need you now. I've never had any real love, and I need it'."

Libby continued:

"I loved him tremendously and he loved me. I wanted to help him. I wanted to give up the stage to be with him all the time but he would not let me."

Questioned about her financial arrangements with Reynolds she testified:

"He wanted to make a will, but I wouldn't let him. I wanted to work out our own future. I wanted to get away from the curse of this money. I hated it and he knew it."

She told then of plans she and Reynolds had made to go to school together this winter in New York. But she said:

"He begged me not to leave the stage because he said he did not want me to change myself."

Relates Strange Proposal.

Libby sobbed out her final confession—her 20 year old husband's admission of his physical deficiency and his proposal she leave him for another man.

When she refused to do this, she testified, he replied "then I shall do something to break up and ruin our marriage."

She was worn out by this time and was about to be excused by the solicitor when she produced two notes which she said she had found yesterday among her husband's papers. She identified them as having been written when he was in his teens.

She explained that she was submitting the notes to show how the thought of suicide had often been in his mind.

One note, dated June, 1927, when he was 15 years old, was written at Woodberry Forest, Va., where he went to a preparatory school.

"My girl has turned me down, goodby forever. Good-by cruel world!"

This note was unsigned. The other note had neither signature nor date and read:

"Will—I will my car to Ab, my horse to Nancy [his sister, Mrs. Henry Walker Bagley of New York], my reputation to Virginia, my good looks to Mary [his other sister, Mrs. Charles Babcock], she needs them. You think I am light but I am not."

Walker's Story of Death.

Following Mrs. Reynolds to the stand, Mr. Walker, who has been held in the county jail as a material witness, described the barbecue dinner, the drinks, and the several canoeing parties that took place after the outdoor supper.

He said that when he returned to the mansion as the guests were departing, he had a few minutes' chat alone with Mr. Reynolds.

Mr. Reynolds told him, he testified, that he was going to "end it all," and handed him his pocketbook, saying, "here, you can have that."

During their conversation, Reynolds told him that a proposed trip around the world next spring was off. Walker said that when Reynolds went upstairs his parting words were that he "was not coming back."

He then told of hearing a noise like a shot, of finding his chum shot in the head, and of driving the wounded man to the Baptist hospital, with Mrs. Reynolds.

Testifies Reynolds Was Drunk.

Mr. Walker was asked if it were true that he had told some friends after Reynold's death that he had a secret he would carry with him to the grave. The witness hesitated and then answered: "Feeling confident that the case was a suicide, I would not want to see trouble put on the wrong person. I would not want to see Mrs. Reynolds get in trouble about it."

Walker testified that Mrs. Reynolds was "very drunk" at the boat house and had thrown her arms around him. He said:

"She said, 'Ah, Smith doesn't love me any more'."

Charles G. Hill, in whose honor the fatal birthday party which preceded the tragedy was given, said Mrs. William Vaught, boasted at the boat house early in the evening:

"I can hold as much whisky as any man."

At this he said Mrs. Reynolds challenged her, and they matched drink for drink for some time. He said they drank corn whisky with a beer chaser.

Mrs. Reynolds wore beach pajamas at the boat house, Hill said, and had "plenty to drink."

Testimony of Miss Duncan.

Little 18 year old Virginia Duncan, Hill's guest that evening said she saw Mrs. Reynolds drink "three or four" whisky highballs before the boat house contest.

Prosecutor Higgins asked:

"Were you present when Mrs. Reynolds put her arms around Walker's neck?"

"I didn't notice."

Other witnesses included several guests at the barbecue, all of whom were among Reynolds' friends in the Winston-Salem social set.

A member of the jury inquired about finger prints on the bathroom door. Officers replied that the finger prints did not compare with any taken from those known to be in the house.

Stories of the Three Main Witnesses on How Young Reynolds Was Killed

Three of the important witnesses in the inquest concluded last night at Winston-Salem, N. C., over the mysterious death of Smith Reynolds, millionaire tobacco heir, gave their versions of the death of young Reynolds. They differ in some degree. Their versions are:

LIBBY HOLMAN.

"I swear I cannot remember one thing about last Tuesday. I'd give my life if I could," she referred to the mental lapse which she said engulfed her from 11 p. m. Monday until hours after the shooting, which occurred at 1 a. m. Wednesday.

"I don't remember the party," where a number of young folk were gathered for a birthday celebration, she said. "The only picture I have in my mind is Smith standing up with a gun in his hand, hearing my name being called, and then that crash of the universe—everything falling around me."

AB WALKER.

"He (Reynolds) had been peeved with Libby all evening. He announced to me that his proposed around the world flight was off and that he intended to 'end it all.' He finished by hurling his pocketbook at me."

Then, Walker added, Reynolds went upstairs, telling him to wait.

In a few moments he heard the pistol shot. Then he heard Miss Yurka call him.

As he ran up the steps he heard a scream from Libby's room.

He said Libby came out of the room and dropped on a balcony bench. Walker ran to the porch and saw Smith on the bed.

Coming out of the room Libby said, "Smith's shot himself." Walker continued.

Walker said he ran and phoned for an ambulance, then returned to the room to find Libby with her arms around Smith.

BLANCHE YURKA.

"I went to my room about midnight, the party having broken up. I went to the lower floor to get a glass of milk. In the reception room I saw Mr. Walker on a couch. He said he was waiting for Mr. Reynolds.

"I returned to my room and was dozing when I heard a shot. From the inner balcony I saw Walker in the reception room. He came running up the stairs and went into Mr. Reynolds' room. Soon he came out carrying Mr. Reynolds and I helped carry him to the automobile."

DAMAGES 4 CARS THEN FINDS HIS OWN IS BROKEN

Stanley Malinowski's automobile wouldn't follow directions while he was driving in front of 343 West Erie street last night, and by the time police arrived it had smashed into four parked cars.

Stanley, who is 21 years old and lives at 1414 North Fairfield avenue, was taken to the Chicago avenue station. The owners of the dented cars, E. J. Nordt, 350 West Erie street; Jerome Nicholas, 1049 Berwyn avenue; William Anester, 4602 Beacon street, and Samuel Teitelbaum, 5565 Congress street, signed complaints charging reckless driving. They estimated their combined damages at $440.

"I guess the steering gear on my car broke," explained Stanley as he and Sergt. John Quinn examined his automobile, which was also damaged. The sergeant led the youth into the station and booked him for appearance in Traffic court today.

EX-TEACHER AND FRIEND SEIZED FOR FAKE CHECKS

Hale Emile Landry, 30 years old, until a few months ago was a substitute teacher in the public schools. Recently he met Norbert Bevendsen, who had been a woodcraft instructor.

They met the leader of a band of check passers at 2908 West Washington boulevard. The gang printed and signed pay checks on well known concerns. Bevendson and Landry are said to have bought these checks at $8 apiece, and to have passed them.

On Saturday Robert Engle, one of the gang, was caught in Milwaukee and he named his confederates. The headquarters here were raided. Landry and the woodcraft instructor were arrested and taken to the detective bureau.

Reynolds' Baby Daughter, 2, Inherits $15,000,000 Estate

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Winston-Salem, N. C., July 11.—[Special.]—A strange and twisted pattern of fate in which two gilded youths met violent and mysterious death has made a baby girl sole heir to $15,000,000 held in trust for the late Smith Reynolds.

Ann Cannon Reynolds II., now two, was born nine months after young Reynolds, then but 17, and Ann Cannon, just turned 20, were made man and wife at York, S. C., on Nov. 26, 1929.

Smith Reynolds and the daughter of Joe E. Cannon, largest manufacturer of towels in the world, departed from the girl's home in Concord, N. C., after darkness set in on that night. At the wheel was the Cannon family chauffeur. In the automobile, Cannon, a silent and austere figure, sat between the two adolescents.

Ordered to Find Policeman.

The quartet reached York at 2 a. m. Cannon ordered the chauffeur to drive up and down the streets until he found a policeman.

"Get a judge, or a justice of the peace, out of bed right away," he commanded the officer. "I want a wedding performed. Get a move on."

The newlyweds withdrew from public gaze. It was not long, however, until reports of a break seeped out. On Aug. 29, 1930, young Ann became a mother.

Escort Is Found Dead.

On the evening of Dec. 3, four months after the birth of her daughter, Ann accompanied Tom Gay Coltrane, 27, son of a millionaire Concord banker, to a party at the home of Dr. F. A. Misenheimer. After hours of drinking and revelry they left together. The next morning the body of Coltrane was found beneath a hedge bordering the garden.

Young Mrs. Reynolds was questioned, but denied any knowledge of what had befallen her escort.

The break between Ann and Smith now came out into the open. Nine months later, on Aug. 3, 1931, the couple signed a legal separation agreement. Ann got $1,000,000, $500,000 for herself and another $500,000 for the baby.

She Flies to Reno.

On Oct. 16 she flew to Reno to start divorce proceedings. And her pilot was Smith Reynolds. He immediately flew back to Winston-Salem.

Reynolds divided his time between his airplanes and Broadway. Ann resumed the social life here and was soon seen frequently in the company of Frank Brandon Smith Jr., her sweetheart before she became Mrs. Reynolds. About three months ago she married Smith.

Had Smith Reynolds lived until he was 23, Libby Holman Reynolds and not the baby of her predecessor probably would have inherited the fortune. Under the terms of a will in which the $15,000,000 was held in trust for him, the fortune will go "to his children living at the time of his death."

The money represents one-fourth of $60,000,000 deposited in the Safe Deposit and Trust company in Baltimore by the late Richard Reynolds Sr., founder of the tobacco fortune. Four children—Smith Reynolds, R. J. Reynolds Jr., Mrs. Mary R. Babcock, and Mrs. Nancy R. Bagley—were to inherit equally when they reached 23.

RECEIVER ASKED FOR ASSOCIATED PHONE CONCERN

Equity receivership proceedings against the Associated Telephone and Telegraph company, a $91,000,000 alliance of American and British financial operating interests in the telephone industry with main offices at 100 West Monroe street, were instituted in the United States District court yesterday.

The petition, filed by Attorney Leonard L. Cowan on behalf of Claude N. Dunlap of Kansas City, a preferred stockholder, charges conspiracy on the part of the officials. The petition alleges that a payment of $711,000 on the common stock in 1931 has so impaired the finances of the company that it cannot now pay dividends on the preferred stock. The petition states that a majority of the common stock is held by Theodore Gary & Co., a Missouri concern, which voted the common stock payment.

The telephone company has a funded debt of $12,900,000 in 5½ per cent gold debentures due May 1, 1955 and owes bank loans of $6,500,000, according to the receivership petition. The stock includes $3,500,000 in 7 per cent preferred stock, $2,923,635 in cumulative shares, and about a million shares in common stock.

ROB CAMERA SUPPLY HOUSE.

Cop Returns Stolen Car, Then Nearly Loses Own

Policeman John Kelly of the automobile detail went to the office of Dr. Percy Hopkins, 800 West 78th street, last night and announced that he had recovered the doctor's stolen car. Then Kelly stepped outside in time to see two men trying to get away in his own automobile, which he had parked across the street. The policeman chased them two blocks, fired two shots, and hit one of them in the wrist. The prisoner identified himself as Herbert Spear, 19, of 5327 Claremont avenue.

NEW OFFERS TO ADOPT BOY GIVEN AWAY BY FATHER

More offers to adopt him were made yesterday as 1 month old Buddy Farr, who was given to a woman passenger by his father on a St. Louis to Chicago bus last week, appeared yesterday in the Court of Domestic Relations before Judge Joseph A. Graber. The case against Fred Farr, 41 years old, the father, charged with contributing to the child's dependency, was continued to July 18 to enable social workers and police to find the mother.

As the baby sat on the judicial bench and talked baby talk to the judge, Sergt. John Orgel of Midlothian, a member of the Homewood county highway police, and a father of three children, told Judge Graber that he would like to adopt the baby.

"But, your honor, I think I should be considered first," said Mrs. Bernadine Healy, social service worker at St. Vincent's orphanage, where Buddy is being kept.

Mrs. Robert D. Talbert of St. Louis, to whom the baby was given by the penniless unemployed father after she cared for it on the bus, said that she had talked over the proposed adoption of the child with her husband and decided it would be unwise.

Farr said he had obtained a license to marry the child's mother, Mrs. Lola Mosely, but that she had declined because she had not been divorced. She has three other children.

Mayor Improved; Ban on Visitors Restored

Mayor Cermak, who is in St. Anthony's hospital, to recuperate from the strain of his work in the last few weeks, was improved yesterday after the setback which he suffered on Sunday as a result of the lifting of the ban on visitors to his room. Ald. Henry Sonnenschein, his secretary for many years, reported that the mayor's temperature had returned to normal and that he ate a good lunch.

WANTED!
A MOSES OF THE MOTORS

AT this moment, there stand on the brink of new motor car buying probably some hundreds of thousands of car owners. By force of economic circumstances they are confronted with Hobson's choice of a very low-priced car or none at all.

They hesitate to make this choice, chiefly because in more fortunate years they have owned and enjoyed higher priced cars, and they cannot bring themselves to give up the stability, the luxurious power and thrilling speed capacity, the sense of well-being, which they have become accustomed to associate with the words "our car."

If they could see in the field of lower-priced cars an automobile capable of a road-action akin to flying, a car compact and light of weight, which yet by its roominess, performance and "feel" would assure them not only no disappointment but even an excess of joy and pride of ownership in this new possession, do you not agree that they would welcome it as no automotive innovation has ever been greeted before?

Why should you buy clothing on the doubtful footing of a price gamble?

Rogers Peet suits have a long, honorable reputation. Customers accept them as they do dollar bills—with the certainty of full value. If the times compel us to lower prices to keep our tailors busy and permit the flow of fresh stylish clothes through the shop, it does not mean the lowering of our fabric and tailoring standards in the slightest degree.

All from our regular Rogers Peet stock

BEER FORSAKEN IN SENATE TEST BY DEMOCRATS

Bingham Amendment to Committee Shelf.

Washington, D. C., July 11.—[Special.]—By a vote of 50 to 25 the senate today sidetracked into its judiciary committee the Bingham amendment to legalize 2.75 beer.

SENATOR J. H. LEWIS.

The result was due to the Democratic leadership which, up to the last, protested that it would not be driven into an immediate vote despite the pledge of its party plank for "immediate modification" of the Volstead act.

Out of their defeat the wets, headed by Senator Hiram Bingham [Rep., Conn.], author of the amendment, drew, however, these two crumbs of satisfaction: They had put the Democrats on record. And the roll call, though it exhibited a noteworthy defection in the dry vote of Senator J. Hamilton Lewis [Dem., Ill.], also showed the addition of three new converts to the modificationist ranks, raising the total of senators who have cast votes for beer this session to 34.

With its two Democratic senators, Duncan U. Fletcher and Park Trammell, voting against the motion to commit the amendment, Florida went completely wet. And Senator Robert Patterson [Rep., Mo.] transferred his allegiance from the dry to the wet column.

The wet vote showed 14 Republican names and only 11 Democrats. Eight senators who have voted for beer on former votes were paired or absent.

The fifty senators who voted in favor of sending the beer amendment to committee were divided, 26 Republicans and 24 Democrats.

Vote in Detail.

The vote in detail was as follows:

Democrats—24: Ashurst, Bailey, Black, Bratton, Byrnes, Mrs. Caraway, Cohen, Connally, Costigan, Dill, George, Glass, Gore, Harrison, Hayden, Hull, Kendrick, King, Lewis, McGill, McKellar, Robinson [Ark.], Sheppard, Stephens.

Against the Robinson motion—25.

Democrats—11: Broussard, Bulkley, Coolidge, Copeland, Fletcher, Long, Pittman, Trammell, Tydings, Wagner, Walsh [Mass.].

It was Senator Joe T. Robinson [Ark.], minority leader, who gave parliamentary force to his Democratic colleagues' unwillingness to commit themselves at this time by making the motion which referred the Bingham measure to the judiciary committee.

Glenn Assails Fanatics.

It was Senator Otis F. Glenn [Rep., Ill.] who took off the parliamentary gloves and tore into the "fanatics and zealots" who had ruthlessly ridden prohibition to their own destruction.

Senator Robinson argued that no one knew what percentage of alcoholic content was intoxicating; he pleaded, therefore, that a study should be made before passing a modification bill. With characteristic vigor Senator Carter Glass [Dem., Va.] joined with the Democratic leader.

"You say you don't know what constitutes an intoxicating beverage," retorted Senator Glenn. "You knew twelve years ago when you wrote the Volstead act."

Senator Robert J. Bulkley [Dem., O.], one of the eleven Democrats who voted wet, agreed with Senator Glenn on beer, but not on his arraignment of the Democratic party.

Plank No Longer Clear.

"The Democratic plank is clear and definite. I grant you that," replied Senator Glenn. "In fact, everybody seems to understand the Democratic plank except the Democratic members of congress."

Senator Robinson thought the "practical" thing to do was to send the Bingham amendment to committee.

Offered, in order to insure a vote, as a rider to the home loan bank bill now pending, the Bingham measure sought to legalize beer of 2.75 alcoholic content by weight or 3.45 per cent by volume.

"I am perfectly willing to vote for beer that is not intoxicating," Senator Robinson insisted. "But I don't know what amount of alcohol makes it intoxicating. It's my belief that many persons want beer in the hope that it will be slightly intoxicating."

"When the Democrats wrote 'immediate' into their plank I thought they meant what they said," Senator Bingham declared.

"I'll agree that 'immediate' means now and not after election," interposed Senator Bulkley. "But it does not mean without proper study by a committee."

MRS. PEARSONS WINS SEPARATION AND $40 WEEKLY

Evanston Ex-Mayor's Rum Bill Cited.

Judge Harry B. Miller stated yesterday in the Superior court that he would sign a decree of separate maintenance today granting alimony of $40 a week to Mrs. Elizabeth Schmitt Pearsons from Harry P. Pearsons, former mayor of Evanston.

His action followed the filing of a report by Harry Smitz, master in chancery, stating that Pearsons has an annual income of $12,556 a year and had a $1,346 liquor bill in a three year period. Pearsons had objected to the alimony set by Judge Miller when he indicated that he would grant Mrs. Pearsons a decree, stating that he has no income at present.

The Pearsons were married in 1928. Mrs. Pearsons charged her husband attempted to keep the marriage a secret and refused to recognize her socially as his wife. She obtained her decree on grounds of desertion. Judge Miller instructed her attorney, Frank Cantwell, to strike from the decree the charges of adultery which were made in the bill but not proved in court.

The master's report stated that Pearsons owns his home at 1718 Chicago avenue, Evanston, an adjoining residence, and 668 acres of farm lands in Cook county and Minnesota, all of which are in a trust of which he is the beneficiary. His bank deposits from Jan. 1, 1928, to May 31 of this year were $66,450, the report stated, and a total of $123,000 passed through the trust fund in that time.

"The master has shown that Mr. Pearsons is a very wealthy man. There is no reason why Mrs. Pearsons should be confined to merely $40 a week," said Attorney Cantwell.

"There is nothing in the report to show he is earning anything now," replied Attorney Lloyd Whitman for Mr. Pearsons.

BIND BUTCHER; ROB SHOP.

Firemen Are Rescuers

While 1,000 persons looked on, firemen using a block and tackle and a stretcher, lowered Walter Brown, 45 years old, a carpenter, from a tower on top of a three story building at 1310 East 64th street last evening. He had been injured by a falling flagpole an hour before. To have removed him in any other way might have proved fatal.

Brown, a tenant in the three story building, was hired to dismantle the tower, about 15 feet high, which supported a 25 foot flagpole. The flagpole fell, striking him on the back. His lung was punctured and several ribs were fractured.

Two men working with him could not carry the injured carpenter down. They called for help. Truck 16 and other apparatus of Battalion 19, commanded by Chief Patrick Moriarity, responded. They rigged a block and tackle and then attached the lines to a stretcher on which Brown was lowered to the street.

An ambulance took the injured man to the South Shore hospital, where his condition was pronounced serious.

KIRKLAND CASE IS AID TO TRIO ACCUSED BY GIRL

The trio, Paul Smith, 25 years old, Ray Garrett, 24, and William Creech, 25, all of 4277 Rhode Island avenue, Gary, were arrested on charges of Julia Sczymanski, 16, of Hobart, Ind. She alleged that a week ago they held her prisoner for nearly three days and ravished her.

On orders of Prosecutor Robert G. Estill of Gary the men were taken to the Crown Point jail and held on a charge of second degree rape, which carries a two to fourteen year prison term. Estill said that he did not charge them with first degree rape, which provides a life penalty, because of the "poor success" he had in pressing a first degree prosecution of Kirkland on a charge of rape in connection with the death of Arlene Draves more than a year ago. Kirkland was originally sentenced to inprisonment, but on a retrial received a much lighter punishment.

YEAR IN CELL AND FINE FOR CURTIS FOR LINDY HOAX

Report Revives of Clew to Real Slayers.

Flemington, N. J., July 11.—[Special.]—John Hughes Curtis, Norfolk, Va., boat builder convicted of hampering the search for the kidnapers of the Lindbergh baby, was sentenced today to a year's imprisonment and a $1,000 fine.

As he was sentenced, there came up again a hint that federal investigators, still working on the case, have come upon a clew which they expect to lead to the murderers of the baby, whose body was discovered three miles from the Lindbergh home in Hopewell, after seventy-four days of fruitless investigation.

Frank J. Wilson, an agent of the internal revenue department, testified on the witness stand that a man believed to have been in close contact with the gang still was sought. The prosecution allowed his testimony to be stricken from the record rather than let him state that witness' name.

Curtis' conviction will be immediately appealed. Judge Robbins, after argument by counsel in his chambers, issued a certificate of reasonable doubt —the basis for an appeal—and set Curtis' bail at $10,000.

Previously the Norfolk man has been unable to post bond and has remained in the county jail here.

Kolar Again President of City Library Board

Andrew J. Kolar was reelected president of the board of directors of the Chicago public library at a meeting yesterday afternoon. U. J. [Sport] Herrmann was elected vice president, succeeding Michael Iarussi. A report was presented by Carl B. Roden, librarian, revealing that in June of this year the total circulation of books was 938,604, as against 999,850 for the same month last year.

SEAWAY TO GIVE ILLINOIS RIVER PORT OF 228,000

Will Be Rival of Coast Shipping Centers.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

A new lake port comprising some nineteen cities with a population of 228,000 will be thrown open to commerce with the completion of the Illinois waterway which is expected to be ready for navigation in October, according to present plans.

Communities in the Illinois river valley on either bank of the new trade route between Chicago and Pekin, with an aggregate of nearly a quarter million people, will be set on the shores of the "inland Mediterranean" to all practical purposes with the finishing of the "missing link" in the lakes-to-gulf water artery.

The new lake port will equal the size of some of the important old ports with great tonnages both on the lakes and seaboard. The port of the Illinois waterway, with its combined score of cities, will be two-fifths the size of Milwaukee with 578,000 population, or of Buffalo with 573,000. It will be almost one-third the size of Boston, one of the great North Atlantic ports.

As Large As Memphis.

Illinois' new lake-river port with its 228,000 combined population will be almost as large as Memphis, the great river port of Tennessee, with its population of 253,000. It will be half the size of New Orleans, with 458,000, the great port of the south.

Illinois' new port, embracing the 19 cities, will be as large as five important gulf ports combined—Tampa, Pensacola, Mobile, Biloxi and Gulfport, which have an aggregate population of 226,000. It will be more than twice the size of Charleston and Savannah on the Atlantic seaboard, which together have 147,000 population. It will be about as large as the Florida ports of Jacksonville and Miami, which, combined, have 239,000. It will be larger in population than any port on the Atlantic seaboard south of Baltimore or north of Boston.

The new port will be more than twice the size of Duluth at the head of the lakes, with 101,000 population, and almost as large as Toledo with 290,000.

The great port of Houston-Galveston with 345,000 is only about one-third larger than the new Illinois port.

Joliet	42,993	Lacon	1,548
Rockdale	1,701	Chillicothe	1,978
Morris	5,568	Rome	226
Seneca	1,120	Mossville	102
Marseilles	4,292	Peoria Hts.	3,279
Ottawa	18,494	Averyville	3,815
Utica	1,320	Peoria	104,969

Ships from Eastern Ports.

Boats are now coming to Chicago from New York and Philadelphia, and occasionally a ship arrives from Europe. Beyond Lockport, at the end of the Chicago sanitary and ship canal, the depth will be nine feet. Navigation of the waterway will be by barges in fleets.

As an instance of how the small cities on the route as well as the large centers are in position to benefit: Capt. Frank Deneen of Lacon, 25 miles north of Peoria, recently announced his purchase of a towboat and four barges, to be put into service on the Illinois river. At Savannah, Ga., a shipping company has just announced that it contemplates building an ocean going type of self-propelled barge of sufficently low draft to navigate the waterway. The plan contemplates moving cargo direct from Savannah into Chicago.

At Ottawa several companies are figuring on reduced costs in shipping silica sand, which is now shipped from that region to the amount of 55,000 cars of 50 tons each annually.

Peoria Shipping Increases.

Peoria is reporting a growing volume of cargoes at its river terminal, and is looking for great industrial impetus once the Illinois waterway is opened and the lakes are linked with the Mississippi.

Midwest manufacturers especially are expectant that the opening of the waterway may help to relieve the depression by easing the constriction which the Panama canal has clamped on the midcontinent region to the advantage of the Atlantic and Pacific coasts.

N. U. FOOTBALL PLAYER TO LOSE LIFE GUARD JOB

For allegedly striking a 16 year old boy swimmer, George Dilley, 21 years old, Northwestern university football player, a life guard at the Lincoln street beach, Evanston, is expected to lose his job today.

The Evanston city council last night approved a recommendation of the parks committee, headed by Ald. Ernest Jacobs, that Dilley be dismissed. It was said last night that Mayor Bartlett would probably follow that recommendation today. No specific charges were contained in the committee report. Previous to the council meeting a delegation of citizens complained against alleged officious acts on Dilley's part.

More trouble awaits the football player today. He is scheduled to appear before Magistrate Harry H. Porter on a charge of assault and battery. The complaint was sworn out by Harold Moore, 1903 Colfax street, Evanston, on behalf of his son, Robert, 16 years old. It is alleged that Dilley struck young Moore on Sunday, knocking out two front teeth, when the boy appeared on the beach in defiance of Dilley's orders.

CHURCH DEBATE ON DRY REPEAL ENDS IN DRAW

A debate in the Trinity Presbyterian church, 310 North Laramie avenue, on whether the 18th amendment should be repealed, was voted a draw by the church members last night. One woman listener, head of a juvenile welfare organization, later described the repeal proponents as "scum of the earth."

The debaters advocating repeal, Harold W. Lee, Raymond Woodruff, and Victor Melin Jr., cited ten major reasons for their stand. A general platform was argued by their opponents, Robert McIntyre, William Kermath, and William H. Wright.

One of the major arguments advanced by the Lee-Woodruff-Melin team was that prohibition "has lowered the dignity of our churches by their entrance into politics." Only 85 of the 150 auditors voted. The ballots were cast secretly and resulted in a 41 to 41 tie.

New York Hotel Man Sails for France to Buy Wine

New York, July 11.—[Special.]—Confident the dry laws soon will be modified and that there will be a "frightful rush for the fine wines our clientèle will demand," Bertram Weal, managing director of the Madison hotel, announced today he would sail Wednesday to buy up options on some of the finest and oldest stock in Europe.

RADIO REPAIR MEN ADOPT ETHICAL CODE FOR THE PROFESSION

A code of ethics was adopted by the Chicago chapter of the Institute of Radio Service Men at the Hotel Sherman last night.

Guided by that code, a radio service man will "hold inviolate any confidences reposed in him through entering the privacy of the home in the exercise of professional duties." He will, upon request, "furnish identification to his client." He will be "morally responsible to his client, to the manufacturer, the merchandiser, his professional society," and even to the broadcaster. He "will not retain tubes, defective parts, or other apparatus taken from a radio belonging to a client."

All this and more applies to the professional radio service man who is, by the way, a radio repair man.

FLOODS SWEEP MINE VILLAGES AWAY; 20 DEAD

Charleston, W. Va., July 11.—(AP)—Two streams sent roaring out of their banks by heavy rains swept through a dozen mining villages early today, causing a death toll estimated at from 12 to 20 persons.

Residents along Paint and Armstrong creeks in Kanawha and Fayette counties were roused long before dawn by churning waters and many of them were unable to escape before their little homes were flooded.

Wrecked communications prevented an accurate check of the death list, but the Kanawha county engineers' office reported 12 bodies recovered.

At least 150 of the tiny cottages usually occupied by miners fell before the torrent and the Red Cross estimated 800 were made homeless.

A high school boy, Ken Johnson, was acclaimed one of the heroes of the flood. Alone he waded into the Kanawha river at East Bank and rescued five members of a family named Kincaid.

Five Hurt in Tornado.

Akron, O., July 11.—(AP)—Tornadic winds which struck in this vicinity late yesterday injured five persons and did damage estimated between $50,000 and $100,000. All of the injured were residents of Mogadore, a village of 2,500, seven miles east of here.

SENATE VOTES TO INVESTIGATE LOANS BY R. F. C.

G.O.P. Opposes Treasury, Reserve Board Inquiry.

Washington, D. C., July 11.—[Special.]—A senate investigation of loans made by the Reconstruction Finance corporation was authorized today at the same time that administration spokesmen were turning their guns on the proposal of the Democratic house leadership to inquire into the treasury department, federal reserve board, and the office of the controller of the currency.

Provision for a confidential examination of loans made by the Reconstruction Finance corporation was made by the senate's passage of the resolution sponsored by Senator James Couzens [Rep., Mich.], setting up a committee of inquiry composed of five senators.

The resolution was adopted over the objections of Senator George W. Norris [radical Rep., Neb.], who demanded passage of his own resolution requiring the corporation to make a full and public report of all loans.

Fight Publication of Loans.

The Couzens resolution provides that the committee shall report only loans about which it deems the senate should be informed. Its sponsors took the position that for the corporation to be forced to publish the details of all its loans would be to break faith with borrowers and also would act to make the law retroactive.

In opposing this policy of secrecy Senator Norris cited the 80 million dollar loan recently obtained by Gen. Charles G. Dawes' Central Republic Bank and Trust company of Chicago.

"When Gen. Dawes announced that he had obtained dollar for dollar of the deposits in his bank the run on the bank immediately stopped," said Senator Norris.

Insists Taxpayers Should Know.

"Publicity of a bank's ability to obtain funds from the Reconstruction Finance corporation is proof to its depositors that it is sound," he said. "I still have the idea that it would be a good thing for the country to know about all of the transactions, for, after all, that agency is operating with money that belongs to the taxpayers."

In disagreeing with the Norris view Senator James E. Watson [Rep., Ind.] asserted that the minute it became known that a bank had borrowed, a bank's prestige begins to suffer with some of its depositors.

In the meantime Undersecretary of the Treasury Ballantine and Gov. Eugene Meyer of the federal reserve board were appearing before the house rules committee to oppose passage of a resolution supported by Speaker John N. Garner, Democratic vice presidential candidate, to investigate the government's fiscal agencies.

Might Prove Destructive.

They declared, that if forced to do so, they would coöperate with such an inquiry, but that an investigation would be a waste of time, would not prove constructive, and might prove destructive.

"The treasury department makes no objection to a congressional investigation of the administration of the tax laws," said Mr. Ballantine, "but obviously an investigation now will do much to tie up the bureau of internal revenue at a time when all its resources and energies are demanded in order to put into effect the new revenue law."

Gov. Meyer believed an investigation could accomplish nothing that had not already been accomplished by the recent inquiry of the federal reserve system made by the Glass subcommittee of the senate banking and currency committee. He claimed to see several favorable trends in the present economic situation.

Restoration of Confidence.

"The public interest at the present time," Gov. Meyer asserted, "looks as though it would be best served by giving the patient more time for convalescence. The best thing for a patient who is convalescing is a restoration of confidence. I feel that an investigation of the character proposed in this resolution would not be constructive and might prove detrimental."

Support was given the demand for the inquiry by Representatives Louis T. McFadden [Rep., Pa.] and Wright Patman [Dem., Tex.]. Mr. McFadden, who resumed the stand to continue his testimony started last Saturday, stated that his appeal for the inquiry was "on behalf of the public interest and not political benefit."

Charges Secrecy in Tax Collection.

Mr. Patman charged that the tax laws were being "secretly administered" by the treasury department and for that reason the department should be investigated.

While Republicans professed to see a political motive behind the projected inquiries into the Reconstruction Finance corporation and the treasury and reserve board Democrats thought they could spy the same sort of reasoning behind the proposal of President Hoover to increase membership of the board of the finance corporation from seven to eight.

Under the present law four of the members are Republicans and three are Democrats. The secretary of the treasury, governor of the federal reserve board, and the farm loan commissioner are ex-officio among the seven directors.

Democrats Call It Politics.

The President proposed making the membership strictly non-partisan—four Republicans and four Democrats—and also recommended the elimination of the governor of the federal reserve board and the farm loan commissioner.

Democratic comment was that this would tend to clear the Republican party of responsibility for the board's acts and would place two more important offices at the President's disposal.

Holds Dry Ice for Minute, Hand Is Severely Burned

TEXT OF HOOVER'S VETO MESSAGE ON RELIEF BILL

I am returning herewith, without my approval, H. R. 12,445, "emergency relief and construction act of 1932."

On the 31st of May last I addressed the senate recommending further definite and large scale measures to aid in relief of distress and unemployment imposed upon us by the continued degeneration in the world economic situation. These proposals were made after discussion with leaders of both political parties in congress and in endeavor to secure united nonpartisan action.

Proposals Are Outlined.

They were in brief:

1. Authorization to the Reconstruction corporation to loan up to 300 million dollars to state governments which are unable to finance themselves to care for distress, such loans to be made upon the basis of need.

2. Authorization to the Reconstruction Finance corporation to buy bonds or otherwise temporarily to finance public bodies and to provide part of needed loans in limited cases also to private industry, to increase employment through construction of sound self-liquidating or income producing projects.

3. Authorization to the corporation to undertake to finance exports of agricultural products and to make loans to institutions on the security of agricultural commodities in order to assure the carrying of normal stocks and the orderly marketing of these commodities.

4. To increase authority of the corporation to issue securities by a further one billion 500 million dollars.

The bill now under consideration consists of three titles, of which I shall first refer to title I. and title III.:

Title I.

As this title has been amended, it now stands in accord with my recommendation.

Title III.

This portion of the measure proposes to expend $22 million dollars on public works. I have expressed myself at various times upon the extreme undesirability of increasing expenditure on nonproductive public works beyond the 500 million dollars of construction already in the budget.

It is an ultimate burden upon the taxpayer.

It unbalances the budget after all our efforts to attain that object.

It does not accomplish the purpose in creating employment for which it is designed, as is shown by the reports of the technical heads of the bureaus concerned that the total annual direct employment under this program would be less than 100,000 out of the 8,000,000 unemployed.

For Approval by Treasury.

Strongly as I feel that this departs from sound public finance, and that it does not accomplish the purpose for which it is instituted, I am not prepared for this reason alone to withhold my assent to the bill provided there is a proper provision that [except for expenditure on public roads which is deductible from future appropriations, together with park and forest roads and trails] these works should not be initiated except on certificate of the secretary of the treasury that the moneys necessary for such expenditure are available, or can be obtained, without interference with current financing operations of the government.

The expression of this principle in the present bill is not in this form and is not adequate.

Title II.

This title is the major extension of the authority of the Reconstruction Finance corporation. The creation of the Reconstruction Finance corporation itself was warranted only as a temporary measure to safely pass a grave national emergency which would otherwise have plunged us into destructive panic in consequence of the financial collapse in Europe.

Its purpose was to preserve the credit structure of the nation and thereby protect every individual in his employment, his farm, his bank deposits, his insurance policy, and his other savings, all of which are directly or indirectly in the safe keeping of the great fiduciary institutions.

Its authority was limited practically to loans to institutions which are under federal or state control or regulation and affected with public interest. These functions were and are in the interest of the whole people.

Problem to Widen Activities.

Our problem now is to further widen the activities of the reconstruction corporation in the field of employment and to further strengthen agriculture in such a practical fashion as will benefit the whole people, as will not damage any part of the people and confer no special privileges upon any of the people.

So far as those portions of the proposed extension of authority to the corporation provide authorization temporarily to finance self-liquidating works up to the sum of $1,500,000,000, it is in accord with my recommendations.

The section dealing with agricultural relief does not provide for loans to sound institutions upon the security of agricultural products in order to assist in production and finance of normal holdings and stocks of these commodities and thus aid in the orderly marketing of agricultural products so sorely needed at the present time.

Sees Improved Price Levels.

There are several secondary objections to this title with which I will not trouble the congress, because my major objection to the measure, as now formulated, lies in the inclusion of an extraordinary extension of authority to the reconstruction corporation to make loans to "individuals, to trusts, estates, partnerships, corporations [public or quasi-public or private], to associations, joint stock companies, states, political subdivisions of states, municipalities, or political subdivisions thereof." The following objections are directed to this particular provision:

First—This expansion of authority of the reconstruction corporation would mean loans against security for any conceivable purpose on any conceivable security to anybody who wants money.

Puts U. S. in Private Business.

It would place the government in private business in such fashion as to violate the very principle of public relations upon which we have builded our nation, and renders insecure its very foundations. Such action would make the reconstruction corporation the greatest banking and money lending institution of all history.

It would constitute a gigantic centralization of banking and finance to which the American people have been properly opposed for the last one hundred years. The purpose of the expansion is no longer in the spirit of solving a great major emergency, but to establish a privilege whether it serves a great national end or not.

Second—One of the most serious objections is that under the provisions of this bill those amongst 16,000 municipalities and the different states that have failed courageously to meet their responsibilities and to balance their own budgets would dump their financial liabilities and problems upon the federal government.

Provision Held Unworkable.

All proper and insuperable difficulties they may confront in providing relief for distress are fully and carefully met under other provisions in the bill.

Third—The board of directors of the Reconstruction corporation inform me unanimously that miscellaneous loans under this provision are totally impracticable and unworkable.

It would be necessary to set up a huge bureaucracy, to establish branches in every county and town in the United States. The task of organization, of finding competent personnel, would not be a matter of months, but of years.

Hundreds of thousands of applications representing every diversity of business and interest in the country would immediately flood the board, all of which must be passed upon by seven men. The directors would be dependent upon the ability and integrity of local committees and branch managers.

Every political pressure would be assembled for particular persons. It would be within the power of these agencies to dictate the welfare of millions of people, to discriminate between competitive business at will, and to deal favor and disaster amongst them. If it be contended that these hundreds of thousands of miscellaneous loans will be used to increase employment, then an additional bureaucracy for espionage must follow up each case and assure that these funds be used for such purpose.

Fourth—The sole limitation under the bill is that loans shall be secured and that the borrowers shall not have been able to obtain loans from private institutions upon acceptable terms.

Seen Doubtful Loans.

This at once throws upon the corporation all the doubtful loans in the United States. It would result in every financial institution calling upon their customers, whom they regard as less adequately secured to discharge their loans, and to demand the money from the government through the Reconstruction corporation.

The organization would be constantly subjected to conspiracies and raids of predatory interests, individuals and private corporations.

Huge losses and great scandals must inevitably result. It would mean the squandering of hundreds of millions of public funds to be ultimately borne by the taxpayer.

Fifth—The bill provides only the funds to the corporation which the senate with reason deemed the minimum necessary to aid construction projects and to cover loans to the states in aid of distress. There is, therefore, no provision in the bill for any sum of money for the purpose of these miscellaneous loans.

The corporation would thereby be charged with a duty impossible to carry out in practice with no additional funds with which to make loans unless the unemployment projects and the loans to the states are abandoned or seriously curtailed, and the fundamental purpose of the legislation defeated.

Means Selling Securities.

Sixth—Under the new obligations upon the Reconstruction corporation to finance the additional construction activities and loans to the states in addition to its present activities, it will be necessary for the corporation to place over 3 billion dollars' worth of securities.

In can place these securities only because the credit of the United States is pledged to secure these obligations.

To sell any such vast amount of securities at a time like this is a difficult enough task, strong as is the credit of the United States, without having the credit of the government undermined by the character of use to which it is directed that these moneys should be applied.

As long as obligations of the corporation are based on wholly sound securities for self-liquidating purposes, of which early repayment is assured, there is no burden upon the taxpayer. There is an assurance of a strengthening of the economic situation.

But if the funds of the corporation are to be squandered by making loans for the purposes here referred to, it will be at once evident that the credit of the government is being misused and it is not too much to say that if such a measure should become law it further weakens the whole economic situation by threatening the credit of the United States government with grave consequences of disaster to our people.

Conclusion.

This proposal violates every sound principle of public finance and of government. Never before has so dangerous a suggestion been seriously made to our country. Never before has so much power for evil been placed at the unlimited discretion of seven individuals.

In view of the short time left to the congress for consideration of this legislation and of the urgent need for sound relief measures, the necessity of which I have on several occasions urged upon the congress, I recommend that a compromise should be reached upon terms suggested by members of both houses and both parties, and that the congress should not adjourn until this is accomplished.

Such compromise proposal should embrace:

First, title I. of H. R. 12,445, the act now under consideration, covering provisions for loans to states in amount of $300,000,000 for the care of distress in states where needed.

Second, title III. of this act, with the provision made applicable to all parts of the title except for roads and trails, that such works shall not be initiated except on certificate of the secretary of the treasury that the funds necessary are available and can be obtained without interference with the current financing operations of the government.

Wagner Bill Acceptable.

Third, that there should be substituted for title II. the substance of the provisions in the substitute bill introduced by Senator Wagner and passed by the senate, or senate bill 4,822, introduced by Senator Barbour, or section four of the substitute bill introduced by Representative Hawley. Among them they provide not only loans for construction work of projects of self-liquidating character but also essential aids to agriculture.

Fourth, that the corporation be authorized to increase its issues of capital by one billion 800 million dollars for these purposes.

With the utmost seriousness I urge the congress to enact a relief measure, but I cannot approve the measure before me fraught as it is with possibilities of misfeasance and special privileges, so impracticable of administration, so dangerous to public credit and so damaging to our whole conception of governmental relations to the people as to bring far more distress than it will cure.

Allowance D. B. Osborn Must Pay Son Reduced

Dudley B. Osborn, glove manufacturer, obtained a reduction yesterday in the allowance he is required to pay his 14 year old son, Dudley Jr., under the terms of a divorce granted his wife in 1927. Judge Joseph Sabath complimented Osborn for having paid nearly $20,000 of a $25,000 alimony settlement to his wife after she had remarried, although his own income has been reduced. She and the boy are now in San Remo, Italy, with her second husband, Capt. Enrico Bertrand of the Italian army. Osborn's payments for the son were to have increased from $50 to $100 a month when the boy became 14 years old, in May. Judge Sabath allowed the payments to remain at $50 a month.

VETO OF RELIEF BILL TO LEAD TO A NEW MEASURE

President Terms Garner Plan Dangerous.

gram only in one major point. They proposed loans by the Reconstruction Finance corporation to private industrial enterprises.

The house surrendered unreservedly and without a fight. In the face of certain strength to sustain the President, Democratic leaders made no attempt to have a vote on the message and it was permitted to go to the ways and means committee on assurance by Representative Henry T. Rainey [Dem., Ill.], majority floor leader, that the committee would draw a bill to meet the White House demands.

The Garner plan was hastened to its end without waste of time. Speaker Garner signed the bill at 12:45 o'clock and Vice President Curtis fifteen minutes later. It was at the White House at 1:13, back on the speaker's desk with the veto message at 1:40.

Chicago Loan Not Included.

The new program makes no provision for a 130 million dollar loan to Chicago by the Reconstruction Finance corporation to pay delinquent salaries of municipal employés.

Representative Fred A. Britten [Rep., Ill.] announced he would go before the ways and means committee tomorrow to request that the bill as it is finally completed contain a clause under which Chicago could make a loan for that purpose "on good collateral."

Under the President's suggestion for direct relief to the states to "care for distress" Illinois and Chicago could borrow up to $45,000,000, but Mr. Britten expressed the opinion this money would have to be distributed to the needy and could not be used to pay back salaries of city employés.

A suggestion that Chicago take advantage of the one billion 460 million dollar fund for self-liquidating construction works to build the projected connecting bridge between Grant and Lincoln parks was advanced by Mr. Britten. By charging a toll of 10 cents per car, he pointed out, Chicago could borrow from the government the entire sum necessary.

DELAY RELIEF SESSION PLEA

Because it hopes to obtain relief from the federal government, the Illinois relief commission took no formal action yesterday toward asking a special session of the legislature to authorize further funds for charity. By Aug. 1 the commission will have expanded all its money, and a tentative plan to ask the assembly to authorize a twenty-five or thirty million dollar bond issue is being considered.

Leading legislators, including Speaker David E. Shanahan of the house and Richard J. Barr of Joliet, as president of the senate, attended the conference with Wilfred S. Reynolds, who spoke for the commission in the absence of Edward L. Ryerson Jr., president. Mr. Ryerson is pushing Chicago's claims in Washington. Present also were Corporation Counsel Sexton, President Emmett Whealan of the county board, and County Attorney Haydn Bell.

U. S. Aid May Total 45 Millions.

As explained by Speaker Shanahan after the meeting, which was closed to reporters, the commission understands that Illinois could be allotted as much as $45,000,000 from the proposed $300,000,000 relief bill. Estimates are that at least $25,000,000 will be needed to perform the relief work now done by the commission for the next year.

Possible forms of state legislation to provide the funds, in case the Washington appeals are fruitless, were discussed at the meeting with Dewitt Billiman, secretary of the legislative reference bureau. Gov. Emmerson was not present. Springfield reports quoted him as saying that he would not comment on the suggested call of the assembly until a formal request had been made to him.

Banks Oppose County Bonds.

There was considerable discussion of the so-called Meents plan, according to Speaker Shanahan. Senator Richard R. Meents [Rep., Ashkum] proposed during the special sessions early this year that counties be permitted to issue bonds for relief, pledging their shares of the three-cent gas tax to repay the state. The Chicago bankers frowned upon this and the legislature finally enacted a bill which put the state's credit behind a $20,000,000 bond issue. Several of the conferees yesterday believed that the banks would still refuse to buy county bonds if such legislation is passed to solve the current difficulty.

MILLS WHACKS DEMOCRATS FOR UNSOUND IDEAS

Asserts Roosevelt Has No Economic Program.

Boston, Mass., July 11.—(AP)—Ogden L. Mills, secretary of the treasury, tonight opened the Republican 1932 presidential campaign here with the charge that the Democratic nominee, Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, had no program to meet the economic situation.

Secretary Mills spoke in historic Faneuil hall and attacked the expressions on economic issues in the Democratic party's platform and in Gov. Roosevelt's speech of acceptance. He said "it is apparent that in so far as relief is concerned the governor has no program at all."

Mr. Mills denied that the Republican administration was responsible for the economic depression; attacked the "liberal" label as applied to Gov. Roosevelt; charged the record of the Democratic majority in the national house under Vice Presidential Nominee Garner with being in marked contrast with the "boldness" and "originality" of the administration program, and said that while Gov. Roosevelt's acceptance speech was "appealing" to the casual listener, it could not stand up under the "acid test of careful analysis."

To meet the problems of the times, Secretary Mills said, "no man living has the qualifications of President Hoover."

"No Time for Raw Recruits."

"Is this the time," he asked, "at the very peak of the struggle, to order the veterans to the rear and to leave raw recruits in charge? I think not."

The meeting was under the joint auspices of the Republican national committee and the Massachusetts state committee. Others on the speaking program were Secretary of the Navy Charles Francis Adams and former Gov. Alvan T. Fuller.

Secretary Mills challenged Gov. Roosevelt, "instead of indulging in vague and unsupported attacks, to state specifically what the present administration has failed to do or has done in this emergency that is open to fair criticism, and what steps he would have taken that have not been taken to meet the successive forces that have threatened to destroy our economic structure and bring complete disaster to our people."

"We find, regarding Roosevelt's relief program," he said, "that, aside from the fact that he would plant trees where his running mate would plant postoffices, all Gov. Roosevelt has to say is that he favors certain types of public works and the issuance of bonds. But he is not very sure, for the works are, 'in so far as possible [whatever that may mean] to be self-sustaining if they are to be financed by the issuing of bonds,' and no economic end is served if we merely build without building for a necessary purpose."

As to Economy Pledges.

Of economy pledges, abolition of useless offices and consolidation of bureaus, Mills said that "the expenditures of the state of New York increased from 1929 to 1931 by more than one-third"; that Democrats of the house voted for "Garner's pork barrel measure," and "declined to give the President the authority to abolish useless bureaus."

The Democratic declarations for soupd currency were met by Mills with the assertion that "Democrats in the house within the last two months voted 152 to 50 . . . to issue fiat currency."

Regarding the national credit and a liberal policy, Secretary Mills said, "in house Democrats "already voted to unbalance it by over $3,000,000,000 this fiscal year, and within the last four days the house has passed a bill providing for $322,000,000 of expenditures with no revenue to cover them."

"I cannot detect evidence of true liberalism," Secretary Mills said, "on either the Democratic candidate or the Democratic party. Appeal to discontent and a program designed to catch votes cannot be confused with a bold leadership that stakes its all in a battle for the triumph of deep seated principles."

Failed to Clean Up New York.

Secretary Mills said Gov. Roosevelt's "failure . . . to clean up his own party" in New York City "bars him definitely—honest, amiable and attractive gentleman that he is—from spiritual kinship with such liberal statesmen as Woodrow Wilson or Theodore Roosevelt, or that independent rugged Democrat, Grover Cleveland."

"Of all the credit groups that he mentions," Mills said, "the only ones that have not been provided for by the federal government are the states and municipalities. Are we to understand from his criticism that he would make the credit of the United States government available to 16,000 municipalities?"

Gov Roosevelt's plan to "enter into a series of bargaining tariffs according to the European practice" met with Secretary Mills' disapproval. He said the Republican party "holds that the rates in our tariff laws are a purely domestic question."

MRS. SABIN SAYS MILLS INSPIRED WOMEN TO BOLT

Caused Stand Hostile to Roosevelt.

New York, July 11.—[Special.]—Mrs. Charles H. Sabin, chairman of the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform, today credited Ogden L. Mills, secretary of the treasury and "the real power in the Hoover cabinet," with having drafted a statement put out yesterday by sixty-four women who refused to go along with their organization in advocating the election of Gov. F. D. Roosevelt for president.

MRS. C. H. SABIN.

The executive committee of the national women's body last week indorsed the Democratic ticket and candidate on the prohibition issue.

Mrs. Sabin's assertion that Mr. Mills had dictated the statement of the sixty-four women lent interest to that document as indicating the views of the Hoover administration and the national campaign managers in meeting the issue.

That statement points out that both parties in recent conventions declared in favor of resubmitting the 18th amendment and is thought to show the administration's intention to minimize the differences between the two parties on the prohibition issue.

"New Tack," Says Mrs. Sabin.

The so-called Mills statement further sets forth the deal difference between the parties was as to the course to be followed after repeal, adding that the parties differ on methods of control and regulation. This is regarded as an entirely new interpretation as representing the administration's viewpoint.

"I have read the petition which I am told was drafted with the help of the distinguished secretary of the treasury, Ogden Mills, advising me that sixty-four Long Island women will not vote for Franklin D. Roosevelt," said Mrs. Sabins' statement. "That is their prerogative. But when these ladies state that both parties declare in favor of submitting to the people an amendment eliminating national prohibition they are reading into the Republican plank an interpretation not justified by its wording.

"For not only does the Republican plank fail to advocate the repeal of the eighteenth amendment but it specifically states, 'We do not favor a submission limited to the issue of retention or repeal.'

Committee Repudiated.

"I am very sorry that these ladies felt it necessary to publicly repudiate and admonish, not only the national executive committee for keeping its word, but also the thousands of women who have untiringly and loyally given their time and strength for the last three years to endeavor to bring about a day of less temptation for the young, a day of greater security for the workers, a day when criminals will lose control, a day of greater happiness for us all.

"I can find no comfort in this petition, but perhaps the women's Christian Temperance union, the Anti-Saloon league, the Methodist board of prohibition, temperance, and public morals, and Bishop Cannon will."

SUED BY JEWELER

VIENNA, July 11.—(AP)—The newspaper Montagszeitung said today that a bailiff had visited the home of Maria Jeritza last night trying to serve an attachment issued in a suit by a jeweler who charges the singer failed to pay for jewels purchased from him in 1931.

The prima donna was not at home. Her husband, Baron Leopold Popper-Pobhrazy, claimed ownership of the entire household so the bailiff could serve no one.

The jeweler charged Mme. Jeritza bought $24,000 worth of goods, made a cash payment of $6,000, and agreed to pay $2,000 a month. He said the monthly payments were not made.

It was said also that Mme. Jeritza offered to return the jewels but the jeweler refused on the ground their value had declined 35 per cent since the purchase. He said the singer had told him she was in a strained financial situation because of cancellation of a number of engagements.

Victim Chases Burglars; Two Boys Are Captured

Harold Goldstein, 15 years old, of 4718 Ingleside avenue, and Solomon Selitzky, 16, of 1411 East 47th street, were arrested last night by Motorcycle Policeman Eugene Mulligan and charged with looting the home of Miss Florence Bardon, 30, 6751 East End avenue. As Miss Bardon entered her apartment two boys ran out. She pursued them and two blocks away Mulligan caught them. A revolver taken from the apartment, some trinkets, and $3.75, also stolen, were recovered.

Failure to List Chickens Throws Case Out of Court

Greencastle, Ind., July 11.—[Special.]—George Bennett, Putnam county farmer, accused Harlan Hurst of stealing some fine chickens from him. But when defense attorneys showed Bennett had not included chickens on his tax assessment list, Hurst was discharged today.

ROOSEVELT AND 3 SONS SAIL AWAY ON A VACATION

Governor Steers Craft Through Choppy Sea.

New Haven, Conn., July 11.—[Special.]—Beating across a stiff breeze that whipped the salt spume of Long Island sound into his face, Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt guided his 38 foot yawl into Morris cove tonight for an overnight rest on his New England cruise with his three sons.

Anchored off the New Haven Yacht club after a rapid trip from Port Jefferson, the Democratic presidential nominee sat in the stern of the Myth II. at sunset watching his sons prepare a dinner of scrambled eggs over a two burner stove with national politics seemingly far in the background.

The palatial yacht Ambassadress with the hook out nearby carried a list of important leaders in the Democratic party who followed the governor across the sound. But the executive said he was staying on his small craft all night.

A Delightful Trip.

"We are going to get a swim and stay right on here. It was a delightful trip although it was a little rough sometimes," the governor said.

The quiet scene aboard the Myth II. bobbing on the sunset waves in Morris cove was in sharp contrast to the excitement of the departure from Port Jefferson. To the tooting of whistles, the cheers of a dock side crowd and the roar of seaplanes overhead, seeking aerial photographs, the governor at the wheel of the unostentatious yawl steered the craft out through the harbor mouth under a tow.

Once clear of Misery Point and in the open sound the tow was cast off. James, Franklin Jr., and John Roosevelt and George Briggs of Boston, the crew, fought with the wind to bend the mainsail. They set it. The governor waved to the correspondents and photographers aboard the yacht Marcon, which is following the governor on his vacation."

Tomorrow, the governor and his sons will steer back into the sound and turn the prow northeast to skirt the coast and make as many miles as possible. They hope to get beyond New London, perhaps to West Watch Hill, R. I., or even Newport if the strong northwest wind of today holds out.

Escorted by State Troopers.

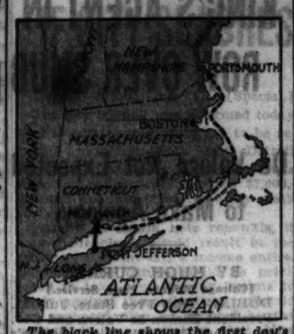

The governor boarded the Myth II. at Bayles Dock in Port Jefferson harbor about noon, but one delay and another prevented actual departure until an hour and a half later. The executive drove from his New York City home at 49 East 65th street and escorted by state troopers made good time to the dock.

Swinging himself into the rear of the cockpit the governor pulled off his gray business coat, lit a cigaret and then waited for the cameramen to shoot him.

Meanwhile the bon voyage party of friends stood on the float and chatted with him. D. Basil O'Connor, his law partner, was there resplendent in white flannels, accompanied by Mrs. O'Connor, Almon G. Rasquin, Democratic leader of Suffolk county, Secretary of State Edward J. Flynn, Robert Jackson of New Hampshire, secretary of the Democratic national committee; Frank C. Walker, assistant treasurer; W. Forbes Morgan, financial director of the Roosevelt pre-convention campaign, and Jessie I. Straus, a close friend of the executive.

It was the latter five who made the journey on the Ambassadress.

JOYCE BORDEN HOME FROM SAILING JAUNT TO THE SEVEN SEAS

New York, July 11.—[Special.]—Mrs. Joyce Borden Balokovic, daughter of the late William Borden of Chicago, arrived as captain and navigator today on her auxiliary schooner Northern Light after a cruise around the world which started from San Francisco on April 2, 1931.

According to the accounts of the captain and her husband, Zlatko Balokovic, a violinist, the trip was rather uneventful despite its length and variety of places visited. The skipper, who said she learned to navigate during her vacation at Camden, Me., said that occasionally members of the crew would become intoxicated and "beat each other up."

"We had a grand row at Thursday Island," she cried. "Two of the crew got drunk and had a fight and we had to fire them. But you really can't blame any one from going beserk on Thursday Island."

Mrs. Balokovic is the sister of John Borden of Chicago and of Mary Borden Spears, London writer.

WOLLENBERGER, BANKER, OBTAINS LICENSE TO WED

Herman Wollenberger, president of Wollenberger & Co., investment bankers, yesterday obtained a license to marry Mrs. Blanche Porges of the Flamingo hotel. Mr. Wollenberger gave his age as 64 and Mrs. Porges' age as 34. Mr. Wollenberger could not be reached in his home at 1765 East 55th street last evening, nor could Mrs. Porges. Relatives refused to discuss the impending marriage.

Mr. Wollenberger has been head of his own banking company in Chicago since 1903. Born in the state of Wurttemberg, Germany, in 1867, he began his banking experience in his native village. Eventually he removed to Frankfort, and thence to Brussels. In 1893 he came to Chicago and was associated with the Illinois Trust and Savings bank until 1896. In 1903 he became vice president of the Western Trust and Savings bank, where he remained until he set up his own business.

Boy Dives Into Shallow Water; Breaks Neck, Skull

Steve Mordeski, 15 years old, 549 East 91st street, suffered fractures of the neck and skull yesterday when he dived into two feet of water from a pier in the lake at 75th street. Other boys dragged him from the water and he was taken to the Burnside hospital, where it was said that he has a chance to recover.

SENATE PASSES INFLATION BILL; BILLION SWELL

Glass Measure Authorizes Currency Issue.

Washington, D. C., July 11.—[Special.]—The senate today by a vote of 53 to 18 passed the Glass inflation bill, adopting it as an amendment to the home loan bank bill, now pending.

Under the terms of the Glass bill the circulation privilege would be given to all classes of long term United States bonds. National banks would be authorized to issue currency against such bonds.

An expansion of the currency of nearly one billion dollars will be possible if the bill should become law.

Only fourteen Republicans and four Democrats voted against the measure. In its behalf 23 Republicans and 29 Democrats cast their ballots.

Blaine Amendments Lose.

Adoption of the Glass bill, which was offered as a rider to the home loan bank bill by Senator William E. Borah [radical Rep., Idaho], followed the rejection of two amendments sponsored by Senator John J. Blaine [radical Rep., Wis.]. The first would have limited the circulation privilege to government bonds bearing interest at the rate of not more than 3½ per cent. The second would have substituted for the Glass bill the Goldsborough bill, passed by the house, which ordered the federal reserve board to use its control rediscount rates and its open market purchases to bring the dollar back to its 1926 value.

Detail of Vote.

FOR THE AMENDMENT—53.

Republicans—23: Austin, Borah, Capper, Couzens, Dale, Davis, Frazier, Hatfield, Howell, Johnson, Jones, La Follette, Norbeck, Norris, Nye, Patterson, Robinson [Ind.], Schall, Smoot, Thomas [Idaho], Townsend, Vandenburg, White.

Farmer-Labor—1: Shipstead.

AGAINST THE AMENDMENT—18.

Republicans — 14: Barbour, Bingham, Blaine, Fess, Glenn, Goldsborough, Hale, Hastings, Hebert, Kean, Keyes, Metcalf, Moses, Reed.

Democrats—4: Copeland, Dill, Tydings, Wagner.

Oak Park Keeps on Paying to Keep Hoodlums in Jail

Oak Park has decided, officially, that it's worth 60 cents a day to keep hoodlums locked up. Heretofore, it is reported, the four police magistrates of the suburb have been hesitant about sending to the Bridewell men convicted of minor offenses. Those who cannot pay fines have been put on probation. Last night, at a special meeting of the police committee of the village board, it was voted to instruct the magistrates that the municipality is willing to pay board in the Bridewell for any who deserve punishment.

SENTENCED FOR TRUNK THEFT.

William Cuffman, 28 years old, 717 North Dearborn street, was sentenced to serve six months in the house of correction yesterday by Judge Francis B. Allegretti for stealing a trunk containing women's clothing.

Canada Ready to Sign Seaway Pact; to Spend 110 Million

OTTAWA, Ont., July 11.—(AP)—Premier George S. Henry of Ontario said tonight the Ontario and Dominion governments would sign an agreement on the St. Lawrence seaways project within a "week or so."

Under the agreement which is being drafted, Premier Henry said, the Ontario government and Ontario hydro commission would spend between $105,000,000 and $110,000,000.

Toward the estimated $85,000,000 cost of "joint works" in the international reach of the St. Lawrence, Ontario would contribute a percentage with the Dominion. Cost of construction by the Ontario hydro commission of power houses, transformers and such like for the generation of power would be defrayed by Ontario and is included in the estimated total expenditure of around $105,000,000.

Carrying out of the St. Lawrence deep waterways scheme by Canada and the United States would bring about the development of 2,000,000 horsepower in the international section.

Under the proposed arrangement Ontario would have the use of 1,000,000 horsepower. The remaining 50 per cent division of power in the international section would go to the United States under the treaty between the two countries.

From an international angle, treaty negotiations on the project between Canada and the United States are reported to be proceeding satisfactorily. An early announcement of the signing of a treaty between the two countries is expected.

NOT READY FOR SENATE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 11.—[Special.]—Administration officials said today that President Hoover has given up hope of completing the St. Lawrence waterway treaty in time to obtain its ratification by the senate before congress adjourns.

Last minute delays in concluding the negotiation of the treaty to expend 500 millions in developing power and navigation on the St. Lawrence river plus new indications that congress will adjourn this week ended the last hope that the treaty could be put into effect at once.

"Even if the treaty were completed and sent to the senate tomorrow it would not be acted upon at this session," Senator David A. Reed [Rep., Pa.], one of the high ranking members of the foreign relations committee, said late today. "Congress will adjourn not later than Saturday night. That would not give us time even to look over the pact."

Reed and Vandenberg Confer.

Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg [Rep., Mich.], a member of the foreign relations committee and a leading advocate of the plan for joint construction of the St. Lawrence waterway, agreed with Senator Reed that it would be useless to attempt to have the proposed American-Canadian pact ratified at this session.

Whether the treaty negotiations will be concluded this week remained a moot point tonight, although it was learned that American officials look for an agreement with Canada within the next few days.

A last minute effort to complete the treaty of negotiations in time to secure ratification of the pact before the senate adjourns was ordered last week by President Hoover. The state department redoubled its efforts. Hanford MacNider, American minister to Canada, came to Washington. For three days state department and Canadian officials conferred in an attempt to settle the controversial points. On Thursday Secretary of State Stimson entertained Maj. W. D. Herridge, Canadian minister to Washington; Minister MacNider, James Grafton Rogers, assistant secretary of state in charge of the St. Lawrence negotiations, and John Hickerson, state department expert on Canadian affairs.

But no immediate treaty developed. Then on Saturday Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democratic presidential candidate, suggested in a telegram to the White House that he and the President sit down together and attempt to expedite the negotiations by ironing out the differences between New York state and the federal government over how much of the cost of the total project was to be borne by the state in exchange for power. The President promptly rejected the New York governor's offer, suggesting that the question of cost division was one to be decided after the treaty was negotiated.

Clamp Lid on Information.

Following publication of the Hoover-Roosevelt correspondence state department officials clamped the lid on the release of all information regarding the progress of the treaty negotiations or the contents of the projected treaty. The exchange between the two presidential nominees of the major political parties did, however, direct the spotlight on the following developments:

1. A claim by the power authority of the state of New York that an agreement has been reached with the state department whereby New York state "shall have title to the power houses and shall own and control all of the power produced on the American side in perpetuity." The plan agreed to, according to the power authority, was for the United States to finance construction of the huge power plants on the New York boundary side of the St. Lawrence waterway and then turn them over for a consideration to the state of New York.

2. A disclosure that great pressure is being made by Canada to persuade the United States to bear the major cost of work yet to be completed in order to develop the navigation and power possibilities of the St. Lawrence.

3. Strong indications that agreement has been reached whereby the Chicago water diversion will be held down close to the Supreme court mandate notwithstanding the needs for navigation on the federal Illinois link of the lakes to the gulf waterway." It is understood Canada is willing to allow some modification of the Supreme court decree if needed for sanitation but opposed to any increase for navigation.

BRAZIL FEDERAL TROOPS MARCH AGAINST REBELS

President Names Group to Frame Constitution.

RIO DE JANEIRO, July 11.—(AP)—Loyal troops marched toward the city of Sao Paulo from the south, north and northwest tonight to quell a rebellion which apparently had the support of most of the powerful militia—125,000 well-armed troops—in Brazil's richest and busiest state.

Provisional President Getulio Vargas, whose régime was born of revolution, meanwhile appointed a commission of 21 members, including two women, to draft a new constitution for the nation. Leaders in Sao Paulo have demanded an early return to constitutional government.

The Vargas government also extended for fifteen days payments in foreign currency of interest on bonds due before Sept. 1.

Coffee Port Closed.

Santos, the great coffee port of Sao Paulo province, was closed to all navigation by government decree.

The interventor [provisional governor appointed by the federal government] of the state of Sao Paulo has been overthrown.

The government announced that troops at Itupirasununga and Jundiahy, 25 miles from Sao Paulo, had refused to join the rebels, maintaining their positions in the first fighting reported.

Rio Grande Do Sul authorities announced the rebellion was confined to the state of Sao Paulo.

Censorship Hides Revolt.

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

BUENOS AIRES, July 11.—Conflicting and highly censored news from southern Brazil tonight indicates the Sao Paulo revolt is more serious than is admitted by the government.

Gen. Flores Da Cunha, loyal governor of the state of Rio Grande Do Sul, has established a strict military censorship, but dispatches from Riveria, on the Uruguayan side of the frontier, indicate prominent leaders in Rio Granade Do Sul are in close touch with the Sao Paulo rebels. These sources say the states of Sao Paulo and Matto Grosso are leading the revolt, designed to replace the De Facto régime with a constitutional government, and that they have the support of the states of Minas Geraes and Rio Grande Do Sul. They assert also the movement is headed by Gen. Isidoro Lopes, one of Brazil's outstanding military authorities, and not by Col. Figuero, as reported by the Rio De Janeiro government.

Rebels Claim Solid Support.

Rebel sources contend that troops in the state of Sao Paulo are on the side of the revolutionists.

Censored dispatches from Rio De Janeiro report troop movements and military precautions considerably in excess of those necessary to subdue two regiments. All military and naval furloughs have been canceled.

Rio De Janeiro reports that Gen. Vasconcellos is commanding the federal troops marching on Sao Paulo. The revolutionists report that he, with his entire command, has joined the revolt.

Peru Rebels Lose City.

LIMA, Peru, July 11.—(AP)—Trujillo, northern city seized last week by rebels described as civilian extremists, was recaptured by the government today after a fierce attack by land, sea, and air, with numerous lives lost on both sides.

Unconfirmed dispatches said many prominent citizens and military officials had been slain by the revolutionaries. An official report said loyal troops had been lynched.

BAVARIAN RIVER FLOODS CITY AND KILLS ANIMALS

MUNICH, Germany, July 11.—(AP)—Cloudbursts in Bavaria today resulted in the River Wertach overflowing its banks and flooding the city of Goeggingen, where many leading thread factories were under water.

Many of the inhabitants could be saved only with the aid of rowboats.

At Kaufbeuren textile mills also had to be closed because of the flood. The bodies of many dead animals were floating down the stream.

INVENTS 'WHALE'S FIN' TO PROPEL AND STEER SHIPS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, July 11.—Frans Heudorff, 33 year old German toolmaker, has been granted a patent on a new system of steamship propulsion. It is a finlike device and the inventor claims it will propel a ship across the ocean in two days.

Heudorff for 20 years has been studying the movements of a whale's fins. Now he has produced a model vessel equipped with similar mechanical fins. The fins are fitted in pairs along the sides of the ship—two, four or six, according to the speed desired. Each fin is separately controlled from the bridge. The officer in charge does not need to communicate orders to the engine room.

A rudder is not necessary. The ships maneuvers are carried out through the fins. The fins can also be worked to "lift up" the vessel and thus delay its sinking in the event of an accident, according to the inventor.

Hops for N. Y. Today

Los Angeles, Cal., July 11.—[Special.]—Mrs. Amelia Earhart Putnam is expected to hop off from Los Angeles municipal airport tomorrow for an attempted transcontinental nonstop record flight to New York. Her ship is the fast Lockheed-Vega cabin monoplane, powered by a Wasp motor, which she flew to Ireland, and, barring accidents or weather vagaries, she hopes to lower Lieutenant Commander Frank Hawks' west-east nonstop mark of 18 hours and 21 minutes made Feb. 5, 1929.

No woman ever has completed a nonstop flight across the United States. Four hundred and thirty gallons of gasoline were taken to the field in readiness for her flight.

IRISH MAY OUST KING'S AGENT IN ROW OVER SNUB

De Valera Not Expected to Make Apology.

BY HUGH CURRAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, July 11.—President Eamon de Valera and Gov. Gen. James McNeill, King George's representative in the Irish Free state, are in a deadlock tonight.

Mr. McNeill's removal from his post is a possibility. Contrary to the orders of the De Valera government, Mr. McNeill yesterday made public correspondence between himself and the head of the Free State government which grew out of the shabby treatment the king's representative insisted he has suffered at the hands of De Valera's government.

"I know that you have a majority in the dail and I know that you can have me removed," the governor general wrote in one of his letters to the republican president.

Still Holds Post.

He has not, however, been dismissed by the executive council, and if he is, it will be necessary to find another governor general to carry on. None imagines that De Valera will approach King George for a new appointment. It is also realized that neither can he adopt the other alternative—apologize to McNeill, apologies the governor general has demanded.

The two officials met for a conference tonight. They had not spoken for months.

The quarrel is without precedent in British empire relations. When the governor general disclosed the correspondence concerning the dispute last night despite the ban, De Valera promptly forbade its publication in newspapers under the "official secrets act."

Police ordered Dublin and Cork morning newspapers to remove the type. Even newspapers from northern Ireland containing the letters were confiscated as they entered Dublin, or were brought across the border by train passengers.

Releases New Letter.

The executive council met this morning and upon learning that the contents of the letters had been telegraphed to London and cabled to America, released the letters for publication.

At the same time, the Free State cabinet released a personal letter from President De Valera which McNeill did not make public. The letter was in reply to the governor general's first complaint regarding an incident at the French legation on April 23, when Vice President Seam. O'Kelly and Minister of Defense Frank Aiken left a party as soon as McNeill arrived.

In it De Valera denied that the incident was part of a deliberate policy to treat the governor general with discourtesy, either on the part of his council or the Irish press. The president further wrote that the incident was as embarrassing for the ministers concerned as for the governor general.

He expressed the view that if McNeill's public engagements were communicated to him in advance such an incident would not occur in the future.

106 Per Cent Tariff Bill Passed.

LONDON, July 11.—(AP)—Government supporters cheered tonight when the house of lords passed the act empowering the British government to impose retaliatory duties up to 100 per cent on goods of the Irish Free State. The house of commons had already approved the bill. By the measure, which only awaits royal assent, the government intends to recoup land annuities defaulted by the Free State.

BRITISH KING AND 2 PRINCES REVIEW FLEET

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

WEYMOUTH, England, July 11.—Wearing the uniform of admiral of the fleet, King George V. stood on the bridge as the royal yacht Victoria and Albert steamed between the lines of warships of the home fleet this afternoon. Just below him were the prince of Wales in a vice admiral's uniform and Prince George in a lieutenant's uniform.

This is the first time in eight years that the king has reviewed his fleet. Today some forty-six ships, manned by about 18,000 officers and men, assembled, in contrast to 1924, when the king reviewed 193 ships. The naval review today was less a display of power than a proof of the progress of disarmament.

The royal yacht was escorted by destroyers and the royal salute was fired as she came between the submarines and destroyers, each vessel's crew cheering as she drew abreast. On Thursday the whole fleet will put to sea to carry out exercises before his majesty.

Exempt Husbands of U. S. Women in Immigrant Quota

Washington, D. C., July 11.—(AP)—President Hoover today signed into law a bill to exempt husbands of American citizens from the immigration quota.

HARRY S. NEW MADE U. S. AID FOR WORLD FAIR

Harry S. New, former postmaster general and United States senator from Indiana, was appointed commissioner-general of the federal government's participation in the 1933 World's Fair by President Hoover yesterday. Rufus C. Dawes, president of the exposition, said that Mr. New would aid the fair materially in this country and abroad.

Last week President Hoover signed the general agricultural bill which appropriated $1,000,000 for the government's exhibits and building for the fair. Mr. New will confer with members of the President's cabinet to draw up plans for the federal activities.

A committee on social functions, with a wide range of duties, was appointed with Mrs. Rufus C. Dawes as chairman. Other members include Mr. Dawes, Mrs. Jacob Baur, Mr. and Mrs. Tiffany Blake, Walter Borden, Mr. and Mrs. E. I. Cudahy, Mr. and Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank, Senator and Mrs. James Hamilton Lewis, David Mayer, Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey McCormick, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Meeker, and Frederic W. Upham.

Thirteen new trustees were added to the board. They were George A. Ranney, Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, Gen. Robert E. Wood, D. A. Crawford, Albert D. Lasker, John F. Cuneo, Charles Ward Seabury, Gen. Milton J. Foreman, George Pick, Miss Agnes Nestor, Mrs. A. MacLeish, T. E. Donnelley, and Arthur W. Cutten.

In this High-pressure Age smokers want a Milder Cigarette

WE LIVE in a fast-moving age. We work harder . . . play harder . . . travel quicker. And we smoke more cigarettes.

But there's this about it: They have got to be milder today. In this high-pressure age, smokers don't like strong cigarettes.

About four miles of warehouses are filled with mild, ripe, Domestic tobaccos, stored away to age for two years to make them mild and mellow for CHESTERFIELD Cigarettes.

To make sure that CHESTERFIELD is a milder cigarette, the greater part of 90 million dollars is invested in the tobaccos used in CHESTERFIELD. These tobaccos are "Cross-Blended."

This "Welding" Together—or "Cross-Blending"—permits every kind of tobacco used in the CHESTERFIELD blend to partake of the best qualities of every other type. It's the same principle that Burbank used in crossing different fruits to make a still better fruit.

CHESTERFIELDS are milder . . . never harsh . . . and that's why, in this high-pressure age, more smokers, men and women, are changing to CHESTERFIELDS every day.

TELL OF GIVING BAIN BANKS GOOD BONDS FOR BAD

Widows Among Ex-Patrons Who Testify.

Former customers of the Bain banks told yesterday how they were induced to trade good mortgages and bonds for what Assistant State's Attorney Edwin J. Raber termed "bum stuff." They were witnesses at the trial of John Bain, his two sons and his son-in-law who are being tried before Judge John M. O'Connor on a charge of conspiracy in the failure of the twelve Baine banks. The case is being tried without a jury.

Most of these small investors were women, a number of them widows. Officials of the Bain banks advised them to bring in the mortgages or bonds they had and they exchanged them for other securities, they testified. The court was told that the collateral they brought in was used by Bain to obtain loans from downtown banks which had rejected the John Bain collateral trust bonds for security.

Widow Tells of Deal.

Mrs. Margaret Broderick, 7923 South Park avenue, a widow, said she owned a $3,000 mortgage that matured in July, 1931. By request she took it to the Chatham State bank on May 21, 1931, and it was redeemed. "Alex Eunson, the cashier, said he would get me another good mortgage," Mrs. Broderick testified.

"The bank kept the check for the mortgage. Mr. Bain told the cashier to take good care of me as I was a widow and a good customer. The bank closed before I got my money or anything else." [The Bain banks closed on June 9, 1931.]

Mrs. Barbara McCune, 7148 Ingleside avenue, said that in May, 1931, Robert Bain asked her to bring in her bonds for exchange and she was given a Chatham Tower bond. "It is worthless," she said.

"You didn't know the condition of the bond when you accepted it?" asked Assistant State's Attorney John Gallagher.

"No, or I wouldn't have taken it," she answered. "The Bains were friends of my dead husband and I trusted them."

Given Bonds for Mortgage.

Mrs. Rosa Beyer, 6627 Blackstone avenue, said she was asked to bring in a $5,500 mortgage and she was given something in exchange.

"I was told there was a subdivision behind the bonds they gave me, but after the crash I found out there was no subdivision," she said.

Mrs. Rosa Hausman, 6044 Laflin street, said she was told that because of a death, a refinancing of Chicago Lawn bonds she owned, was necessary. She said the cashier gave her second mortgage bonds in return, saying: "These are perfectly all right."

Mrs. Mary Macky, 6356 Laflin street, said she was advised to turn her Harvey Theater bonds over to the bank. "The cashier said he would give me something equally good," she testified. "He gave me Crawford Highland bonds. I trusted the bank and took what was handed me. I took these bonds (she exhibits them) to a bondholders' committee and was told it was a case for the law courts. I have only been in this country six years and didn't know anything about bonds."

Woman Tells of Exchange.

Mrs. Mary Stewart, 609 West 76th street, said she exchanged her good bond for a $1,000 bond on Normandy Hall and was told "doctors' buildings are always safe." It was explained that Dr. Walter Buhlig, partner of Bain in many deals, who was indicted with the banker, was the ostensible owner of this building. Prosecutor Raber contends that the building was grossly overvalued for the purpose of the bond issue.

Hiram Kadish, an auditor, testified that the Chicago Lawn property had a first mortgage of $266,000 and a second mortgage of $227,000 and that the Bains floated a bond issue of $375,000 to take up the first mortgage. Leon J. Falter, 6529 Kenwood avenue, former trust teller of the Stony Island bank, testified that on many occasions he signed mortgages for property he didn't own, at the request of Robert Bain.

GETS DIVORCE

LILLIAN RICH.

Los Angeles, Cal., July 11.—(AP)—Lillian Rich, film actress, was granted a divorce today from Lionel E. Nicholson, a Vancouver, B. C., radio announcer. "He left me two years ago," she testified. "He hasn't contributed one penny to my support since then."

FUGITIVE KILLER OF OHIO OFFICER IS FATALLY SHOT

Wounded After Leap from Bridge.

South Bend, Ind., July 11.—[Special.]—James O'Keefe, alias Storey, 22 year old desperado who in the last four days shot and killed a marshal of an Ohio town, wounded a physician in Toledo, and kidnaped two residents of the same city, today was fatally shot by the South Bend police when he attempted a sensational escape after being arrested.

Handcuffed, O'Keefe ran out of the city police station and, with policemen pursuing him and firing, dashed to a bridge over the St. Joseph river and leaped off. He landed on the bank, fracturing one of his wrists. A bullet struck him in the abdomen, but he then plunged into the river and attempted to get away by swimming. He was recaptured when the current carried him to shore about a hundred yards downstream. He died at 8 o'clock tonight.

At the Epworth hospital, where he was taken, O'Keefe confessed that he was guilty of the killing of Marshal Jay Davis of North Baltimore, O., on Friday.

"It was that copper or me," he declared. "I had to kill him."

O'Keefe and his brothers, 16 year old Bert and 18 year old Manley O'Keefe, were together when Marshal Davis tried to arrest them. In the battle the marshal wounded Bert before the eldest brother killed him. Bert and Manley were arrested at North Baltimore.

The third brother, however, leaped into an automobile and compelled a boy to drive him to Toledo. There he tried to take the automobile of Dr. Martin Larkin, superintendent of a hospital. The doctor resisted and was shot and seriously wounded.

O'Keefe's next exploit was to kidnap John Hova of Toledo and his 9 year old nephew, William Kresin. Hova was forced to drive him to South Bend.

MAN WHO MIGHT HAVE BEEN KING OF ALBANIA DIES

Brookline, Mass., July 11.—(AP)—George Fred Williams, 76, a Boston lawyer, who might have been king of Albania had he wished, died today in a Brookline nursing home. He had been prominent in politics and served for a time as United States minister to Greece and Montenegro.

It was as a result of his interest in the tiny kingdom of Albania that his diplomatic career came to an end, and because of his efforts in behalf of the country that he was offered a post in its government that might have placed him on the throne. He declined the place and returned to the United States to work toward the rehabilitation of Albania.

Woodrow Wilson appointed Williams minister to Greece.

He learned of a plot against Albanian leaders and, according to his own version of the incident as he later related it, his undiplomatic and blunt protest made it necessary for him to leave the diplomatic service.

Wife of Millionaire's Son Attaches Estate for Alimony

Los Angeles, Cal., July 11.—[Special.]—Mrs. Alice Bunch Earl, 22 year old society wife of Chaffee Earl, son of the late millionaire capitalist Edwin T. Earl, today caused sheriff's attachments to be imposed against her husband's race horses, oil wells, automobiles, city and country homes, and other assets and properties, due to Earl's asserted failure to pay $650 monthly separation alimony pending the couple's settlement in court.

Calumet City Boy, 16, Drowns as Brothers Watch

Grand Haven, Mich., July 11.—(AP)—Fred Schoemaker, 16, son of Mrs. Salome Schoemaker of Calumet City, Ill., was drowned today in Pottawatamie lake, near here, while his two brothers, Henry, 21, and Carl, 23, looked on, unable to save him.

TAX JUDGMENTS ASKED ON HALF COUNTY REALTY

Action Is Taken Against Delinquent Taxpayers.

County Attorney Hayden N. Bell applied yesterday to County Judge Jarecki for judgments against 600,000 parcels of real estate in the county on which 1930 taxes are delinquent. Judge Jarecki gave notice that he will enter judgments on July 25 against all the properties which are not protected by objections.

HAYDEN BELL.

At the same time he set noon on Saturday as the deadline for the filing of 1930 tax objections. Last year there were 17,500 objections filed, a record number up to that time. This year the objections are expected to number 20,000. These will cover a much larger number of individual properties, however, since a property owner may file a single objection for all of his property, or a group of property owners may pool their objections if the grounds on which they protest are the same.

Court Year and Half Behind.

The county court is now a year and a half behind in hearing tax objections. Objections against the 1927 levy have been cleared up, and about half of those against the 1928 levy have been heard. Few of the 1929 objections, involving a total of $50,000,000 in taxes, have been heard, aside from the Cisar suit, which was a test case.

Assistant State's Attorney James Clancy, in charge of the trial of tax objections, said yesterday that objections already filed against 1930 taxes differ from those of recent years in that taxpayers do not feel so much that their taxes are unjust. Many objections are being filed, he said, because property owners have not the money to pay taxes, and are filing objections as a technical means of avoiding a cloud on the title of their property by a sale for delinquency. They have to pay the delinquency penalty of 1 per cent a month if their objections are overruled.

Half of County Realty.

The properties on which 1930 taxes are delinquent are listed in 574 tax books, and comprise half of the real estate parcels in the county.

Judge Jarecki announced that he will treat the motions of County Treasurer McDonough under his quarterly payment plan for collecting delinquent taxes as objections, and will remit half of the penalty to taxpayers availing themselves of this plan.

Collections under the quarterly payment plan continued yesterday to exceed the rate of collections under the old full payment plan. Last Thursday, the day on which the first quarterly payments were received following ratification of the plan by the county board, collections were $95,371. Tax payments yesterday were $169,122, and brought the total of 1930 taxes paid to $147,106,341.

SENATE VOTES $25,000 TO SIFT EXPENSE OF PRESIDENTIAL RACE

Washington, D. C., July 11.—[Special.]—With both major political parties scraping the bottom of their purses for money with which to elect a President this fall the senate today went ahead and passed the resolution of Senator Dickinson [Rep., Ia.] authorizing an investigation of the coming presidential and senatorial campaign expenditures. But even the senate felt the pinch of poverty, for the appropriation of $100,000 originally asked for was cut to $25,000.

The committee in charge of this investigation of expenditures for which the money is not yet forthcoming will be Senator Howell [Rep., Neb.], chairman, and Senators Townsend [Rep., Del.], Carey [Rep., Wyo.], Bratton [Dem., N. M.], and Connally [Dem., Tex.].

Today's resolution forbids the appointment on the investigating committee of any senator whose colleague is up for reelection this fall.

The house has passed a resolution calling for an inquiry into the expenses of candidates for President, Vice President, and candidates for congress. Representative Ragon [Dem., Ark.] heads this committee.

BANKS TO RENEW DETROIT'S LOANS IF CITY SLASHES

Detroit, Mich., July 11.—[Special.]—The city council was informed today that if outstanding notes are to be renewed by New York and Detroit banks, it must adopt Mayor Murphy's plan for budget cuts totaling $7,000,000 and put into force the 5-day week for city employes.

Failure to obtain note renewals, it was made clear, would result in the cutting off of the city's income entirely, since the banks would be privileged to take over the tax income to apply against the obligations. Should the proposed plan be adopted by the council it was promised that New York and Detroit banks will renew the outstanding loans indefinitely. It was also stated that there would be no hope of getting New York banks to reduce the interest rate below six per cent, which is what the city of New York is required to pay.

Interest Rate Reduced.

Detroit banks have already cut interest rates from 6 to 5½ per cent, which is lower than the average of their outstanding loans, and have agreed to allow New York banks to get their entire principal out of the outstanding loans before the local banks get anything on the principal.

The five day week ordinance presented to the council for adoption by Mayor Murphy last week imposes a 14⅓ per cent additional salary cut on city employes for the one day off a week which they would have to take under the ordinance.

Mayor Murphy's Program.

Mayor Murphy's plan contemplates three things:

"1. Cooperation of the city's creditors in allowing the city to continue its notes. We are not going to embarrass you about the principal of those notes. What is more, to get the New York banks to come along, we have told them 'the Detroit banks won't get back a cent of their principal until you do,' and that will be some little time. They know it and we know it.

"2. The city must put into effect every possible economy. The five day week is the absolute minimum which can be done on the part of the city.

"3. The confidence and cooperation of the large taxpayers of Detroit, to prepay their taxes to carry Detroit through this fiscal year. This means paying their taxes for the second half of the year in advance and marketing securities of the city to the extent of $20,000,000 to carry the city through the second half of the year."

STEAL TRUCK AND $526.

SIX EXAMINERS ARE WITNESSES IN MILLER TRIAL

Six bank examiners were called as witnesses yesterday at the trial in Waukegan of William H. Miller, former director of the Waukegan State bank, on a charge of conspiracy. The purpose of the testimony, as introduced by State's Attorney A. V. Smith, was to show that the bank was insolvent in September, 1930, and that a conspiracy existed which kept it open until June 17, 1931.

The examiners testified that State Auditor Oscar Nelson had complained that all except $52,000 of the $250,000 capital was wiped out. One examiner, Mark Wagner, testified to finding an item showing an alleged deposit by the National Bank of the Republic of Chicago of $500,000, and that the Waukegan bank had put up more than $300,000 as collateral to insure that deposit, which Smith claims was never made.

Frank Brence said he wanted to take his money out of the bank the day it was closed, but the president, Norman O. Geyer, told him the bank was safe and urged him to leave it.

Mrs. Margaret Kirby, treasurer of the Waukegan park board, said the park board had $55,000 on deposit which was bonded until May 1, 1931. She asked to have it renewed, but Geyer, who is also under indictment, promised from day to day to furnish a new bond but didn't before the bank was closed, she testified.

FIRST-CHOICE or SECOND-choice

Why do you suppose that Goodyear Tires lead all others in public preference by better than two to one?

Why do you suppose that more people ride on Goodyear Tires than on any other kind — and have for 17 years?

These tires must be FIRST-CHOICE because they're better.

They must outsell all other tires in the world because they outrun them on the road.

On a straight quality basis, then, it certainly looks like common sense to buy FIRST-CHOICE tires.

Most of the best things on the market naturally cost more than the second-raters.

But here's the amazing fact about tires:

You can get the safety, the quality, the extra life and trouble-free mileage of the world's greatest tires at no extra cost.

Think that over when somebody tries to high-pressure you into buying an unknown or doubtful bargain.

DANDRUFF

A SIGN OF APPROACHING BALDNESS

You dislike dandruff on your coat collar, where it harms only your personal appearance. Why, then, tolerate it on your scalp, where it chokes the growing hair, causes your scalp to itch, and leads you to baldness?

Thomas treatment overcomes dandruff quickly and surely. Call today for a free scalp examination. The Thomas specialist will first determine exactly which type of dandruff is causing your hair loss (common types are seborrhea oleosa, seborrhea sicca, pityriasis) and will then direct the 16-year proved Thomas method to overcome your specific trouble. Thomas treatment replaces old-fashioned "hit or miss" speculation with modern, precise, scientific knowledge.

If you postpone treatment, your scalp condition will become more serious. Come in at once for a free scalp examination and learn how Thomas treatment overcomes dandruff, stops falling hair and grows hair on the thin or bald spots.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

DESTROYING THE SOURCE OF RECOVERY.

The report of the treasury department on internal revenue receipts, just made public, tells a story the moral of which the American people had better apply without delay. It is a story of vanishing revenue, of taxable wealth destroyed by the exactions of public expenditure, of the vital financial strength of the nation crushed under the burden of taxation.

The figures are sensational. No thinking citizen can ignore them or misunderstand them, although the present congress has turned its back upon them.

Take for example, for lack of space, the figures in the 1st Illinois district. Total receipts from this district in 1929 were over 220 million dollars. By 1932 they had fallen to 101 million. In one year for the whole country receipts have fallen from a little short of two billion and a half to a little over one billion and a half, or a loss in actual amount of $873,995,391, from 1931 to 1932.

The great loss has been registered in the radical politicians' favorite tax, the income tax, individual and corporation, which has dropped from $1,263,414,460 in corporation income taxes in 1930 to $629,603,704 in 1932.

In short, the total federal revenue from income taxes has dropped from a little short of two billion and a half in 1930 to one billion fifty-six million in 1932.

These corporate and individual incomes are the main reservoir from which the economic vitality of the nation must be restored. It has been drained perilously and disastrously by exorbitant government expenditure. It is the reservoir from which industrial, commercial and agricultural restoration must come, if it is to come at all. It is the source, and the only source, from which the reemployment of the millions of unemployed can be obtained. It is the only source from which there can be relief for the debt laden farmer, the workless wage earner, the home owner on the verge of expulsion, the business man and the banker. To destroy it, as it is being destroyed, is to destroy them all. The demagogue, the radical subversionist, the sentimentalist, the impractical experimenter, the self-seeking job holder and the bureaucrat are fighting to maintain this process of fatal depletion. They must be defeated by the people if the nation is not to be ruined.

RADICALISM ON THE DEFENSIVE.

Radicalism in Wisconsin is gravely shocked at the new bad manners of its political opponents. Young Mr. Chapple, who audaciously wants to go to the United States senate, has no respect for the toniest personages of the radical doctrinaires nor is his voice stilled by the solemn dignity of the highest offices in which they have entrenched themselves. Senator Ben Gettelman, as everybody knows, is a fellow from Milwaukee who doesn't care what he says about anybody and has an exasperating way of presenting annoying facts backed up by the record of legislative votes. Howard Greene, a farmer, newly active in political life, has been talking among the farmers and they are believing him. THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE also has been upsetting the serenity of the reigning powers and menacing their political security.

The office holders are bewildered. They have at last been getting a taste of their own medicine. Some one has stuffed an iron hand into the velvet glove and has put a punch into the soft answer the radicals have grown used to expect. It has stunned them. The governor's newest campaign pronouncement is a weak repetition of the one time valorous challenges he has emitted.

For thirty years the radicals in Wisconsin have engaged in vituperation and slander. Lacking in argument, they have stilled their opponents by the violence of their abuse and by their mendacity. Former Gov. Kohler was lied and slandered out of office, Chapple told a recent gathering of Wisconsin Republicans, and not a soul arose to defend the political clique which opposed him.

Wisconsin citizens and Wisconsin newspapers have feared to express themselves on public affairs, knowing an adverse opinion would invite an attack, unfair, dishonest, and unprincipled.

The technique of radicalism, which is not one that appeals to decency, has prevailed and opposition has been silenced. Now what a difference it makes whose ox is gored.

THE TRIBUNE has never resorted to their type of statement. It has presented facts when the radicals have proclaimed vague generalities. It has adhered scrupulously to the truth. It has made understatement rather than overstatement, while they, consciously emulating the bolsheviks, consider a lie as useful as the truth. If one story doesn't work, forget it and try another.

It shatters them to bits to find their own guns directed against them, although for thirty years they have been searching the dictionaries for violent adjectives and abusive epithets for any who did not agree with them.

The radicals were condemned a good many years among their neighbors as well meaning visionaries. They have just lately become recognized as conscienceless politicians ready to sacrifice anyone and anything for the building of an irresistible, self-perpetuating machine.

Their toes have been stepped on and they are surprised and pained.

MR. ROOSEVELT ACCEPTS THE ELECTION.

Gov. Roosevelt having offered his good offices to President Hoover in the St. Lawrence waterway negotiations with Canada, the President declines the assistance. Mr. Roosevelt may or may not have felt hesitant to suggest that he would help Mr. Hoover. If he did, and it may be suspected that he didn't, he finally forced himself to it. Mr. Hoover apparently felt no hesitancy at all. He suppressed Mr. Roosevelt immediately and finally.

There were several intimations in the New York governor's communication and none of them pleasant to the man in the White House. One was that without the governor's assistance the matter would not be well handled. A President need not stand for that, least of all from the man who is the candidate for his place. Another intimation was probably even less pleasing. It was that by early March of next year Mr. Roosevelt would be charged with responsibility and it would be well for him to have a hand in the treaty now.

Mr. Roosevelt, in the opinion of Mr. Hoover, was passing over November entirely too lightly. He was warming up in the bull pen too soon. Mr. Hoover cannot be blamed for not being willing to concede that he is about to be chased to the showers by a bad inning.

A SOUND APPOINTMENT.

The appointment of Mr. Gardner Cowles of Des Moines to the board of the Reconstruction Finance corporation met with prompt confirmation from the senate, as it should have. As a banker, Mr. Cowles has had wide experience in financial affairs, particularly as they touch the farmers of the corn belt. Many men might undertake to speak for the farmer, but few are as well equipped as Mr. Cowles is to state the farmers' claims for relief in language which will be intelligible to men whose training has been largely financial.

Mr. Cowles' principal qualification for the post, however, is his long experience as a newspaper publisher. He knows conditions in the central states as no man whose viewpoint is merely that of a banker can know them. He knows people as well as balance sheets and the humble people among his subscribers as well as the wealthier clients of the banks. When people are clamoring for relief the instinct of the banker is to say "No," and the instinct of the publisher, aware as he is of the difficulties under which his people are laboring, is to say "Yes." Coming to his high office with training in both fields, Mr. Cowles may be counted upon to say, "Let's see what can be done for this bank and its depositors without too great a sacrifice of the principles of sound finance."

That is the attitude which led to the creation of the Reconstruction corporation and which should determine its policies. Mr. Cowles' appointment is an assurance that the resources of the corporation will be lent where they will do the most good without placing an undue risk upon the taxpayers.

THE FEDERAL PADLOCK.

Assistant United States District Attorney James C. Leaton informs the public, with some feeling of triumph, it would appear, that the year ending June 30 saw more federal padlocking under liquor injunctions in the Chicago area than ever before. The permanent injunctions were increased by 55 per cent over the year before.

Official satisfaction in that record is satisfaction in a process of law enforcement which dodges trial by jury and is not viewed with general approval. It is an evasion of a guarantee, a device resorted to when law finds itself outside the sentiment of a people upon whom it is imposed. It substitutes arbitrary procedure for the day in court which an accused person is supposed to have.

The year in which this district made a new record in summary court procedure was a year in which throughout the country there was a revulsion of unexpected recoil against the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead act. It was reflected in the abandonment of national prohibition in both party conventions, even the Republican management recognizing that states opposed to it cannot be forced to take it.

In view of this political—political in the sense also of being governmental—recessional from dry Cæsarism the courts might well accept their release from the arbitrary methods forced upon them when national prohibition was riding high and unchecked in its demands upon law enforcement.

Editorial of the Day

THE CONVENTION ON THE AIR.

[Grand Rapids Herald.]

Radio Station W-G-N is the only station in the country which is broadcasting all proceedings of the Democratic national convention. It was the only station which was on the air during the presentation of the party platforms with the tumultuous greeting accorded the "repeal plank" Wednesday night. The big radio chains took up the broadcast later, but neither chain carried the all night session Thursday. Those who wanted to hear the nominating speeches and the roll call of states had to listen to W-G-N.

There is a reason why W-G-N is on the air with this big news while the chains carry profitable advertising programs. W-G-N is owned by a newspaper, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. Its management is newspaper management, which means that it feels the obligation to serve its public. We do not say this by way of boasting over the service which newspapers render, but rather as a plain statement of fact which anybody familiar with newspapers knows to be fact.

Nor do we pretend that there is altruism in such service. Newspapers know that their readers depend upon them to keep them informed. If they fail their readers lose confidence, and reader confidence is the greatest asset any newspaper has. Because of this obligation the Herald and thousands of others newspapers all over the country expended considerable sums in maintaining twenty-four hour vigilance during the period when return of the kidnaped Lindbergh baby was anticipated, and from that investment not a penny of direct return could be expected. It costs, as most people know, more money to produce a copy of a newspaper than is represented by the return from circulation.

W-G-N is doing a newspaper's job on the air in broadcasting the convention. The Herald sometimes disagrees with THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, but we admire the kind of enterprise that inspires heavy investment for no other purpose than to carry out the obligation of news dissemination.

SOME THOUGHTS ON JULY.

July is named for Caius Julius Cæsar
Or from him; take your prepositions neat
Or mix them: I am utterly indifferent
In this heat.

It was (and is) the seventh month in season;
It has some thirty-one days all complete,
Which may be few or many: I'll not argue
In this heat.

It is a doldrum month for merry mankind,
Dubs and directors sweatily must meet
And fan themselves and curse the thought of quotas
In this heat.

Alike, they're enervated by their efforts;
Alike, they would not practice gross deceit
Alike, they would not think of much exertion
In this heat.

Except to fish, mayhap, a three-mile trout stream,
Or play some thirty-six holes, as a treat,
They could not think of serious endeavor
In this heat.

MANUFACTURERS' NEWSBOY.

SENATOR BINGHAM trotted out his pet beer bill yesterday, but it didn't get many cheers. We admire Mr. Bingham's perseverance, but we do wish somebody would take him to one side and explain that 2.75 per cent beer which he is shrieking about isn't a bit more exciting than buttermilk and hasn't near as much kick as sauerkraut juice. When we said we wanted beer, senator, we said BEER.

POSTMASTER GENERAL BROWN says he is going to "abolish Christmas" unless some method is found to furlough postal employes during slack mail periods. Well, he can abolish Christmas for all we care; all the presents we've got the last three or four Christmases have been picture cards saying "The Merry Doodashers Send You Happy Greetings" or "Bill, Tootsie, and Little Cuthbert Wish You a Gladsome Yuletide." The postmaster general can go ahead and abolish Christmas if he feels that way about it. Since Old Man Depression has been stalking around Christmas to us brings naught but a pain in the neck.

ORACLE.

NEW YORK CITY is thinking of retiring its Civic Virtue statue in City Hall square to somewhere in the wilds of Far Rockaway or over on the Jersey side. It isn't only because the fat moron carved in stone is a horrible thing to see, but because all visitors to Gotham when they hear the name of the statue "Civic Virtue" sit down and laugh and laugh and laugh. There hain't no sich animule.

SONNET

TO FRANK B. SHUFFELTON.

How clear all skirts must be if one would dare
To criticize Jeanne De Lamarter's sonnet,
To point each error that the world may stare
And gloatingly feast greedy eyes upon it.
This critic knew the rules his colleague broke,
Yes, knew them well, yet oddly could contrive
To use inversion for a sage word's cloak
And faulty riming of derived and five.
Contractions are passé and he must know
Archaic phrase should lean upon a crutch,
All which but proves how faults of others glow,
How prone we are to criticize too much.

THE SILVER KNIGHT.

PRESIDENT HOOVER put a veto on Mr. Garner's two billion dollar relief bill yesterday. But that won't stop Mr. Garner, and perhaps it would be advisable for the White House to put in a multiple automatic vetoing machine which only has to be wound up every eight days. And they can hire a boy to do the winding. R. H. L.

LO! THE POOR BREAD BASKET.

The myriad minded playwright evidently considered that nature was only taking its course when a rounded protuberance in the midsection developed in the course of middle life. It is not so now, and if the great dramatist was right the average man of middle life is a better physical specimen now than he was in that day. Our very extensive modern literature on girth control is pretty good evidence that we want to keep on improving the average.

Let us not wholly condemn the "fair round belly." In the first place not every man that has a midsection protuberance has a large girth measure. Many men are swaybacked. Some are so because of spinal curvatures, while some are that way because they have been taught to stand with their shoulders thrown back. Swaybacked persons have prominent abdomens even though they do not have large waistlines.

Again, short-bodied persons are likely to have prominent abdomens not wholly dependent on obesity. If a man must accumulate adipose tissue he could select a worse place in which to store his savings. In that location fat is not very much in the way and a fairly prominent protuberance is not a bar to a certain degree of athletic prowess of a kind. There are a few professional baseball players who, while not exactly of Falstaffian proportions, have had enough of a midsection to make it difficult for them to see their toes. One that the writer remembers was a very good slugger when at the bat, ran bases rapidly, in addition to being able to slide on his face without skinning his shins. He played in the outfield and could cover ground very well.

Perhaps the most noted of all swimming instructors has enough abdomen for two men. While he trains from the shore or sits on a box in a boat, if he follows his man in a race he is capable of jumping into the water and performing as well as any one else. Among long distance swimmers a fair number of high grade performers have more equator than the rules call for, and professional wrestlers are not exactly syiphs.

Fat in the legs is not only dead weight made worse by leverage, but it crowds the muscles. Fat in the arms is even worse for an athlete. Fat in the heart region of the chest is worst of all. But fat around the coils of the digestive tract is about as much out of the way as it is possible for fat to be. Nature provides an abdominal apron, called the omentum. This is a fine structure for fat holding purposes. In prominent abdomens the omentum is heavily laden with fat.

Nevertheless nobody wants a protruding abdomen, and tomorrow's story will deal with methods of removal.

RASH ON FACE.

M. H. S. writes: I have had a fine rash on my face for over a year. It started at the temples, spread gradually over the face, and is now also on the neck. I have used a salve and it disappears temporarily, but when I stop using it the rash reappears. A physician I consulted told me it was caused by chemicals in the face powder. I discontinued the use of powder for three weeks and the rash appeared to get worse.

REPLY.

There are many kinds of face eruptions and they are due to a variety of causes. Your physician thought this one was due to some chemical contained in face powder. If it is not, it may be due to rouge, or dyes used on the hair, brows, or lashes.

DIET AND WORK.

Mrs. I. K. writes: What causes one to put on so much weight after childbirth? My baby is 11 months old and I keep gaining weight right along. I have been on a diet for weeks and I do not lose an ounce. Before the baby came I weighed 120 pounds and now I weigh 170. Will I stay this heavy or is there a way I can lose it? I am a light eater and do not take much sweets. My baby is bottle fed.

REPLY.

Many young mothers get fat, particularly if they bottle feed the baby. It is partly the result of ductless gland action, but principally because of their habits. If they allot it on the ductless glands they usually stay put. If they are willing to face the facts and work more and eat less there is hope for them. You think you are a small eater and that you have been dieting. Doubtless you are honest with everybody but yourself.

ABOUT GROWING.

J. W. writes: 1. Up to what age does a person grow?

2. What foods should one eat to promote growth?

REPLY.

1. In height, until 17 years of age; in weight, until about 30. It is best not to put on fat after 30.

2. There are no "growing diets." If a child gets enough food and eats the usual American diet he will have the elements he needs to carry out his program of growth.

NOT TOO OLD.

N. R. writes: 1. Is it dangerous for a woman to give birth to her first child at the age of 30?

2. Is it more serious at 31 than at 30?

3. Which is the best month to give birth in?

REPLY.

1. Not especially.
2. No.
3. There is no great difference.

TRY FOOT POWDER.

M. G. writes: My feet ache and burn. I am all right in the morning, but by noon I am in misery.

REPLY.

Get a good foot powder. Wash your feet and then dust them with this powder. Dust well the inside of your shoes.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

JULY 12, 1916.

LONDON. — The capture of the whole of the Germans' first system of defense on a front of 14,000 yards [nearly eight miles] after ten days and nights of continuous fighting is announced in the official report from British headquarters in France. The number of prisoners taken exceeds 7,500. The war office announcement on today's fighting says the British recaptured nearly the whole of the Trones wood. The British advance in the wood followed all night fighting over the front as far as Ovillers and La Boisselle. The British bombed their way forward, clearing the way with each step, toward the German second line on the ridges beyond the wood. Much of Mametz wood also fell into the hands of the British, who remained in possession of Contalmaison, holding it against German counter attacks and furious shell fire. The infantry is at such close quarters in the Trones wood that the guns on neither side are firing at the first line for fear of hitting their own men.

NEW YORK.—New cases of infantile paralysis to the number of 195 and thirty-two deaths are the record of the last twenty-four hours in Greater New York. There is an increase of nearly 100 per cent over yesterday's record in the number of deaths from the disease in all the city's boroughs.

CHIHUAHUA CITY, Mexico.—Two Villa bands attacked Carranza garrisons at Rosario and Parral, but in both cases were beaten off with losses, according to official reports to Gen. Trevino. From Rosario the bandits were driven south toward the Durango line by government troops under Gens. Gacito and Hernandez. Other reports to Gen. Trevino indicated that a scouting patrol from Parral had encountered one of the small bands of outlaws, who scattered after the attack on Jimenez, in the vicinity of El Valle, and had driven them into the hills.

BALTIMORE, Md.—Confident that the effort of the diplomatic representatives of the entente allies to have his vessel classed as a warship and interned will prove unavailing, Capt. Paul Koenig, master of the German submarine Deutschland, is preparing to leave port on his return voyage within ten days. Capt. Koenig expressed satisfaction but no surprise when informed that three American naval officers, who inspected the Deutschland to determine its status, had reported in effect that not only was it an unarmed merchant vessel now but was so constructed that it could not be converted into a war craft without virtually being rebuilt.

BERLIN.—The official Austro-Hungarian statement of July 10 reports the continuance of heavy fighting on the Italian front. Monte Corno was captured by the Italians, but was won back by Austro-Hungarian troops, which took prisoner 455 Italians. An Italian attack in the sector of Monte Interrotto failed. Austro-Hungarian airplanes again have bombarded the Italian military establishments at Adria.

TODAY'S QUESTION.

What are steels and some reasons for their industrial and economic importance?

[This question will be repeated and answered in this space tomorrow.]

YESTERDAY'S QUESTION.

How is matter believed to be constituted?

ANSWER.

Matter is built of minute units of positive electricity called protons and equal units of negative electricity called electrons. Ordinarily, these are present in equal numbers, and the electrical character of matter becomes evident only when this equality is disturbed. Aggregates of protons and electrons constitute atoms. The simplest atom, hydrogen, consists of a single proton acting as a nucleus around which one electron is circling; heavier atoms have positively charged nuclei consisting of more protons than electrons; enough additional electrons move in complex patterns about the nucleus to maintain electrical neutrality. There are 92 varieties of atoms, each characterized by the charge on its nucleus. In some substances, atoms exist uncombined; in most, atoms are joined with others forming molecules, as a result of electrical and magnetic forces. Elements consist of molecules containing only one variety of atom; compounds consist of molecules containing several varieties of atoms.

ALLEY AND LOTS CLEANED.

Chicago, July 6.—[Friend of the People.]—On Rockwell street there is a vacant lot which is used as a dumping ground by a great many people of the neighborhood. Also a happy hunting ground for a flock of mice and rats. The odor is terrible when the weather is warm. What steps must be taken to have this nuisance abated? F. J. K.

Report is made that alley and vacant lots referred to are now in satisfactory condition. Notices have also been served on surrounding householders to stop further dumping and to provide regulation containers for the accommodation of refuse output. Location will be kept under observation to see that notices are complied with.

JOSEPH J. BUTLER,
Superintendent of streets.

JOINT TENANCY.

Chicago, July 1.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. My mother bought all of her property in joint tenancy with one of her sons, his name appearing on the deeds. In her will she left one parcel of the property to me, her other son, and the other parcel of property was willed to the son whose name is on the deeds of both pieces of property. Will this alter the joint tenancy on the piece of property she willed me? Will the son whose name appears on the deeds get both pieces of property? 2. This property is located in Georgia but she has lived in Chicago for the last five years. Where should her will be probated? J. C.

1. The facts are not clear. In general a will is ineffective as to property held in joint tenancy, since the interest of the joint tenant who dies first terminates at his death and he has nothing to leave by will.

2. Technically, the proper course would be to probate here and have ancillary proceedings in Georgia, but your attorney may decide that it is preferable to have the only proceedings in Georgia.

NORMAN THOMAS VIEWS THE CAMPAIGN.

Chicago, July 7.—At the outset of what promises to be a most strenuous national campaign I think it would be of value to the many readers of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE to have placed on record the Socialist reaction to the recent Republican and Democratic conventions.

The political stage has been set, the players selected and the lines written. Looking at the prolix, badly written Republican platform one is tempted to say: "Hoover, that's all." Its wordy nothings and its essential indecisions are characteristic of a man and a party owned body and soul by big business, but obliged to make a gesture to the masses; a man and a party long ago forced to ignore all they ever said about rugged individualism, but recoiling in horror from using the powers of government decently and efficiently in the service of the workers. By and large the Republican appeal will be frankly conservative, if not reactionary. The party will seek to capitalize the timidity and cupidity of those, big and little, who still own something, conceding to the unemployed and to the farmer only so much as they are compelled to by force.

The Democrats will play progressive, especially as they think that term is understood in the rural regions of the south and west. Not radical, God forbid—but "liberal"—a kind of "all things to all men," something for everybody is their promise. Their platform, after one recovers from surprise that it is actually readable, is an amazingly conservative document. The New York Times exults that it is "fully as sound as the Republican" and that "there is not one wild nostrum or disturbing proposal in the whole list." For candidates the Democrats present Roosevelt and Garner. All that one needs to say about the latter is that in his own eyes and his party's he thought it adequate reward on his record to be paid for a political deal by being taken out of the responsibilities of the speaker's chair—responsibilities he had badly botched—and "promoted" to be the Democratic choice for the post made everlastingly famous by Alexander Throttlebottom!

Mr. Roosevelt's liberalism or progressivism will bear analysis. Mr. Roosevelt is personally a charming gentleman. For the rest he is a tolerably shrewd and very lucky politician, in no sense a leader, who owes his reputation in the quarters where he is strong mostly to the attacks of his enemies. What a curious picture! Political beneficiary at Chicago of Tammany's opposition, he has heretofore groveled before Tammany. Blessed by Senator Norris as the foe of monopoly, he has within the last two years completely dropped his fight for adequate regulation—to say nothing of ownership—of the power trust in his own state. Hailed as a friend of the poor, his record on unemployment relief in New York state is the record of a man who has availed himself of every excuse to do next to nothing. For instance, only the other day he acknowledged the validity of our Socialist demand for immediate action—and acted not at all! Months ago he renounced his former belief in the league of nations, virtually at the behest of Mr. Randolph Hearst. At Chicago he got his reward.

High in the councils of this "progressive" is A. Mitchell Palmer, most despicable foe of civil liberty in American history. And his field general is none other than Jim Farley, who brings to politics the lack of principle and the low sense of strategy of the prize fight game.

So much of personality do the facts compel us to indulge in. But our great fight is not against a man, or even a party, but against the whole capitalist system. No, let me put it positively. Our great fight is for Socialism! Our enemy is not either the Republican or the Democratic party. It is Fascism, last stand of capitalism, which sweeps on with the aid of the old parties or despite them. Its march is aided by the profound distrust of millions of our fellow citizens that anything vital can be done by politics. Is that not in large part the explanation of the strange absorption of both conventions in liquor while men starve for bread? Prohibition, men cynically believe, the politicians can handle, but not poverty.

To meet this disillusionment we Socialists offer three things:

1. A philosophy that is radical, for it does go to the root of things; it brings to men the vision of a classless society, the federated coöperative commonwealth of mankind.

2. A practical program that offers something new—never forget that masses of men will never vote for deeper purgatory now on a dubious road to paradise, hence the importance of a well thought out program that grows from more to more.

3. An organization big enough and broad enough to give room to all those who desire the emancipation of workers with hand and brain, of every speech and race from exploitation, insecurity, and fear of war, not by any miracle from on high, but by their own solidarity and coöperative action.

Socialist Candidate for President.

WHERE THE TAXES GO.

Chicago, July 8.—The other day I became interested in watching department of public works employes put a new valve on the water main on Clark street and Farwell avenue in Rogers Park.

There were eleven men on this job. A plumber I know passed by and told me the laborers got 75 cents an hour, the others $1.10. I watched for about two hours and only saw five men do any [illegible]; the rest were lounging around the truck.

It was pretty much of a joke to nontaxpayers, but, paying a large real estate tax and now a personal property tax, it was not a joke to me and others in the same fix. J. P. KASH.

SCHOOL ECONOMIES PROPOSED.

Chicago, July 2.—As a taxpayer I wish to condemn the employment of school engineers during the two and a half summer months when the schools are closed. This costs the city about $500,000. There is also no reason why the board of education office with its oversupply of clerks should be kept open all summer long, especially since our children have had to suffer a shortened school term.

TAXPAYER AND PARENT.

CASH.

Chicago, July 4.—Not all of the present day idleness is involuntary. Many a business and professional man is really idle or nearly so because he refuses to render his usual service except on a strictly cash basis. He prefers, instead, to spend the greater part of his time away from his office on matters not at all connected with his occupation.

JAMES E. ERICKSON.

ONLY ONE PHONE BOOK.

Evanston, Ill., July 2.—I live in Evanston and have just received my new telephone book—the suburban number only, the city directory being conspicuous by its absence. Thinking it only an oversight I called up the phone company and was informed that as our bill was only a nominal sum last month we were not allotted a Chicago directory. Is this an example of the service that the company continually stresses in its full page advertisements or it is a means of economy at the expense of the public's good will and patience? VIRGINIA TODD.

THE SLOGAN FOR BOTH PARTIES.

Chicago, July 3.—The campaign slogan for both parties is now the same: "Hurrah for depression!" E. G. E.

POLICE INVISIBLE AS AUTOS SPEED IN WEST PARKS

But Report of "Strike" on Force Is Untrue.

Motorists scooted along the fifty-four miles of west parks boulevards yesterday with never an apprehensive glance behind. They had suddenly awakened to the fact that park policemen were rarely in evidence.

"Have the west park police gone on a strike?" one west sider queried THE TRIBUNE. "They've only been paid once in eleven months like the other park employés and maybe they've decided to quit work."

Inasmuch as W. R. James, president of the west park board, announced less than a month ago that 35 policemen had been added to the force, making a total of 175 policemen available for duty, the scarcity of policemen seemed worthy of investigation. A reporter went touring. He kept a watch for the uniforms of park policemen.

What a Reporter Finds.

Washington and Sacramento boulevard—1:30 p. m. West park policemen leaning on fence, talking to young woman.

Central Park boulevard and Lake street—northern entrance to Garfield park; 1:40 p. m. West park policemen talking to young woman.

Sacramento and Jackson boulevard—2:10 p. m.; west park policemen talking to iceman.

Out north to Franklin boulevard; south on Independence boulevard; west on Washington boulevard and back east on Jackson boulevard the reporter cruised. The three west park patrolmen mentioned above were all he saw until he came to Morgan street and Jackson boulevard.

Morgan street is frequented by trucks which often push across boulevards without much regard for the stop signs. West Park Policeman No. 114 had parked his motorcycle here and was sweating industriously in the sun, forcing the trucks to obey the stop signs. Policeman No. 114, it was learned, was formerly a state trooper who joined the west park force only two months ago.

Headquarters Seem Deserted.

The reporter went to the administration headquarters of the park board in Garfield park erected in 1928 at a cost of $600,000. The place seemed deserted. The park board employs more than 900 persons in addition to the 175 policemen.

Finally, a young woman was found in President James' office. She said no information could be given out about employes except by Mr. James, who was out of town.

Get Extra Days Off.

"A strike of the police?" he said, laughing. "Someone's been kidding you. I did give the forty-one boys who worked at the conventions seven days extra off for the good work they did.

"I'm also trying to give all the men their vacations during July and August so they can be back to work in September to guard crossings for school children. But a strike? That's a joke."

"BUGS" MORAN HELD FOR SHOWUP IN BARKER DEATH

George [Bugs] Moran, public enemy and one time chieftain of a powerful north side gang, was arrested in the loop yesterday and questioned by Chief of Detectives Schoemaker about the killing of George Barker, labor slugger, who aspired to the leadership once exercised by Alphonse Capone.

Chief Schoemaker ordered that Moran be viewed by the witnesses in the Barker case. If they fail to identify him, the chief said, he will be released.

Two persons who are believed to have seen Barker's assassins looked at Moran last night, but were unable to identify him. Police refused to reveal their names.

Policeman Roy Van Herik and James Bresnahan seized Moran as he was parking his expensive automobile in La Salle street near Randolph. He was unarmed.

"I am a country gentleman now," said Moran. "I live at Bluff Lake in Lake county. My only business in Chicago is my position as vice president of the Central Cleaners and Dyers, 2705 Fullerton avenue."

The police suspect that Moran is preparing to make a new drive to regain his old booze and beer territory.

3 NORTH SHORE SUBURBS ADOPT LOWER BUDGETS

Lake Forest's provided for maximum expenditures of $515,309, a decrease of $43,255 under its 1931 ordinance. The council also passed the 1932 tax levy amounting to $348,882. This is a decrease of $38,285, or 10 per cent below that of last year. In two years Lake Forest, which operates on a cash basis, has reduced its tax levies 20 per cent, Ald. Kent Chandler said. The levies rather than the ordinances represent the actual expenditures.

The Highland Park ordinance provides for maximum expenditures of $312,000. Several weeks ago the council submitted an ordinance for $451,000. Protests by three organizations resulted in the reduction to the figure approved last night.

Wilmette's budget calls for maximum expenditures of $315,954, which is $127,587 under that of the 1931 ordinance.

THREE HELD AS ROBBERS.

Three men captured when they were alleged to have been trying to rob an automobile accessory store at 7601 Cottage Grove avenue, were held to the grand jury yesterday in bond of $5,000 each by Judge John J. Lupe. They are Aurelo Cavell, 7640 Greenwood avenue; Russell Pace, 7652 Greenwood avenue; and Sam Mundo, 7640 Dobson avenue.

AN ADVERTISEMENT FOR ADVERTISERS

PAIR OF SHOES NEEDS NEW BABY

No NEWSPAPER columnist wisecracks about this blessed event. No society editor phones for the name and no reporter asks how many millions it will have some day. Not even a tiny personal on a back page recites the fact that Mr. and Mrs. Jones are proud parents.

In New York a new baby is news only when it graces a household where mother's pet is more apt to be a Pomeranian. But every four minutes, night and day, in good times and bad, a baby is born. It is welcomed to life and our city with a slap on the back that starts a demand for worldly possessions that continues to the grave.

Every four minutes in New York another buying impulse originates, fanning a desire for a hobby horse and a house in the suburbs, a baby carriage and a bigger car, a rattle and an apartment grand, a clinical thermometer and a room where father can get away from the noise.

Blessed event to the man with merchandise to sell! It means one more mouth to feed, two more feet to be shod—a family expanding, spending more.

No news in 125,000 New York births a year. But to this department of the press, the perambulator population is one of the most vital of the vital statistics, perpetuating the procession of buyers, of News readers. It adjusts the balance between births and deaths, emigration and immigration so that a new "city" of 10,000 persons every month is added to the population. More babies, more people, more jobs, more money, more optimism in this New York market. Sales grow with the growth of New York. News circulation keeps steady pace with the increase, steadily widens its margin of superiority.

AT THIS point it is well to remember that babies and children know no depression, nor do their parents. There is no consumption drop in commodities need by a growing family. The baby carriages on the lower East Side are still as shiny and as swanky as they ever were. Department stores are still delivering glittering new red tricycles and porch swings and electric heaters and sun lamps and blankets. The druggist still enjoys his harvest from dripping noses, skinned knees, sunburn, not to mention his regular custom for ice cream cones and lollypops. The grocer still wraps up oranges and bread and cereal and prunes and potatoes. Feeding times come by the clock, sleeves grow shorter, shoes scuff out, and the movies have a new show every second day.

New York children are lucky in having parents a little more prosperous than most parents elsewhere. Despite the depression and unemployment, the buying power of America's best market is as great as ever—in view of lower commodity prices. Sales are being made here—because sales can still be made. Selling is resultful and profitable because of prospects who can buy. Advertising still enlists customers because they still have cash to part with. There is still business here for business men who go after it—and more of it than almost anywhere else in the world today.

MAYBE WE take particular pride in New York's birth rate—because most arrivals join a family of News readers. To profit from the buying urge they stimulate, you need The News. It carries your message to the purchasing agents in this infant industry. It reaches more than a million homes in New York City—leads all New York papers in every income group, reaches more suburban families. It offers the largest newspaper circulation in America (more than 1,400,000 daily; over 1,800,000 Sunday) in the biggest, richest market in America.

The smaller page of The News, with its greater visibility, gives your advertising a better break, reaches more eyes, more minds, more prospects—makes more sales, more profits. The News rate of 1928 buys 250,000 more daily circulation, 400,000 more on Sunday. The milline is $1.15 daily, $1.00 Sunday. Altogether The News affords a really great selling opportunity in these times. Use it to better your business with more and better business!

SYDNEY GAMBLES AND LETS REST OF WORLD GO BY

Here is the tenth of a series of articles by Mr. Kinsley, who was sent by The Tribune to get an American observer's viewpoint of conditions in Australia.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SYDNEY, Australia, June 23.—[By Mail.]—This premier city of the Australian continent is moving toward its unknown political future in a casual, cheerful, romantic sort of way, ready to gamble any day on a horse race, a lottery ticket, or a new political plan.

Living in a "bankrupt state," borrowing money against the future, does not seem to worry the people. They flock into the barrooms and the hotel lounges, shovel bushels of money into the valises of the brass lunged bookies at the race tracks every day, gather by the thousands at football games, go surfing, yachting, and golfing, and have a good time, working as little as possible. Life here seems to be keyed to leisure hours, hobbies, avocations, sports, and above all—gambling.

Lottery Ads Intriguing.

"Miracles do happen sometimes," is the intriguing advertisement in the window of a government lottery agent's shop, inviting the passerby to invest 5 shillings and 6 pence in a chance to win a fortune. Fifty-seven lotteries have been held by the state. Any of the dwellers in these rows of little houses in the suburbs, all getting about the same income and protected by the government if they lose their jobs, may win the grand prize of £25,000 [$125,000 at par] any week. Or pick the long shot winner at the races. Or get the jackpot in the slot machines imported from Chicago. Or win at the dog races. Or pick a winner in the election and win a government job. One in every ten, it is said, has a job with the government now.

They find their joy in such a supreme achievement as the new harbor bridge, the greatest single span in the world, or in that gigantic taxing machine, the state government, which they have accepted and converted into a welfare institution—one which pays for new babies, takes care of the aged, rewards mothers, gives them free food and watches always that no one gets too rich or powerful.

That the bridge is unpaid for, that the deficit of New South Wales is $165,000,000, that the golden wells of wealth have been pumped dry, are matters to leave to the future and forget if possible. They pick out a horse or a new method of financing the sinking state with equal hope.

"Good While It Lasted."

"It was good while it lasted," said a voter, one of the "divine average," after a political speaker had explained that the place where dole money came from had been dried up.

The average man on the political fringe here would be satisfied with 36 hours of work a week, a "fair and reasonable wage" for that, and to spend the rest of his time in his garden with pipe and book, in the fields with dog and children, at the beach, or on the sporting green. All this, after 100 years of transplanted British civilization, cut free from the old limitations of birth and caste, and set down with its face to the virgin continent that stretches for thousands of empty miles to the Indian ocean.

Over the hill from Botany bay, where Capt. Cook first discovered this land and where the first fleet of England took possession, all paths lead to Randwick, home of the Australian Jockey club and symbol of the sporting and gambling spirit that has taken possession of the Australian people.

One of 12 Race Tracks.

Here is a sunny paradise in which to forget the hard economic facts of the world. Behind its rose bordered walls, on its wide green turf, hundreds of thousands find joy. It is one of twelve race tracks around Sydney, all patronized in their turn.

The élite, if there are such in a land where only economic distinctions prevail, may be found in the paddock and the grandstands near the members' entrance. The five shilling gates are flooded, while this may be only sedately filled with gentlemen in bowler hats, field glasses flung around their shoulders. The red cheeked sporting Englishman predominates, modified by the Australian climate and democratic insistence. The horse lover, familiar the world over, rather smelly, and carelessly dressed; the shrewd gambling type, and the suave old sport are there.

The horses are no small part of the show. Their stables are within an easy stroll across the lawn. There is a directory of names, and the name of each horse is ported over its stable. Trainers and stable hands take tender care of them.

Pari-Mutuel System.

But the betting is the real thing. People take lunch, frequent the bars, go to the teahouse, look over the course, sit in the sun and bask, but the real cener of interest is the totalisator, or pari-mutuel headquarters. It is a big cubical building with iron lanes leading up to many windows. Put your money in here and get a ticket! Then, if you win, go to another building and collect! The lawn is strewn with torn up tickets after each race, but that does not stop the next chance. Revolving disks of numbers reveal the trend of the betting on each horse.

Women are prominent. These are the wives of the more prosperous Sydneyites, the wives of business and professional men.

Politics and sports. These are the two grand passions of the Australians. Stadium and cricket grounds, dozens of parks with youngsters at games, golden beaches where the cult of the sun tan is practiced with as much assiduity, if a few more clothes, than at Waikiki. Let the rest of the world go by.

It is here that a sort of Tammanyized socialism has grown up, where a widespread cynicism greets the name of "politician." It is also a home of deep idealism, bookworms, social students. Professors used to come here and write books about what the state was doing for the common people in the way of lifting them into security and happiness. The common literary and scientific note now is one of deep pessimism, of wonder at such old optimism, a terrific scolding and invective of their own pet ideas. They would prefer, however, to do their own scolding and be let alone for a time until they pick a winner in the way of a political favorite, or the miracle happens and the golden chest lies open.

Close Bars at 6 P. M.

Prohibition is in the "band of hope" stage. The W. C. T. U. and a league formed somewhat after the Anti-Saloon league bring a feeble voice into the political and social arena. The "liquor traffic" is denounced, with its barrooms on every corner, its sinister influence upon politics, its aid to crime.

But the only answer so far has been to close the public bars at 6 p. m. The thirsty ones then promptly go to the side door and knock discreetly and are let in. The bars are often as full at 7 or 8 p. m. as they are during the legal hours. There is no deep regard for the law here as in England. Convictions for drunkenness have remained about the same during the last ten years, averaging 30,000 a year. Convictions for serious crimes average about one-third of this number, or 10,000 a year. One hears of bad districts where gangsters roam, but there is no gang and crime problem as known in the United States under prohibition.

A country of empty lands and crowded streets. One may travel for hours through the country and hardly find a town of size. Every one wants to hurry to the shelter of the city, its lights and shadows, its color and adventure and hope. In the mass, in the crowd, there is political majesty and a lulling security.

Basher Type Is Heard.

It is easier to conquer the ballot box than the wilderness. Tall men, sun crowned, unafraid, may not come as leaders, but one instead who sounds suspiciously like a doctrinaire socialist of Hyde Park or Moscow, or a basher type of citizen with brutal jaw and gangster morality. It is the promise that counts, and the chance to live in common comfort in a common house and to be left alone. Australia would build a political commonwealth on a communistic basis and still leave room for a narrow but determined individualism. That is its paradox. It is touched with the optimism of the pioneer, expressed in city building.

"Seek ye first a high standard of comfort and the kingdom of God shall be added unto you," is their motto.

TEACHERS TO SEEK RELIEF TODAY AT PARK MASSMEETING

Ten speakers will be on the program for the massmeeting of teachers this afternoon in Grant park, according to the announcement of the chairman, Harry L. Tate, principal of the Whitney elementary school. Mr. Tate said that arrangements were being made for a crowd of 10,000 teachers.

Resolutions appealing for financial aid from governmental bodies and banking institutions will be offered, but the main consideration will be the launching of a drive for the payment of taxes, leaders said last night. "Taxpayers must be made to realize that we must have our back salaries to prevent a complete breakdown of the school system," asserted Robert C. Keenan, a teacher at the Bowen High school.

Streamers and banners to be worn and carried by the teachers were being completed last night under the direction of Robert P. Russell, a teacher at the Oglesby school. An amplifying system will carry the voices of speakers to the outskirts of the crowd.

SCHOOLS MOVE TO CUT MILLIONS ON BUILDINGS

Hope to Obtain Loans from Banks.

and a few contractors conferred at length yesterday morning with Trustee Orville Taylor in his office, and with President Myers, Business Manager Howard P. Savage, School Architect John C. Christensen, School Engineer John Howatt, and School Attorney Thomas V. Sullivan. It was at this gathering that the proceedure adopted at the formal board session last night was initiated.

Another meeting was also held yesterday morning in the office of Architect Graham which was attended by Trustees Carr, Buehler, Hefferan and part of the time by President Myers. It was at this time that Mr. Graham—who it was presume dexpressed the view of the citizens' committee of public expenditures advised the board to practically eliminate all new building this years.

Data on 52 Projects.

Complete data on 52 school building projects was presented to the trustees by School Auditor H. H. Brackett. It is on these that it is proposed to make savings, estimated between $8,000,000 and $13,000,000. The total appropriations for these 52 schools, in the 1932 budget, are $14,972,535.

The expenditures on them to July 1—according to the auditor's report—totaled $1,567,281, and in addition there are contracts on them estimated at $9,876,765. These contracts are under the jurisdiction of the school architect, but there are also other contracts totaling $223,008; so that the total charges—expenditures and contingent liabilities—against these buildings are $11,667,055. That is the figure which the trustees have undertaken to settle with the contractors. This will require long negotiation, it was said.

On the basis of those figures it is apparent that $3,305,479 could be eliminated from the budget and the tax levy, because the appropriations are that much in excess of the total charges against the 52 buildings. But the discussion in Trustee Taylor's office and in the board rooms indicated that the trustees think there is considerable more.

Seventeen Already Finished.

In the list of fifty-two there are 17 buildings which have been completed and are now occupied, but $1,022,278 has been appropriated in the 1932 budget to doll up the grounds and supply certain appurtenances. Of this sum $258,039 had been expended to July 1, $124,050 represents added contracts outstanding under the architect, plus $28,022 in still other contracts. Altogether there is a balance in the appropriation for these 17 schools of $611,165, which might be saved.

Of the 52 structures there is another group of 24 buildings on which construction has not been started. They are in various stages of designing, on which $62,989 has been spent, so there is a balance of $204,143 in the appropriations.

There is still another group of six buildings—the Dvorak, Galileo, Jamieson, Rembrandt, Verdi, and Wells schools—on which the Dr. George D. Strayer report recommended that work should be stopped. The 1932 budget contains $7,488,602 of appropriations for this half dozen. Only $270,542 has been spent on them this year, but the architects' contracts out against them total $5,517,651, and other contractors are $34,607. The total charges against these buildings of $5,822,802 leave a balance of $1,665,800 in the budget unincumbered.

One of the chief objectives of the board is to ascertain on what terms the contractors will relinquish their claims under the $5,517,651 contracts. The other large objective relates to the final group of buildings.

It is composed of the Lane, Phillips, Senn, Symser, and Steinmetz schools, work on which should be continued, according to the Strayer report. For this group there was set aside $6,195,516 in the 1932 budget, of which $975,709 has been spent. There is also outstanding $4,235,063 in architects' contracts and $160,378 in other contracts making total charges of $5,371,151. But at that there is a balance in the appropriations for these schools of $824,365.

Trade Official Caught in Speed Trap; Plans to Fight

BY HAL FOUST.

James P. Haynes, executive vice president of the Chicago Association of Commerce, yesterday announced a campaign against speed traps in the metropolitan area. He was arrested Saturday afternoon in Wooddale, population 230, on Irving Park boulevard twenty-two miles from the loop.

"This holdup of law abiding citizens for the profit of village constables," he said, "is a serious nuisance to Chicago motorists. The nusance continues because the average person knows it's more convenient and cheaper to pay a fine than to fight. I'm going to fight, I'm going to encourage others to fight, and I'm going to investigate generally the practice in some places of arresting drivers for no other reason than for the profit from fines and costs."

Mr. Haynes was driving with his wife, mother and a niece in Irving Park boulevard Saturday afternoon en route to the Medinah Country club for dinner.

"I was going about twenty-five miles an hour, having slowed up for a railroad grade crossing," he related. "I noticed the uniformed policeman standing beside his motorcycle when I passed him. A short distance farther west, before I had reached the limits of the village, the motorcycle came up beside me and flagged me down.

"'Well,' said the policeman, 'what are you going to do about it?'

"'Do about what?' I asked.

"'I'm going to charge you with doing fifty miles an hour.'

"'But I was only going twenty-five.'

"'I had to do seventy to catch you.'

"This was Chief of Police J. Carroll. He took me to the magistrate, W. C. Nielsen, who was sitting on his front porch.

"'Do you want to plead guilty and pay $5 and costs?' asked the judge.

"'I'd have to lie to plead guilty,' I replied.

"'Then I'll have to have $10 bond and I'll set the case for trial on Thursday.'

"It will probably cost me some money because I'm going to have a good lawyer with me, but I'm not going to let the Wooddale chief of police get by with this."

CHICAGO WOMAN LOSES PASSPORT ON RUSSIAN TRIP

Mrs. Polly Chase Boyden, young society matron, who left Chicago for Russia nearly six weeks ago seeking adventure, apparently has found it, her friends learned yesterday.

She is being temporarily detained in Moscow because her passport has been stolen. Word of the stolen passport was received Saturday by her parents, the Samuel T. Chases of Lake Forest. Along with the document disappeared Mrs. Boyden's money.

At the Chase home last night it was explained that beyond temporary inconvenience the loss of the passport was not serious, and that a renewal would be forwarded to Washington, probably through Germany, within a few days.

LOOP PARKING CONFERENCE IS UNABLE TO AGREE

Traction Interests Insist Ban Aids Stores.

A two-hour conference yesterday of loop interests, aldermen and traction represenatives failed to bring about an agreement on the proposed modification of the downtown parking ban. Another meeting of the committee is to be held but it seems likely that the council will have to settle the question without a committee recommendation.

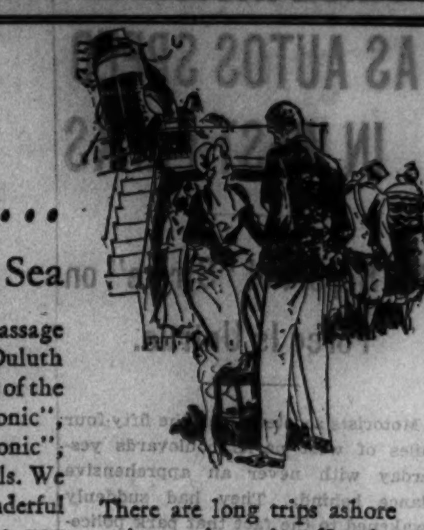

As a compromise proposal Ald. John Massen, chairman of the committee, suggested that thirty or sixty minute parking be inaugurated on both levels of Wacker drive and on a few short downtown streets where traffic is light, and that the present restrictions remain on the busy pavements. Walter L. Gregory, president of the State street council, said this would not satisfy his group.

E. J. McIlraith, engineer for the Chicago Surface lines, cited traffic surveys showing that the number of persons entering the loop by automobile has increased since parking was prohibited in January 1928.

"But no one," added R. F. Starr, of Marshall Field & Co., "can make any count of the number of persons who remain away from the loop because of the no parking ordinance."

"Regardless of any statistics that might indicate to the contrary," said John T. Redmond, president of the Chicago Building Managers' association, "the fact remains that a lot of loop tenants, desperate for business, believe their business would be helped by lifting the parking restrictions. Surely, in view of the high taxes they pay, they are entitled to a six months' trial of their proposal."

Who is this Woman...?

WHERE DOES SHE LIVE? ...AND HOW WELL?
WHAT DOES SHE BUY? ...AND HOW MUCH?

You are eager to influence her buying.

The Herald Tribune knows who she is and where she is.

This woman is simply the average housewife . . . the woman manager who stands behind almost every purchase that is made by every family.

Whether she lives in a $6,000 home, a $15,000 home, or a $50,000 home, she is a wide-awake, up-to-the-minute reader of the Herald Tribune . . . editorially and from the standpoint of buying.

A thousand times a week she writes to the Herald Tribune Institute for help and information on housekeeping problems.

So do her husband . . . her son . . . her brother for the Herald Tribune is a man's paper, too. For example, a recent impartial survey reveals that more members of the New York Stock Exchange regularly read the Herald Tribune than read any other morning or Sunday newspaper.

To you, all these facts mean that advertising in the Herald Tribune pays.

Frank E. Davis—a mail order fish dealer, using coupon advertising only, places almost twice as much space in the Herald Tribune as in any other newspaper . . . Let the Herald Tribune show you complete and convincing proof of its advertising value. Write, wire or 'phone today.

BEN BLACK, HEAD OF BIG RUM RING, PLEADS GUILTY

Five Others in Syndicate Also to Be Sentenced.

Ben Black, head of a $3,500,000 south side liquor syndicate, pleaded guilty yesterday before Federal Judge John P. Barnes to a charge of violating the prohibition law. Black served a year and a day in Leavenworth penitentiary as a member of the alcohol diversion ring in the Shirley laboratories case.

Harold Meyer, Italo Ruspantini, Henry G. Cooling, Patrick Ryan, and William Wolf, employés of the syndicate, also pleaded guilty and Judge Barnes set July 18 for sentencing all six men.

Eighteen other persons alleged to have been involved in the conspiracy are scheduled to go to trial today before Judge Barnes. Prosecutors said they expected guilty pleas from most of the defendants.

30,000 Gallons a Year.

Daniel Anderson, assistant United States district attorney, said that the ring operated from 1929 through 1931 on the south side as an independent concern and had no connection with the Capone syndicate. During the three years the yearly output was 30,000 gallons of whisky. The sale price for each year's output was $1,166,000, the prosecutor said.

The syndicate maintained two large manufacturing plants, one at 3608 Lake Park avenue and the other at 9353 Cottage Grove avenue, while the principal retail outlets were at 8564 Vincennes avenue, 814 West 69th street, 650 West 80th street, and 8428 Vincennes avenue, the prosecutor said.

Two Members Murdered.

Two alleged members of the syndicate were killed before the case reached the federal court. Chris O'Shea, a saloonkeeper, was shot to death on July 5 at 95th street and South Western avenue. Michael J. Gallo, who was to testify for the government, was slain last January at 106th street and Avenue D. His bullet riddled body was found beside the road. His offer to testify for the prosecution was said to have been the cause of the murder.

STEWARD SURRENDERS

Henry Malgren, steward of the Swedish club of Chicago, surrendered yesterday at the federal building on a warrant charging him with violation of the prohibition law. The warrant was issued after a dozen dry agents raided the club at 1258 North La Salle street June 26, confiscated $50,000 worth of liquor, and carted away the furniture and fixtures of the first floor dining room.

Malgren was released in $1,500 bond and ordered to return for arraignment today, when Miss Hedwig Elund, an employé, and Nels Milton, assistant steward, also will face United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker.

Raided by Outside Agents.

Prosecutor Alfred Bosworth said that the hearings of Malgren and his employés will be delayed today because the government would need time to bring the raiding agents from their posts in another city. This was the first intimation that the raid was made by outside agents.

At the time of the raid Dr. O. C. Nylund, a club member, said that the club "had never owned a drop of liquor." He said that if any "liquor was found by prohibition agents it was the property of Malgren."

The steward yesterday said that "part of the liquor in the club belonged to the members and part of it belonged to me." Asked if he had ever sold liquor to any prominent members of the club he said:

"Certainly I've sold liquor to plenty of prominent members. I can't name any off hand, but they purchased liquor from me."

Dry agents at the time of the raid said that it was based on a purchase of liquor from Miss Elund.

POLICEMAN KILLS BANDIT IN GOLF CLUB ROBBERY

Fred Mulhaussen, crack shot of the county highway police, killed one bandit yesterday and seriously wounded and captured the second of a trio who tried to rob the Oak Hill Country club, south of Palos Park. The third robber escaped into the forest preserve after the running gun battle in 131st street.

The slain bandit was unidentified. The wounded man, taken to the Little Company of Mary hospital, gave his name as Harold Reynolds, 24 years old, and said that he lived at 1045 South Morgan street. Police after comparing his fingerprints with the detective bureau records, said that his real name is James O'Connor, and that he is an escaped convict. Records show that O'Connor was sentenced to Joliet prison in 1928 for robbery, and escaped May 3, this year.

Seen Loitering at Club.

Just before the shooting, the three bandits were seen loitering in front of the club by Mrs. David McIntosh, an employé. She was preparing to take the week-end receipts of the club to a bank. Suspicious of the men, she notified her husband, and he telephoned Policeman Mulhausen.

The policeman drove to the club in his own car. As he approached the bandits started west in 131st street. Halting to pick up McIntosh, Policeman Mulhaussen gave chase and fired several shots in the air to halt the robbers' automobile.

Mulhaussen shot and killed him and he fell from the running board to the road. As the racing cars neared the Southmoor Country club, 131st street 100 feet west of the Southwest highway, the bandits pulled their car into the ditch and tried to escape into the forest preserve. A shot from Mulhausen's revolver dropped the second man as the third man raced to safety.

Child's Picture in Pocket.

Coroner Frank Walsh ordered the body of the slain bandit taken to the Kruger undertaking rooms in Blue Island. In a pocketbook police found eighteen cents and a picture of a girl about seven or eight years old, which may aid in identifying the victim.

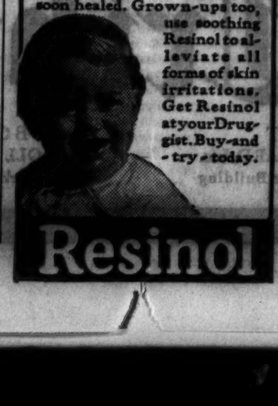

Reynolds, alias O'Connor, was identified at the hospital as one of three men who robbed two employés of the Oak Hill club a week ago. Police found that the automobile in which the bandits were riding was stolen from Willard Helmuth, 7118 Constance avenue.

BOY, 18, IS HELD FOR FATAL CRASH 2½ YEARS AGO

Policeman's Memory Revives Old Case.

James Gerven, 18 years old, 1257 Macedonia street, arrested Sunday on a charge of driving an automobile without license plates, was identified at the Racine avenue police station yesterday as the driver of a car which struck and killed a youth thirty months ago.

Although Gerven denied any connection with the accident, witnesses said they remembered him by a scar on his face. He was taken to the county jail to await prosecution on a charge of manslaughter. The boy killed two and a half years ago was Frank Bartosiewicz, 17 years old, 2921 North Springfield avenue.

One child was seriously injured and several others were knocked down when an automobile was driven through a roped off playground in Cambridge avenue, between Oak street and Chicago avenue, last night. The injured child, Mary Rizzo, 3 years old, of 903 Milton avenue, was taken to the Children's Memorial hospital.

Miss May Romano, 24, of 2901 Diversey avenue, the driver, was arrested several blocks away and charged with reckless driving and leaving the scene of an accident.

Three automobile deaths in Cook county yesterday increased the toll since Jan. 1 to 582. The victims:

Nick Komarauski, 50 years old, 4119 South Ashland avenue. Died at the County hospital. He was struck Saturday at Western avenue and 42d street by the auto of Vincent Velorado, 3916 West 64th place.

Bernard Holtz, 16 years old, 1517 North Irving avenue. Died last night in St. Mary's hospital of injuries suffered in the afternoon when he was run down at North avenue and Fleetwood street by an automobile driven by Charles B. McCarthy, 2740 Winnemac avenue.

Isadore Siegel, 42 years old, 910 Glen Flora avenue, Waukegan, a grocer, died at the Victory Memorial hospital there last evening from a skull fracture suffered Saturday when his car was struck by another machine as he backed from the driveway at his home.

Joseph Baran, 3 years old, 4014 Fir street, Indiana Harbor, was killed yesterday in front of his home by an automobile driven by Miss Thelma Soltes, 16 years old, 2207 Broadway, Indiana Harbor.

Intimate View of India Given by Ackerley

'Hindoo Holiday' Has Good Sense of Humor.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"Hindoo Holiday," by J. R. Ackerley [Viking]. Published July 8.

UNLIKE any book yet written about India "Hindoo Holiday" gives a picture of a strange, almost opera bouffe civilization, more childlike than ultra-sophisticated. The author went in some vague official capacity to "work" for a maharajah in a small province of India—as a tutor for the ruler's two year old son, whom he never met except once very briefly when the child buried its head in his nurse's draperies in abject fear.

J. R. ACKERLEY.

"Mr. Ackerley," as he was always called by maharajah, prime minister, slave and court favorite alike, saw a native life which few Europeans ever saw. He had a sense of humor [which was his chief asset to the maharajah, apparently] and an honest curiosity, which led him to ask questions and an unusual skill in recording their answers and the sights and sounds and queer doings that went on about him.

"Hindoo Holiday" is perfectly named, for it was a holiday every moment of the five months which he spent there, and it is likewise a grand and gorgeous holiday for jaded readers. It never "bores upon your time" as the author's tutor expressed it.

At first "Hindoo Holiday" seems like most other travel diaries—well set down and with keen and unusual observation. But as it progresses you realise that there is something in it that you have not met before in travel diaries—a gayety of spirit, a charming interest in the NON-essentials, rather than the obvious essentials.

Most travelers set down in their records the important things which they observe; Mr. Ackerley delightfully sets down the unimportant ones. He made during his stay in India a pilgrimage to Benares and other trampers spots, but his impressions of his tour he never even put into words. His journal is concerned wholly with the day to day life which he lived as the guest of the maharajah.

And that maharajah is like Poo Bah out of Gilbert and Sullivan, a fantastic creature always giggling into his sleeve, dressed in the most incredible combinations of luxury and rags, hiding behind the skirts of his ministers when he did not want to make a decision, eager to discuss on every occasion God and his own relations with Him when they might meet, meticulous in his observations of the taboos of eating and the worship of the local gods, and withal a humorous character of the very first water. By setting down without comment his fantastic acts Mr. Ackerley has done a superb piece of characterization.

Other characters live in the pages—the prime minister, his secretary, maharajah's favorite boys, the child like tutor of the author who believed that the way to get anything from anybody was to "pester" them and who harassed his pupil almost to murder by his demands for help in bettering his position, occasional English visitors, the Maharani who was never seen but who lives in the one sentence devoted to her. Fantastic, mad, childlike, anything but vicious, they all live in the incredible panorama which the author unfolds before his readers.

Details of filth and degredation which made "Mother India" talked about on every continent that knew English are not to be found in "Hindoo Holiday" in the earnest form in which they appear in Miss Mayo's chronicle. Mr. Ackerley found no more comforts, no more cleanliness, no more consideration for human life than Miss Mayo found, but since his concern was not sociological but purely that of a chronicle, he made no special point of man's inhumanity to man. And women played such a meager part in the five months—he apparently never talked to one alone during the entire time, and learned little of their habits or their mentalities, since their husbands found them uninteresting as topics of conversation.

Obviously Mr. Ackerley learned many things which he did not set down in his book . . . the presence of a very few scattered intimate details of Hindoo life show that. But occasionally there are startling facts which will give the western reader something of a jolt.

There is more than surface cleverness about "Hindoo Holiday." There is a real observation. Often a sentence will contain the whole national psychology. For instance, in talking about how the Hindoo builds, he says "the Mohammedan builds arches, but the Hindoo despises them. . . . 'The arch never sleeps,' he says."

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Parisiennes refuse stubbornly to dress in anything elaborate before the 5 o'clock hour. Until late afternoon they go about in simple ensembles or frocks, no matter what they are doing.

Since the hot weather set in, the afternoon ensemble worn by smart women in Paris is more apt to have a small capelet as a wrap than anything else. This wrap will be worn over a simple little dress in the material and color of the cape, or one that has bodice, sleeves, or guimpe of lingerie material. The latter is the more popular.

The Mirande afternoon ensemble, sketched today, is the predominating kind seen in smart places in Paris. This ensemble has a tie-around-the-waist capelet of dark blue crêpe silk, lined and collared with white mull dotted in navy blue.

The dress that accompanies this capelet is shown in the background, both back and front views. It has a plain skirt of navy blue crêpe, a skirt that rises in a wide, irregular topped band above the waistline, and above this is another, narrower navy band, following the lines of the first, and incrusted on the navy and white dotted mull bodice.

The bodice has a square neckline in front, and is draped into a diagonal seam at the left side front, the draping being caught into triangular tucks. The sleeves are puffed by means of triangular tucks from a seam down the outside of the arm. They are quite full at the elbows.

Mark Spot of Lincoln's Last Illinois Address

Tolono, Ill., July 11.—(AP)—On the spot where Lincoln gave his last address in Illinois, local residents and the state art extension committee joined today in unveiling a tablet in memory of the occasion. Clint Clay Tilton of Danville, representing the Illinois Historical society, spoke as a boulder bearing the bronze tablet was uncovered. The Alliance chapter of the D. A. R. conducted the exercises in a park at the crossing of the Wabash and Illinois Central railroads, where Lincoln's inaugural train, en route from Springfield to Washington, halted. The art extension committee began its tour of "Lincolnland" today.

Vacation Hats Can Be Packed in Tiny Space

Collapsible Crowns Are Popular.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

SHESE squashable turbans and hats with collapsible crowns and short shallow brims seem to have arrived in great numbers just as the great army of vacationists begin their frenzied last minute packing.

Summer week-end spends and any other travelers who plan to stay away even longer than a week ought to be cheering and cheerful shoppers for these obliging little top covers that come in all colors and white as well as good summer color combinations. Of course their biggest claim for fame and fashion is the fact that they were planned to be squelched, squished and squashed in the smallest pocket or crevice left in your bursting baggage, there to be forgotten and not worried over, later to be pulled out and presented to an admiring and skeptical world of sister packers as the perfect traveling companion, a hat that reaches the destination in much better shape and state than you do.

Impudent sailor caps, with up tilted brims and skull hugging crowns will be worn most appropriately with your jaunt wash frocks and linen suits. Shallow brimmed sailors of linen, with the brim uncompromisingly straight are going to see the fashion sights a bit more straightly, less cockeyed to be literally but slang-ishly truthful. Clothes hounds with ears and eyes open for fall hints will please note that all brimmed headgear will perch over your questioning eyebrows, just enough more circumspectly as to make them a new sensation rather than just a rehash of last spring and this summer!

Knitted hats and caps and lots of models that look knitted and are just deft simulated effects will be unpacked from the most fashionable summer traveler's luggage. Some striped and colorful new ideas are closely linked with matching ascot ties and neck scarfs. Half and half knitted berets, that is one side is all white, the other side a gorgeous complication of vivid colors, are matched with scarfs that are also divided in the same manner.

New white handbags are covered with bright colored dots that are really dots that have outgrown any early spring size—ten or twelve of these [illegible]thole sized spots are the limit for each side of the bag. Checkerboard affairs are new and a trifle dizzy to look at for daily routine, but they are tremendously effective with chalk white suits and all white costumes that must of a necessity depend on bags for sharp color accent.

Did you know that the newest white summer suits are showing dark velvet ascot ties for fashionable and unusual contrast? These suits consist of a simple one piece frock that is designed to wear smartly and correctly through every hour of an out of doors summer day.

Spectators at every event will be garbed in this sort of a frock with a cleverly designed short coat that emphasizes the sleeves, wide shoulder effects, and short, snappy length with dark brown, deep blue and sleek black ties or scarfs or velvet. These styles are something new and different to prove to snooping and slightly cynical shoppers that the designers are just as busy as they are supposed to be—that not a single minute is misspent in the great game of changing fashion.

Dancing Teacher Says Collegiates Lead Modern Mode

New York, July 11.—[Special.]—College students always set the pace in dancing and their ballroom novelties are watched and studied by dancing teachers, according to Miss Lucille Stoddart, chairman of the second annual Dancing Teachers' congress.

"All the popular ballroom dances of the moment, the 'shag,' 'the 'shuffle,' and the 'Lindy hop,' are done to fox trot and are collegiate in style," said Miss Stoddart. "Collegiate dancing is the outgrowth of Negro dancing, just as the popular ballroom music is based primarily on Negro rhythm.

"While the teachers keep a watchful eye upon the college people, some of their novelties, of course, go to the extreme. The 'conversation' fox trot is collegiate and permits the dancers to converse while they are dancing. On the other hand, there is a collegiate dance in which the man's hand rests upon the shoulder, close to the neck, of his partner, and they rub their noses together. Certainly this is not a dance suitable for middle aged men and women on the ballroom floor.

High Standards for Cosmetics the Rule Today

Deodorants, Especially, Improved.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

One of the gratifying things today is the manner in which cosmetic manufacturers have anticipated every human need of women. Not only do they contribute preventive and protective remedies of every known nature, but each year a new high is set in product.

Take today's trade offerings in perspiration odor preventives. Never have we known so many effective, agreeable to use prepartions for this ailment as are on the market today. In cream form, in powder form, in liquid form, one good product after another is available.

But it isn't going to help woman's cause—if they do not take advantage of the offerings, is it? Every bathroom should contain one good product to offset the possibility of even the slightest trace of odor, for this still remains the one unforgivable fault among women. [Among men, too, it might be inserted here.] Men perspire just the same as women and perspiration odor is just as unpleasant in them as it is in women. There is nothing unmanly either about using a deodorant.

Of course, frequent soapy baths are the first order in the prevention of this unpleasant ailment—baths in warm, soapy suds, not just light hearted washings. At this time of year, where the temptation is to rely largely on a shower for cleansing, the soapy bath may be overlooked erroneously. Take the shower after the bath as an extra precaution—but where there is the slightest tendency to odorous perspiration two soapy baths a day are the best safeguard. And clean, clean "undies" every day. Clean stockings also.

Use a deodorant as protection. You've been told millions of times in advertising copy that the trouble may be present without one being aware of it. So use some deodorant as protection against the possibility of even the slightest offense.

Whether you use one in powder form, cream, or liquid is a matter of personal choice. But install one in your bathroom cabinet today just to be on the safe side. The liquid astringents do check excessive perspiration in localized areas such as under the arms. Deodorants in cream and powder form neutralize general perspiration odor.

Dance Rehearsals

Good Morning!

I suspect your main reason for going to the Oriental this week will be a two fold one—to see if Norma Talmadge is as bewitching as she used to be, and whether she acts as if she really loved George Jessel. [Report has it, you know, that she'll marry Georgie if she divorces Mr. Schenck.]

You'll find the film favorite of other days lovely to gaze upon. She wears gowns that make your heart turn over with envy as she clings to the hand of the fast talking Mr. Jessel and smiles into his speaking eyes. Miss Talmadge's remarks are more or less of the yea, yea and nay, nay variety and you do wish she'd articulate so you could hear her. But there she is—all set to stage a comeback in the talkies, and quite pretty enough to do so. Only, of course, she must prove that she CAN talk.

The entire stage bill, with the exception of the dumb slides accompanying the organist's act is one that you should enjoy. The feature picture also qualifies as acceptable entertainment.

Heaven knows the plot isn't new! The old "Can-a-woman-hold-a-career-and-a-husband-at-the-same-time?" question is once more pictorially discussed. Film's based on Faith Baldwin's story, "Part Time Wives."

Loretta Young and Norman Foster who seem fated to marital discord on the screen, give nice, clean cut interpretations of the husband and wife who can't make a go of the part time proposition. Aline MacMahon — ah, THERE is an actress!—sets her teeth firmly in the role of a sister-in-law who "fixes" things, and makes a deep impression. [What was the name of that stage play wherein the sister-in-law jots down questions and answers for her young relative by marriage to refer to when the boy friend comes to call—object being to make the hesitant youth propose? For the life of me I can't remember the name of that play—and I can't find Charles Collins about anyhere.]

The entire cast plays up nobly and it is because of this laudable concert work that the story holds your interest as it does. Everybody—and this goes for director and technicians—squeezes all that there is to be squeezed out of the material at hand.

See you soon.

A STRAIN ON THE FAMILY TIE

Miss Fairbank Returns Home from Germany

Goes to Summer Place at Lake Geneva.

BY JUDITH CASS.

"JANET JR.," the Kellogg Fairbanks' daughter who has been winning laurels in Germany with her singing since she returned there in the winter, is at home again. She stopped in Chicago only long enough to pick up the newest addition to the Fairbank kennels, a Schnauzer, at the town house, 1244 North State street, and then she was off to join her family at their country place at Lake Geneva.

The new dog, which Miss Fairbank did not bring from Germany, although to make this a good story I should not bring out this point, has been named Ufa, and he is leading a dog's life, which to a dog belonging to the Fairbank family does not mean what is ordinarily meant by "leading a dog's life," with Victor, the police dog, and Rowdy, the wire haired terrier, older members of the Fairbank dog family.

Mrs. Fairbank is remaining in the country all this week to work on the novel she is writing, but Miss Fairbank is coming to town on Thursday for a day or two.

This coming week-end the Fairbanks will have a house party at Butternuts for Prof. Louis Bachman, who has just moved here from Berlin and with whom Miss Fairbank studied voice culture. The fact that he has come to Chicago makes it possible for this talented young woman to continue her musical studies here next winter instead of returning to Germany, which is good news to her family and friends.

Ben, the younger of the two Fairbank sons, has given up the life of a "country gentleman" and has come back to town to pursue the study of law, joining his father and elder brother, Kellogg Jr., on their week-end jaunts to the country.

Yacht Races at Lake Geneva

The yacht club races are among the important events at Lake Geneva each Saturday and Sunday, and there always is a picturesque fleet of speedboats following in the wake of the sailboats. Last week "Bud" Gartz in Big Foot won the A class race, Ernest Schmidt in Black Point III. was second, and H. U. Gifford of Elgin in Little Smoke II. was third. Col. William N. Pelouze snapped a hawser at the beginning of the race so was unable to finish.

Ben Porter in the Rokniben was first in the B boat race, Ralph Isham in the No Name II. was second, and Harold Hough in Rapid Water III. was third. Bill Edwards in the O-Mi-O-Mi III. won the C boat race, which was for the Hall trophy. The Gifford trophy was the prize in class A and the McNeill cup in Class E.

Over at Lake Delavan, which isn't far from Geneva and where many Chicagoans summer also there are weekly races each Saturday and Sunday, and last week Elmer Stevens in the Humming Bird won the Class A race, Emery Jaeger in White Cap was second. The E class race was won by two of the Cameron boys, Barton and Jack. "Bud" Sauter came in second in White Eagle and C. B. Goes Jr. was third in Gale II. The E class race Sunday afternoon was won by the Nye brothers in their new Gale III.

Harry Nye consistently wins most of the boat races at Delavan, I'm told, and he is well known on all the inland lakes, for this clever boy has designed and made some of the best sails for boats in this part of the country. He left Yale at Christmas time last year because of a serious knee operation and he has devoted most of his time to this aquatic interest since then.

Social Group For World's Fair

From the World's Fair headquarters comes news of the appointment of a committee on social functions, members of which will have important duties to perform next summer. The committee consists of the following women members of the fair board of trustees and their husbands: Mrs. Rufus C. Dawes, chairman; Mrs. Tiffany Blake, Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank, Mrs. James Hamilton Lewis, Mrs. David Mayer, Mrs. Chauncey McCormick, and Mrs. Arthur Meeker, and also Mrs. Frederic W. Upham, Mrs. Jacob Baur, and Mrs. Waller Borden.

Mrs. Edward I. Cudahy, whose death on Sunday was such a grievous shock to her many friends, was to have been a member of the committee.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hay Whitney will arrive tomorrow from New York to be the house guests of the Austin H. Niblicks and to see the horses from their famous stables race at Arlington. Many other noted easterners are expected to arrive in Lake Forest during the week for the Classic at Arlington on Saturday. Mrs. John Wentworth, who has been visiting in Baltimore, will return in time for the race.

There was a large and gay luncheon crowd yesterday at the Post and Paddock club. Mrs. James A. Cathcart was hostess to a group of young women, including Mrs. Champ Carry, Mrs. Albert B. Dick Jr., Mrs. Farley Hopkins, Mrs. John H. Hamline Jr., and Mrs. Richard D. Stevenson. Mrs. John Hertz occupied a box with Mrs. Warren Wright and Mrs. Wright's sister, Mrs. James Shankner.

Mrs. Honore Palmer, one of the most consistent of the Arlington fans, and her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Potter d'Orsay Palmer, also lunched at the Post and Paddock club, as did Mrs. James H. Channon, who was with her daughter, Miss Letitia Channon, and Mrs. Leslie Olmsted.

Post and Paddock directors are apt to be boastful about the club's cuisine, which every one agrees is excellent. They are especially and rightfully proud just now of their fresh fruit pies and tarts which, they say, are ready to be served within the hour after the fruit is picked from bushes on neighboring farms.

Mrs. Henry A. Rumsey of 27 East Schiller street and her daughter, Miss Elizabeth Rumsey, have opened the family camp, Osohada lodge, at Michi-

I Like You So Much

BY MAY EDGINTON

SYNOPSIS.

Gold Franklyn calls Dr. Elverton, who has a surgery in a poor district of London, to attend her indolent, dependent young half brother. The doctor offers to give Barney Pierce, a well to do accident victim, a lift to his destination, and Pierce waits while the doctor makes his call. He catches a glimpse of the pretty creature who summoned the doctor. Both men determine to help the plucky young orphan girl. The doctor is to sail the next week to New York and Havana on a leave, taking the ship doctor's place. Mrs. Doris Hathaway, a widow, friend of Pierce's, is to sail on the same boat. She wants a maid-companion for the Atlantic crossing. The doctor sends Gold to see Mrs. Hathaway and she gets the job. Pierce regrets putting Gold under the demoralising influence of Doria. He decides to sail himself. On the boat Doria meets David Dorrance, who wants to interest Pierce in a business deal. Pierce comes across Gold standing forward on the boat, alone, at dark. Gold is angered by Pierce's cynicism and distrust of women. Doris asks Gold to dine with her. They are joined by Pierce and Dorrance.

INSTALLMENT XIV.

A MESSAGE OF EYES.

They rose. Then slowly Gold picked up the card, because she could not leave it there. Too ungracious! Turbulent as her heart felt, she could not. But she did not want the card—she would not have it! As Pierce hung Doria's fur coat over the white shoulders she turned ostentatiously to him, Gold crumpled and dropped the card into the well of the deep ash bowl. They moved away all together.

"Did I leave my cigaret case?" said Pierce, at the doorway, and he went back.

He saw the white edge of the card in the ash bowl.

They waited for him, and he caught up with them again; "No. I had it."

As he walked beside Doria—her arrangement—to the restaurant, Dorrance behind them with Gold Franklyn, he was not thinking at all of the replies he made to his companion's chatter. He was concerned sharply with Gold's attitude. He could hear, among the hum of voices of other people also moving dinnerwards, Dorrance's murmur and her murmuring voice answering. Once she laughed, and he heard the other man laugh, too—rather an intimate note. He half swung round and glanced behind him: Dorrance was looking down admiringly into her face, and her smile was gay. It was alluring. Turning back beside Doria, his mind went the way that the mind of a man cynical from experience would go. It was possible that she had known Dorrance before she came aboard? She did not, anyway, want Barney Pierce's help—the card left behind in the ashwell testified to that. He was to mind his own business.

Why? The answer presented itself credibly; because this fellow Dorrance already seems better business.

That Doria had attached Dorrance to her by the time he himself had appeared meant nothing. That was Doria. A different matter!

"I should know better than to believe in any of 'em," Barney Pierce said to himself as they found their seats at a decorated table whose steward was eager to receive them, anticipating something very generous in the matter of tips at the end of the voyage.

"May I order tonight?" Dorrance asked Pierce, taking the wine list.

It would be champagne, of course. Not a doubt of it! Doria looked a champagne woman; and the girl . . . ? Pierce looked at her, on his left, startlingly fair in the plain black lace gown. Amazingly white and golden she was, just lighted by those flags of triumph on her softly molded cheekbones and her young lips. She had made him feel—as he sat alone in the Berkeley restaurant not so many nights ago—that he would like to take her, dress her, select the most fastidious foods, and a château wine that he knew of there, gentler than milk, softer than milk; not the obviousness of golden foiled champagne bottles for her! But tonight, looking at her with eyes that grew hard, as they gazed, he thought: "Yes, champagne. She's a champagne girl, too." Also she did not need dressing; she had dressed herself, and to some effect! How had she done it? No matter! He let Dorrance order.

The doctor made a special journey up to their table in the gallery to greet them all again.

He was remarkably satisfied by what he saw, in no wise sharing or suspecting Pierce's conclusions about the lace gown, the scarlet coat. Women were so wonderful and diligent about these things! The doctor had seen and marveled at it before; girls without an apparent penny suddenly blossoming, for their hour, like princesses. So he was pleased, he who had seen many strange romances in the course of his profession, to see Barney Pierce sitting beside. For it was all owing to this man—was it not?—that she found herself here?

His eyes met Gold's in a friendly understanding.

But Doria must claim him: "O, doctor! Here's our nice doctor! Do you men know him? You do? O, really! Doctor, are we going to dance tonight?"

"I hear you will, if you want to," he answered, smiling at her.

"You'll come and dance with me, of course!"

"Of course, if I may."

He stood for a moment looking over the ornate balustrade to the room below. Riches! A contrast here from the streets he had left. Here, like a gently flowing tide over a playground shore, the women drifted in, patterning the restaurant with colors. The ship barely oscillated, so kind was the sea. An accomplished orchestra played. Laughter joined music. Corks popped. Riches! Every one here was being rich for a week anyway. Hands in pockets, he stood contemplative, looking over the balustrade. And then something called him warmly and quietly, yet urgently, without a sound. He glanced round to see what it could be, and it was Mrs. Hathaway's eyes; brown, bright, widening in her pretty moon face as they fixed on him. For a moment they looked full at one another. Why? He did not know. Doria did not know, either. And Dorrance invited:

"Have a glass of champagne with us, doctor."

He broke the spell of eyes with a movement of negation. "Thanks, no. I must go to my table. Formidable ladies there who will not like me to be late, I hear! But you looked so jolly up here I had to come and make my salute."

He walked away quickly, ran down the wide curving stairway and reappeared below.

"That's Miss Franklyn's admirer," said Doria clearly.

"O, no," said Gold in disclaimer.

"O, yes!" Doria insisted a little too vigorously.

And she decided within herself that of these two desirable men on either side of her the girl could not be spared one. No—she must have Barney Pierce; she must! And she would play Dorrance against him. The Franklyn girl—let both these men understand that she had a friend in the ship's doctor.

Elverton's eyes, looking into her own . . . she, too, had had the moment's fascination that he had felt. It had been like a message. But she repudiated it. He was all very well for the girl Franklyn; but, except as male decoration, no good to her.

Gold Franklyn must bring all her woman's instinctive cleverness to that first dinner, and it deceived the two men. She might have been accustomed, every night of her life, to dining out in the bland places sacred to the wealthy, so naturally did she assimilate it all, and the fierce concentration under her quietude did not reveal itself. It was the new life, the new chance, the big gateway! It seemed to her incredible that she had actually escaped, keeping up to Gip that fiction of work in the country; meeting without a qualm the hostile anger of his eyes; waving him off to the city; then finding this. Yes, it was a fairy tale; yet true.

In a dream—yet looking composed, initiated—Gold followed Doria from the restaurant into a large and gilded lift. They were going up to dance in the palm lounge. Again the men arranged for the most convenient table; fresh coffee was brought, liqueurs. Soon the orchestra came up, too, and began, dreamily, a Strauss waltz. A few of the other passengers moved on to the dance floor at once; but at their table there was an uncertain pause; a silence.

He rose then at once, with a slight smile, and they drifted away. For a half minute Dorrance sat regarding them.

He said: "They make a nice couple, don't they? Old friends, I gather?"

"It seems so, doesn't it?"

"Shall we . . . ?"

GASOLINE ALLEY—FIRST DEFEAT

Movies Launch Campaign on Improper Ads

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hillywood, Cal., July 11.—Will Hays warned a meeting of all studio heads here that they must eliminate suggestive and smutty advertising of films or drive the substantial portion of the American film going public out of the movie houses in a number involving box office disaster.

As a result of Hays' official notice discussion ensued in which Louis Mayer, head of the MGM studio; Winfield Sheehan, general manager at Fox's; "Junior" Laemmle, boss at Universal; Sam Katz, of the Paramount plant; Jack Warner, directing the First National-Warner plant; Eugene Allen of Educational, and David Selznick of Radio-RKO-Pathe took part. The discussion ended with the unanimous resolution to put movie exploitation in the future on a cleaner basis.

Hays, as head of the Association of Motion Picture Producers and Distributors, pointed out that questionable motion picture advertising had been appearing in some newspapers and on the movie house posters in some instances.

During the discussion alleged examples of improper advertising were cited from the following recent films: "Redheaded Woman," "Society Girl," "Strange Case of Molly Louvain," "This Is the Night," "Letty Lynton," "State's Attorney," "Merrily We Go To Hell," [in which the whole title was taken exception to]; "Week-End Marriage," "Thunder Below," "Sinners in the Sun," "Forgotten Commandments."

The producers pledged to eliminate such advertising phrasing in future as the following examples:

From "Letty Lynton"—"To her an affair to be forgotten when she had enough of it; but to him a living passion, a dangerous flame that flared to consume them both."

From "Redheaded Woman"—"Take all men as you find them; but take them."

From "Forgotten Commandments"—"A young love swept into hasty marriage through fear, then engulfed in a new work of free thought, free life, and free love."

From "Trial of Vivian Ware"—"I said 'yes' if you marry me afterward."

The Hays office points out that an ethics code governing film advertising was adopted by the producers' organization two years ago but that in the frenzied campaign to maintain business the code had been allowed to relax imperceptibly.

"Not all this advertising, by any means, is the fault of the producers," Joseph Breen of the Hays office explained. "Much of it was started by film theater men. Often a striking line is thought up by some exhibitor and proves so daring or catches attention so quickly in his local advertising campaign that it has been borrowed by other exhibitors showing the same film in other cities. Some of these examples of bad advertising do not even refer to anything actually in the films. In others it really originates in bits from the film itself."

Hays, who is czar of the movie distributors as well as the producers, has directed the clean-up orders to be sent out from New York offices of the distributors binding them to the same agreement which the producers accepted here.

It was announced that in the future all advertising ideas must be approved by the Hays offices and that any employé of any studio belonging to the Hays group who is held responsible for placing something improper before the public will be discharged.

Hard Times Take Heavy Toll of Young Romance

BY DORIS BLAKE.

They were to have been married in the spring of 1930. They had been going together for five years, the last two almost constantly. Early in 1929 the idea of marriage began shaping up. First it was the middle of June that was planned on, then October.

Then, you know what happened to both "Mae's" and "John's" inflated stocks and bonds and plans for a swank apartment. They're still seeing each other. Not so many evenings a week, but Sundays are still theirs together. But what different Sundays! The depression is at work here. No boom days in sight—no marriage days, thinks the man now in his early thirties.

The girl, younger, is petulant; accusing, too. She says: "We should have married when we had the money!" He says, "Well, we didn't. So that ends that!"

She says: "Aren't things ever going to get better?" The tone hints that John is responsible for the current outlook.

The end of that romance may be right around the corner, as friends predict. We hope not, for they are fond of each other. Caught in the meshes of a too prolonged engagement, as well as in the economic disaster.

The depression, no doubt, contributes other instances of couples trying to keep alive the old flame against hopeless looking chances of early marriage. In the old days prolonged engagements were commoner happenings than in recent times, except as they are shaping in the last year or two. The depression has brought them back.

What can be done about keeping the flame fanned until the happy days are here again is difficult to prescribe. But if the girl is going to nag she's bound to lose. If she is willing to let things ride she has a good chance of winning.

"19! All life ahead ..and my looks going..going.."

"DESPERATE, I asked Rita. She was older and might know something I could do.

"You see, my trouble began when I was eighteen. I never had any other trouble with my skin, but now my face was affected mostly. I was ready to try anything but at the end of a year I was no longer considered good-looking. I was so ashamed of my complexion I hated to go out with other girls and boys.

"It was Rita who told me to try Cuticura Soap and Ointment. Then I began to see results. My skin cleared up beautifully. I still use the soap. Wouldn't be without it. I can honestly say that I have used other preparations without any results. But as soon as I used Cuticura Soap I found marvelous results."

Great Leaders of World to Be Castle Guests

Baron Describes Plan on Visit to City.

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

Baron Karl Ferdinand Tinty of Schallaburg, Austria, is in town. He has been here a fortnight. He expects to remain another.

BARON TINTY.

For now that society has had its opportunity to wine and dine the Viennese nobleman, he intends to give a party in return, especially that he may tell some of his friends about his old medieval stronghold, Schallaburg castle, and the plan he has for making it an international institute of art, science, and education where, as he says, "the great minds of the world may gather and exchange ideas for the betterment of mankind."

The Tinty family has borne its title since 1507. Since 1760 the family has occupied the fortress on the Danube. But now Baron Karl Ferdinand, whose mother was the Countess Wurmbrand, is the sole remaining heir to the castle with its 80 rooms and countless art treasures.

This is the reason he is dreaming of using its architectural magnificence as the background for a center where great intellects can meet in complete informality, where new ideas can be struck off by the contact of minds.

And, as a matter of fact, it is something more than a dream, for President Robert Maynard Hutchins of the University of Chicago, President Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia university, Henry S. Pritchett of the Carnegie Foundation, Richard J. Ely, president of the Institute of Economic Research, and Chicago's Austrian consul, Michael Gerten, have indorsed the need of such an institute and expressed in writing their interest in the plan.

In developing the idea, Baron Tinty says, "I am prompted by the distinctly felt need for an international forum of the widest scope. This need, realized all over the world, has found its expression in such international ventures as the world court at The Hague and the league of nations at Geneva. While the cause of international justice and international politics seems to be thus taken care of by the permanent institutions at The Hague and at Geneva and by the sporadic meetings of representatives from various countries, little has been achieved as yet in furthering international cooperation in matters pertaining to cultural pursuits."

Baron Tinty does not intend that Schallaburg shall be another institution of learning where an assembly of pupils will have the privilege of being taught by international scholars, leaders of thought or artists. No, indeed, He does not care to reach the masses. What he does want to do is to spread the influence of Schallaburg through the most select leaders by affording them opportunity for informed mental intercourse.

In his own words, "Schallaburg will furnish the place, the inspiration and the opportunity for this work, and it will furnish it to those men and women whose work can provide the greatest possible contribution to mankind—actual and potential leaders from all over the world."

Schallaburg will furnish inspiration . . . it is situated in the land of the "Nibelungen" . . . it dates back to pre-Roman times when it was a Teuton temple or house of worship. Its ramparts have warded off Magyar and Turkish invaders and its stately halls have been graced by kings and nobles.

The Crusaders steamed past its crag set towers. In the train of these adventures there sprang up a trade on the Danube consisting of westbound silks, bronzes, spices, oils and of eastbound furs, arms, and saddlery. And Schallaburg was no different from the neighbor fortresses that took river tolls and the "flotsam-jetsam" rakeoff of stranded cargoes. Busy skyscrapers of medievalism! Then the troops of Napoleon from 1805 to 1809. At the Tinty fortress they insisted upon the great organ as loot.

The season at Schallaburg, according to the baron's institute plan, will be divided into three periods of three or four months apiece . . . and each will be reserved in turn for scientists, business men, and artists. The number of guests at each period will be restricted so as not to exceed a certain maximum attendance beyond which the atmosphere of informality and intimate contact might be destroyed. An international board of trustees will control.

"I will play the part of the host," said Baron Tinty. "I will say, 'Here is my home. You are welcome.'"

Parents Need New Viewpoint Toward College

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

As soon as some fond fathers, pacing back and forth hear the nurse's words: "You have a son, sir," they rush to their desks and enter the poor little thing in their alma mater. Or almost as soon.

"I'm Yale, '28, and he'll be—let me see—Yale, '50. Same college, old top, and may you have as good a time as I did."

Its not as exaggerated a statement as it sounds. The man who has graduated from a large and famous university is almost certain to choose that college for his son—not primarily because of the fact that it will suit his boy, but for sentimental reasons.

"Usually," said the head of a famous prep school to me the other day, "parents choose their children's colleges either because they've been there themselves or because of prestige of the institution.

"It may be the choice is made with the social climbing instinct, or because the college is well known. The majority of people who come to this school will say: 'I want you to prepare John for ———,' and then will be the name of Harvard, Princeton, Yale, or one of the other big and heavily endowed universities.

"This choice will be made regardless of what advantage the college offers for their particular child. And by that I mean both education and social advantages. Those both need to be considered."

He went on:

"There are small colleges all over the country that would suit many of these students better in every way.

"And here's a big point. Frequently we can prepare for the entrance requirements of these colleges without the drive that the college board examinations demand from us and from the pupils. We can offer students entering these colleges a richer and more liberal high school education."

Bledsoe First Negro to Sing 'Aida' on U. S. Stage

Cleveland, O., July 11.—(AP)—Applauded by more than 5,000 operagoers, Jules Bledsoe, Negro baritone, last night became the first man of his race ever to sing the rôle of Amenasro in Verdi's "Aida" on an American opera stage. The performance concluded Cleveland's second season of outdoor grand opera in the municipal stadium. Bledsoe, the Old Man River of "Show Boat," had sung in "Aida" in London, but never before in the United States. With only 24 hours' notice to prepare, the Negro baritone gave a remarkable portrayal of the captive Ethiopian king.

Miss Fairbank Returns Home from Germany

gamme, Mich., for the summer. Miss Jean Rumsey is remaining at Smith college this month for a special summer course in music and will join her family in August to spend the balance of her vacation at the lodge.

Hubert Clarkes Visit Leiters

Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Stanley Clarke of London are in town for a ten day stay at the Banks street residence of Mrs. Clarke's aunt, Mrs. Joseph Leiter. Mrs. Leiter, who has been at Virginia Hot Springs, is in the east at present and is expected back within a day or so.

Mrs. Clarke is the former Mary Campbell, daughter of the late Col. and Mrs. Colin Powys Campbell [Nancy Leiter], and a granddaughter of the late Levi Leiter. She is a sister of Miss Audrey Campbell, who resides with the Leiters and who returned last week with Miss Nancy Leiter from Virginia Hot Springs.

Mrs. William H. Mitchell, who went east last week for the meeting of the Woman's Organization for National Prohibition Reform, and then weekended with the Marshall Fields on Long Island, is expected to return to Lake Forest today.

Mrs. William Burry Jr. of Lake Forest will go east this week to see her younger son, James Michael, and his nurse settled at Hyannisport for the balance of the summer. In August the Burrys and their older boy, William Jr., will go up to the island colony at Desbarats.

Mrs. Franklin Perkins of Ojai, Cal., and her small son will arrive in Chicago from New York the latter part of this week after a leisurely trip from the coast via the Panama canal. They will be with Mrs. Perkins' parents, the John L. Shortalls of 339 Barry avenue, for the balance of the summer. Around the first of August the whole family will go to the Huron Mountain club in Michigan.

Mr. and Mrs. Oren Taft III. are back in Santa Barbara after a wedding trip to Honolulu and several weeks at Del Monte. They will return to the Monterey peninsula in September, having leased a house at Pebble Beach for several months in the fall. Mrs. Taft is the former Ellen Trimble of Santa Barbara.

Mr. and Mrs. Alan C. Dixon of 1500 Lake Shore drive will depart the end of this week for a vacation of a fortnight or more at a little private ranch in New Mexico, not far from Santa Fé. The spot they have chosen is "absolutely heavenly," according to Mrs. Dixon, and they'll be so high up in the mountains that they expect to forget the depression and all the responsibilities of their busy life in the city.

Miss Ann Bullock of Cocoanut Grove, Fla., who has been visiting the John Prossers in Lake Forest, now is the guest of the John T. Montgomerys of Evanston.

Mr. and Mrs. John W. Valentine and their small daughter have gone east to visit the Joseph L. Valentines at Green Meadow farm, their summer estate at Ashland, Mass.

The engagement of Miss Patricia Elinor Gillis, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Robert R. Gillis of Hammond, Ind., to Dr. J. Barton Hoag has been announced. Miss Gillis attended the Fontaine school in Cannes, France and the University of Southern California, and received her degree at the University of Chicago. Dr. Hoag, who is assistant professor of physics at the University of Chicago, received his A. B. degree from Colorado college, where he was elected a member of Phi Beta Kappa, and his Ph. D. degree from the University of Chicago. He is secretary of Sigma Xi, national scientific fraternity, and president of the Chicago section of the Institute of Radio Engineers. The wedding will take place on Aug. 31 in Hammond.

Mr. and Mrs. Abram Edward Smith of 180 East Delaware place announce the engagement of their daughter, Natalie, to A. Leslie Robinson, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. Philip Robinson of Victoria, B. C., and Honolulu. Miss Smith and her mother are vacationing at the Empress hotel in Victoria.

NEW YORK SOCIETY

New York, July 11.—[Special.]—Mrs. Charles E. Peck of the St. Regis will leave this week for the Equinox house, Manchester, Vt., to remain for the summer.

Mrs. Charles Wilmot Tracy and Emery W. Tracy, who are at the St. Regis, will sail for Europe Saturday on the Aquitania.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel F. Pryor have closed their tower apartment at the Waldorf-Astoria and are at their country home at Greenwich, Conn., for the summer.

Happy Wife Keeps Youth Brushes Away Gray Hair

Now you can really look years younger. Simply brush away those unsightly streaks or patches of gray. It is so easy to do—and at home—with Brownatone. Over 20 years of success recommend this proved method. With an ordinary small brush just tint your hair back to its natural shade—whether blonde, brown or black. Guaranteed harmless. Active coloring agent is purely vegetable. Does not coat the surface. Actually penetrates the hair. Defies detection. No tell-tale, flat "dyed" look. Cannot affect waving of hair.

No need to guess or gamble. Get a bottle of Brownatone today—only 50c. Then cut a lock of hair from your head and apply a little of this famous tint. If Brownatone does not prove it will actually give your dull, streaked, gray or faded hair its natural color, youth and sheen—your money back.

Magic Thrills Will Entertain Sally's Guests

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

I don't think the boy or girl exists—or the grownup, for that matter—who isn't delighted beyond words at the idea of magic. That's what makes our party for Thursday, July 21, such an exciting one. For we'll see Howard Thurston, the greatest magician of the day, who has brought with him three carloads of new tricks and a company of 52. You've all heard of this man, I am sure, and now you have an opportunity to see him.

The trick which will puzzle you most is one in which the conjurer suspends a girl in a huge open cage high up in the dome of the theater. She can be seen holding the sides of the cage, fully 50 feet away from the ceilings, 30 feet above the floor, and 25 feet out from the stage. Thurston fires a gun at the cage and—presto!—she disappears. No one except the magician himself knows where she has gone—not even his assistants. Doesn't that sound like the most marvelous of feats?

Jimmy Cagney will be at the Uptown that week, too, in his latest picture, "Winner Take All." If you like a film packed with punches you'll surely enjoy this one. Our hero is a prize fighter, you know, and his scrapes in the ring as well as out of it provide a score of laughs. He's supported by a very able cast, too.

Doesn't all this make you anxious to join the party? You will be assured of a fine time if you win an invitation, and to win an invitation, you know, you must write me a letter telling why you'd like to be one of my guests on that day. I shall select the hundred boys and girls who send most anxious to attend.

Each letter must reach me by Thursday morning of this week and it should not fail to tell me your age. Write your name and address plainly and send it to Sally Joy Brown, CHICAGO TRIBUNE, Chicago.

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Jobs Depend on Clothing.

"I have just recently left the county hospital, after a serious operation. I have no steady work. I get an odd job now and then, but they are hard to get when I am so shabby. Do you think you could get me a suit, size 38, and a pair of shoes, size 8? J. O."

The problem of clothing for the unemployed man becomes more distressing as time goes on. Many of them have not been able to buy anything for a year, two years, or more, and the result is that they are practically in rags.

Request for Baby Carriage.

"Can your magical hands procure a baby cab for us? A young couple, happy over the birth of their first baby are, like thousands of others, suffering from the depression. Now that baby's here the question is how to get sunshine and fresh air for it. The father is a world war veteran, out of work. N. B."

It's so important for the young baby to get as much sunlight as possible, and it's rather difficult if the mother hasn't a baby carriage. If your infant has outgrown his, won't you pass it on to this young woman?

American Artists to Decorate World's Largest Theater

New York, July 11.—[Special.]—American artists of the more advanced contemporary schools are to be commissioned to execute the decorations of International Music hall, the theater planned as the largest in the world, to be built in the heart of Rockefeller Center, it was announced today.

The artistic commissions involve sculpture, painting, ceramics and textiles. Among the large field of competing artists, twenty-one already have been chosen, according to Donald Deskey, who has been awarded the contract for ornamenting the theater. He declined to name them, however, until the commissions became official with actual signature.

International Music hall will have seating accommodations for more than 6,000 persons.

Currant Jelly Pie Luscious Menu Highlight

Wins Diners' Immediate Approval.

BY MARY MEADE.

Some witty philosopher once looked about him and remarked that the heart of the American home was the jam closet, for which bit of intuition he deserves three cheers. For name me a spot more alluring to the family or more heart stirring to the maker of things delicious than a cupboard filled with shimmering rainbows of jellies and jams! Wine red prune jams and grape jellies. Deep purple huckleberry creations. Quivering delicacies from peach, crabapple, cranberry, and lime. Spicy relishes of carrots, tomatoes, and horseradish. Candid flavors and mysterious combinations that take debates and rebuttals to sleuth out the source of their deliciousness.

But if so far you have thought of this closet of lusciousness as simply a source of "spreads," picnic treats, and occasional meat accompaniments, you've been losing out on a host of jam delights just crying to be made. For jam closets should fairly pop with new dishes and clever temptations for stepping up backward summer appetites. A few names? Currant jelly pie, then, for a starter. Or an apricot jam soufflé to glorify a Sunday night supper. Then there are red plum jam ribbon cakes with a delightful old fashioned look and a modern flavor; wee cherry jelly rolls for high tea; orange marmalade sponge cakes with plump layers hiding secrets of tangy goodness; peach jam puddings, strawberry jelly mousses, huckleberry meringues, pumpkin pies flattered with ginger marmalade, tasty tarts by the score with as many fruity flavors, and jam and jelly salads, sandwiches, sauces, and tall, tinkling drinks till the mind fairly whirls with the wealth of pleasant possibilities.

CURRANT JELLY PIE.

Two-thirds cup sugar.
One-third cup butter.
Three tablespoons flour.
One-eighth teaspoon salt.
Three eggs, separated.
Juice of 1 lemon.
Three-quarters cup currant jelly.
One-third cup sugar.
One crust pastry.

Thoroughly blend the butter and sugar and beat in the flour and salt. Cream until light, then stir in the beaten egg yolks. Add the lemon juice and slightly warmed currant jelly, beating until well blended. Pour into a deep pie plate which has been lined with flaky pastry. Bake in a moderately hot oven [355 degrees F.] about half an hour. Pile on a meringue made from the stiffly beaten egg whites blended with the one-third c. of sugar. Return to the oven and bake ten minutes in moderate heat, then open the oven door and bake twenty minutes longer.

PLUM JAM RIBBON CAKE.

For this delicious old time favorite use any moist, fluffy plain butter and egg cake recipe sufficiently generous to make three layers. Pour the batter required for two layers into the greased pans, and to the remaining third add one-half teaspoon cinnamon, one-fourth teaspoon each of cloves and nutmeg, one tablespoon of molasses and one-fourth cup each of chopped dates and raisins. Beat in quickly and turn the mixture into the third greased pan. Bake in a moderate oven [350 degrees F.] about half an hour. Put the layers together with red plum jam and cover with the following frosting:

CHERRY JELLY FROSTING.

1 cup cherry or currant jelly.
¼ teaspoon salt.
2 egg whites, unbeaten.

Melt the jelly over hot water and beat until smooth. Remove from the stove, add the unbeaten egg whites and the salt, and whip with a rotary egg beater until stiff. Spread over the cake and serve at once.

Now for a few quick suggestions for some of the treats mentioned a few paragraphs back. Apricot soufflé is made with your most fluffy of soufflé mixtures, baked and spread with apricot jam, flopped over and served with a crisp parsley garnish.

Jelly rolls may be made with a simple sponge cake recipe. Bake in a thin sheet, turn out at once onto a scattering of powdered sugar, cut into six inch squares, spread each with jelly, and roll up. Serve with a piping of sweetened whipped cream.

Recipes for marmalade pumpkin pie, peach jam pudding, and grape jelly muffins will be sent you on receipt of a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Natural Demand for this Newspaper

ACCURACY, thoroughness and moderation have built one of America's great newspapers here in Philadelphia.

From an humble 6,000 circulation in 1895—the smallest of thirteen Philadelphia newspapers—The Evening Bulletin has grown carefully and solidly to a place in nearly every home.

For thirty-seven years, it has appealed to those who wanted a fine newspaper. Premiums or contests had no part in its growth.

Its 535,675 net paid daily (June, 1932 average) represents the natural, free-will demand of the people for this newspaper.

A circulation two and one-half times greater than any other Philadelphia evening newspaper, greater than all morning newspapers combined.

has built a circulation, which reaches nearly every Home.

A circulation which is concentrated in the area of greatest sales: 93% of it in city and suburbs.

A circulation which has been tested by advertisers: The Bulletin carries more individual store advertisements than all other Philadelphia newspapers, morning and evening, daily and Sunday, combined.

And the advertising cost of this one-newspaper coverage of Philadelphia's billion dollar market is the lowest of any single newspaper in the country.

SO THIS IS FAME! AUTOGRAPH BUG BITES GERMANS

Fighters Hold Ship Stage.

Streets Decorated

BUSINESS men along North Clark street and on North avenue will decorate their stores with the colors of Germany and the United States during the stay of the German amateur boxing champions in Chicago. The team will do its training at the Germania club.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ABOARD S. S. EUROPA, Mid-Channel, July 11.—The German boxing champions who will fight in the International Golden Gloves bouts at Chicago July 26 spent a busy day today. When they were not working out they were inspecting the liner.

Autograph fans besieged the boxers when they lined up on the deck in their gala garb for the first picture of the team. Immediately regional pride began to assert itself. There was a call for a picture of the four western Germans together. The southern Germans felt challenged and Hans Ziglarski, Hans Bernloehr, and Josef Schleinkofer posed together to represent the southern states.

This left Eric Campe of Berlin stranded. For a fraction of a second he looked over the field of action, then grabbed the team's managers, Burger and Maidlar, and the three of them posed in honor of Berlin.

On the outside of the breast pockets of their gala coats the boys have the eagle of the German republic embroidered in black, red and, gold. While the pictures were being taken an old man stepped up to them and said:

"I am glad to see you are wearing the Prussian eagle when you are going to fight a match in a foreign country."

Train on Deck.

Campe bristled at this.

"This is the German eagle—it is not the eagle of a state," he declared.

This morning at 10 o'clock the boys started an hour and a half of training on deck. These sessions will be repeated daily until they land.

In the afternoon they joined the runners of the Olympic team, using the entire ship for a track field. The boxers wanted to swim in the Europa's tempting pool, but Maidlar vetoed swims because they "take too much out of a man not accustomed to sea water."

"We'll weigh 250 pounds each when we land," countered Heinrich Kohlhas, the heavyweight, pointing to his comrades stretched out in the luxury of sunshine after the midday meal.

To show he means business he started out alone to trot the deck. He is one to whom added poundage might be a handicap.

Say Bernloehr, Ziglarski Best.

As the boys trained this morning Bernloehr and Ziglarski were adjudged "Germany's best hopes at Chicago" by the athletic experts of Germany, Austria, and Czechoslovakia, watching them work. The Austrian Olympic team is also on the Europa and is headed by Prince Lichtenstein.

One of the favorites, Ziglarski, has been in 17 international bouts, of which he has won 15. With graciousness and a joyous smoothness worthy of brilliant diplomats, Ziglarski and Bernloehr both help to manage their comrades and help them surmount shyness.

None of the boxers knows English, but at odd moments they trot out a few words, showing they have been trying to learn secretly.

League Rules Dickey Must Pay in Full

Cleveland, O., July 11.—[Special.]—Bill Dickey, catcher for the New York Yankees, will pay a $1,000 fine and spend 30 days off the ball field, despite the protest of Col. Jacob Ruppert, the board of directors of the American league decided today.

Col. Ruppert, owner of the Yankees, protested that the penalty imposed upon Dickey for assaulting Carl Reynolds, Washington outfielder, was too severe. Reynolds suffered a fractured jaw and will be out of uniform for several weeks.

Three American league directors called the penalty just and declared that a similar punishment shall be inflicted in future cases. Those who concurred in the original ruling of President William Harridge of the American league were Alva Bradley, Cleveland president; Robert Quinn, Boston president, and Harry Grabiner, vice president of the Chicago White Sox, who represented Owner J. Lewis Comiskey. Col. Ruppert, the fourth director, did not vote as he was concerned in the case.

"So far as I'm concerned, it is all over," said Col. Ruppert, after the meeting.

It was decided to open the next season on April 13 or 14 and end the schedule on Oct. 4.

204 ENTRIES SET RECORD IN PUBLIC LINKS GOLF MEET

New York, July 11.—(AP)—A record entry of 204 golfers has been received for the public links golf championship to be played at Louisville, Ky., beginning July 19, the United States Golf association announced today.

Charles Ferrera, San Francisco, who came through to victory last year, will be back to defend his title and will lead his team in defense of the President Harding intercity team trophy. Twenty-four cities have entered teams for the Harding trophy.

Two rounds of qualifying play will be contested July 19 and 20 followed by three days of match play.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., July 11.—Jane Weiller, youthful star from the Northmoor Country club of Chicago, today won medalist honors in the 18 hole qualifying round for the third annual women's western open tournament. Miss Weiller, whose home is in Evanston, toured the 6,400 yard Ozaukee course in 41—42—83, which was three strokes over par figures.

Frances Hadfield, now a resident of St. Augustine, Fla., and Lucille Robinson, Des Moines, Ia., city champion, finished in a tie for second. They had identical cards of 43—42—85. Miss Weiller might have broken par and established a women's record for the course had she not taken sixes on the fifth, eighth, tenth, and eighteenth holes, where fives are par. Miss Weiller's card and par follow:

June Beebe Is Exempt.

Seventy-two players started. Of these June Beebe of Olympia Fields, Chicago, the defending champion, was exempt from qualifying. She will get her first test tomorrow when she meets Mrs. G. E. Cleophas of Beloit, who became eligible for the championship flight match play with a 44—45—89 card today.

Nine Chicago district title aspirants made the championship flight. Milwaukee had four, Beloit one, Des Moines one and Rochester, Minn., one. Outstanding among the matches on tomorrow's card is the 9:30 engagement involving Miss Robinson and Marie Reimer, club champion of Tripoli, Milwaukee.

Mrs. Taylor Wins Playoff.

Stallion Brings $170,000, Record Price, at Auction

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

NEWMARKET, England, July 11.—[Special.]—A record auction price was paid today when Solario, famous stallion, was purchased by Lord Glanley, English turfman, for 47,000 guineas (it is approximately $170,000 in American money). The former record was 37,500 guineas, which was paid for Flying Fox in 1910.

DAGLIA'S LUCK ALL BAD; GRIFFS BEAT HIM, 5 TO 1

Thomas Shows Old Mates He Still Can Pitch.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 11.—Alphonse Thomas, who as a member of the White Sox was so filled with assorted ailments that he could not win, turned up as an enemy today and just about convicted himself of the old charge that he had been soldiering in his former job. He stood his one time Chicago pals on the buttons of their respective caps and meanwhile the Senators with the help of amazing luck beat Pete Daglia, the Italian giant from the Coast league, 5 to 1.

Daglia's bad luck did not show up in the shaping of the fielding blunders such as the Sox usually make a part of their daily toil. It was just a case of disheartening breaks. The Senators made their first run against him, thus tying the only tally the Sox could pick up, on a fluke hit and a wild pitch. Then in the seventh, an inning in which Manager Fonseca was chased for speechmaking, a short fly ball that nobody could reach knocked the bottom out of the game by scoring three men. Even the last Senator run started with a dinky infield hit in the eighth.

Seeds Starts with Double.

When Seeds opened the game with a snappy two bagger to center, Thomas probably feared his former mates were going to be a bit rough with him. He fooled the next two men all right, but not old Fatty Fothergill. The giant man banged a double into the right field corner, and Seeds dashed home. This proved the only inning in which the westerners could explode more than one hit.

Daglia began having interesting experiences as early as the first inning. With two out Manush doubled and Cronin walked. Three strikes for Harris stopped this. The second was even more troublesome for Daglia. West singled and Bluege walked for a starter. Spence's bunt nudged them along. Daglia handled this situation impressively by fanning Thomas and getting Kuhel on a fly to Seeds.

The big olive hued Italian pitcher was in another jam in the fourth, but this was caused by some of young Sullivan's funny third basing. Harris hit a grounder straight at the lad and he grabbed something, but it wasn't the ball. The ball hopped on its way for a double. There was none out at the time and Sullivan's stationary fielding caused considerable concern until Daglia succeeded in setting down the next three.

Wild Pitch Scores Cronin.

Cronin started the home sixth with an ordinary grounder toward short. Daglia shoved out his gloved hand and the ball rolled off the end of the finger tips for a hit. Appling could have handled it easily. Harris sacrificed, and on West's infield out Cronin strolled over to third. Then Daglia was guilty of a wild pitch that gave Cronin time to dash home with the tying run.

If Daglia became discouraged after his mates had failed to make use of a golden opportunity in the seventh, he couldn't be blamed. Berry led off with a single and when Kuhel made a late throw to second on Daglia's bunt there were two on with none out. Jones was put on second to do Berry's running. Then the Sox swooned under an epidemic of pop-ups. Both Seeds and Hayes hoisted to Cronin. And Sullivan sent a fly to short right which Harris misjudged but finally caught by diving.

That Unhappy Seventh.

Daglia's unhappy seventh began with an out after which Thomas poked a phoney, looping single over second. Kuhel singled through short. Daglia pitched two wide to Myer and when the next also was called a ball Manager Fonseca stepped up to ask Mr. Van Grafian, the pantomime umpire, a few questions. Fonseca appeared to be conducting himself like a gentleman, but Van Grafian resented the intrusion into his affairs. He ordered the Sox boss off the field. Then the business of play was resumed and Myer walked. Manush popped to Hayes, but a high pop off Cronin's bat fell in short left center for a double and the three waiting runners scored.

The Senators stepped into a more or less legitimate run in the eighth. West beat out a hit to Blue and scored on singles by Spencer and Thomas.

Now, Now, Tommy!

Got a Tip on Classic? Sure, Every One Has

BY FRENCH LANE.

So much dope on the Classic is flying around at Arlington that you will get a classic jag if you don't watch out. Riley Wilson, who came with Tammany Hall's crowd to the Democratic convention, refuses to leave until after the Classic is run. He says he understood the Democratic convention would not end until Classic day.

Top Flight thrilled the railbirds a few minutes before the first race was run yesterday when she worked the Classic distance of a mile and a quarter in 2:08 2-5. She finished full of run. The horse that beats the queen of American racing will win the Classic. That's the way it appears five days before Classic day.

Fourteen candidates for the Classic were named overnight in the field of 17 for the Sheridan stakes at a mile and a furlong this afternoon. It's a revival of one of Chicago's famous old time races, the early runnings of which gave many thrills in the glorious days of old Washington Park.

The race is fashioned for 3 year olds that have not won $15,000 in any one engagement. An entry clerk accepted the nomination of Gusto, which won the $50,000 addded American Derby. Later Gusto was ruled out because he wasn't eligible.

The Sheridan this afternoon promises to be a thriller. Among the formidable Classic eligibles named for it are Evening, Fairbypair, Springsteel, Late Date, Mad Pursuit, Yonkel, Cathop, Barcelona Pete, Big Beau, and Indian Runner. The horse that wins may share the post of favorite with Top Flight or Faireno when the parade to the post for the Classic starts. There may be 15 starters in the Classic, and if that's the case, the race will have a gross value of more than $90,000. The winner's share will be close to $78,000. Add that sum to Top Flight's winnings and she will become the second highest money winning horse in the world, moving on past Phar Lap and coming up within easy striking distance of Sun Beau.

There was great hilarity in the Post and Paddock club box of Otto W. Lehmann when Subtlety, a home bred from the Arlington Jockey club president's Chesney farm on Lake Villa, won the second race.

Faireno, the winner of the Belmont, the Dwyer, and the Shevlin Stakes, rolled in from Broadway yesterday morning. He's a handsome guy, almost a picture horse. He appeared fit and ready to run the mile and a quarter of the Classic on about three minutes' notice. Edelweiss, a candidate for the Lassie stakes, and White Clover II., which will try Equipoise in the Arlington handicap, came along as traveling companions.

Silvio Coucci, the sensational kid rider from New York, reached Arlington Park yesterday morning and piloted Miss Bunting to victory in the first race. Then he came home on Etcetera in the third and Fiddler in the sixth. Horses run for this Italian youth, and he will push some of our western stars out of the limelight right away.

Parker Wins 2 Louisville Matches in Love Sets

Louisville, Ky., July 11.—(AP)—Frank Parker, 16 year old tennis star from Milwaukee, played his first and second round matches of the Kentucky state tennis tournament today without losing a game. Parker, who is seeded No. 1 in the tournament, defeated Ed Boyce and Ed Pfeiffer, both of Louisville, by 6-0, 6-0 scores.

BETTS HANGS UP NO. 10; BRUINS' BATS HARMLESS

Winning Streak Ends at Five.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

It took the Boston Braves all of five minutes at the outset of yesterday's baseball contest with the Cubs to bust up the Chicagoans' winning streak, which had mounted to five games. The Braves pounced on Pat Malone to effect his retirement before the first putout had been accomplished, and when Burleigh Grimes got the side out in that first inning the visitors had five runs home for the bulk of an eventual 8 to 2 victory.

The setback shoved the Cubs 2½ games back of the Pirates, who again defeated Brooklyn, but the north side boys are assured of ending the Boston series today in second place.

After the thumping of Malone the Cubs made two unearned runs in their end of the inning, but, though they outhit Boston 7 hits to 6, they never gave Huck Betts any anxiety in his task of winning his tenth victory of the season, as compared with 2 defeats.

Braves Outfielders Rest.

The extent to which Huck made the Cubs like it is found in the fact that aside from their hits, all of which were singles, the Chicagoans knocked only three balls out of the infield.

It was slim solace to the Cubs that the Braves didn't make a hit after the fourth inning and that only one man reached first during that span. This belated effectiveness on the part of Grimes and Tinning, of course, was important only as a key to hopes for the second half of the season, which opens with this afternoon's engagement with the Braves.

Freddie Leach was the main man in the decisiveness of the defeat. His triple off Malone in the first inning drove in two runs, and he later scored himself. His double off Grimes in the second inning drove in two more runs. Urbanski scored three runs in the first four innings without getting a basehit. Twice he scored after landing on errors by Hack and the other time he drew a base on balls.

Sad Recitation.

There's no need putting off any longer the recitation of the details of Mr. Malone's sad and precipitate demise. So here goes: Maranville walked and then Urbanski bounced a potential double play ball at Hack. Stanley punted and instead of two out there were two on and none out, not to mention the fact that Malone's neck suddenly had become very red. Berger then singled to left, Maranville scoring and Urbanski taking third. Worthington followed with a single to right, Urbanski scoring and Berger taking third. Leach tripled to left, scoring Berger and Worthington, whereupon Manager Hornsby ordered the club bugler to sound taps for Malone.

Grimes came on the scene and made Shires roll out to English while Leach held third. Burleigh fanned Akers and had a count of 3 balls and 2 strikes on Hargrave when he loosed a wild pitch, enabling Leach to score and Hargrave to trot to first. Betts ended the inning with a gentle tap to Hack.

Urbanski Helps Cubs.

The Cubs made two runs in their half of the first inning because, like Hack, Urbanski was too eager to start a double play. Herman opened with a single which was just out of Maranville's reach. Then English walked. Cuyler popped to Maranville. Stephenson sent a hot grounder to Urbanski, who came up with it all right, but in his zeal to launch a double slaying, cast the ball to the dugout. Herman and English scoring and Stevie reaching third. Barton popped to Hargrave in front of the plate and Grimm popped to Maranville.

Leach's lust for extra base hits gave the Braves two runs after two were out in the second. Urbanski walked with one down and stopped at second on Berger's single to center. Worthington fanned, but Leach cracked a double to right center, scoring Urbanski and Berger.

In the fourth inning Hack again elected himself Urbanski's benefactor. This time Stanley captured his grounder but made a bum throw to first. Berger then followed with his third hit a single to center, putting Urbanski on third, whence he scored on Worthington's fly to Barton. Leach filed to Cuyler. This sally concluded the day's scoring production.

The easterners did it again yesterday when Marooned, a bay son of Whiskalong-Hazel Spears, raced home the winner of the Wilmette sweepstakes which had a gross value of $4,810.

Marooned raced in the old rose and blue jacket of Leo J. Marks of New York. And in second place, only five lengths back of the easily galloping Marooned, came Capsheaf, from Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney's stable. A neck behind Capsheaf was Hal Price Headley's Liqueur, the only westerner that was able to make it interesting for the flying easterners.

That's a Nice Price.

Marooned, with Apprentice Wayne Wright in the saddle, wasn't so highly regarded, for he paid 7 to 1, yet he romped into the lead on the turn not long after the 5½ furlong tussle started, pulled out into a safe lead, and took it easy most of the way down the stretch.

The 2 year old stake, which found numerous eligibles for tomorrow's rich Hyde Park going into action, brought a field of 14 to the post, and they were an unruly lot, with the Schwartz entry of Tickory Tock and Clarify causing most of the trouble. After a delay of eight minutes Starter Dickerson finally got them away in perfect alignment.

Miss Brilliant showed in front for an instant, then Liqueur and Marooned raced on by her and they fought it out nearing the head of the stretch, where Marooned conquered Liqueur and moved out into a good lead. Marooned was able to hold the lead from there on home for the pace of :23 for the quarter and :46 3-5 for the half, killed off all those who tried to keep pace, and the others were a floundering, badly beaten lot in the final furlong.

Coucci Rides Three Winners.

Silvio Coucci, the crack apprentice rider of New York, made his first appearance at Arlington and rolled home on three winners, capturing the first race on Miss Bunting, the third on Etcetera and in the sixth he was in the saddle when Fiddler raced to an easy victory after leading most of the way.

Several candidates for the Classic came together in the Buckingham purse at a mile. The winner was Sazerac, owned by A. Lettelier of New Orleans, which as a result of his triumph by a length and half over Big Brand, most certainly will give the south a formidable representative in the world's richest 3 year old race.

Sazerac is a son of Westy Hogan-Resistance. The offspring of Westy Hogan never have been noted for their distance running ability. Yet Sazerac ran this mile in such easy fashion over a track that was dull in 1:37 4-5, he gave the impression he could go all day at the same easy clip.

Big Brand Disappoints.

Big Brand was backed so stoutly and with such confidence he seemed already home even fifteen minutes before post time. But he wasn't equal to the pace Sazerac cut out for him, and, while he had little trouble beating Miss Corinne by three lengths for second money, he hardly threatened the easy going, long striding Sazerac, which had Jockey A. Robertson in the saddle.

While Sazerac has been improving lately, he didn't muster many backers yesterday and paid $17.98 for a two dollar win ticket.

Except at Arlington Park, Sazerac has never been much of a race horse. But as a 2 year old at Arlington last season he beat the best that could be sent against him.

Foulis, Habicht Win Best Ball Event with 67

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Jim Foulis and George Habicht of the home club won the first 1932 pro-amateur event conducted by the Illinois Professional Golfers' association at the Ruth Lake Country club yesterday by turning in a best ball score of 67. Jim, who holds the Illinois professional championship, couldn't quite set the pace he made earlier in the year, when he toured the course in 62, ten strokes under par, but did come in with a 67 for his medal score. Gunnar Nelson of Rockford had the next best individual card of the day, a 71.

H. Mission of Berwyn shot the best golf of the day, an 86, to win low gross honors in the tournament conducted yesterday at Glenbard by the Wakem and Whipple company for Illinois radio dealers. A field of nearly 150 competed. Low net winners included Ruben Schoenberg, 88—15—73; C. J. Riordan, 93—18—75; C. A. Sauer, 110—35—75, and L. Sanders, 120—35—85. William Haydon, H. M. Smith, and J. L. Wylke scored in the blind bogey with 87s, while Miss Nan Mosedale took the low net event for women with an 82.

The Chicago District Golf association will hold its fourth handicap event of the season tomorrow at the Beverly Country club. Previous winners this year have been Jimmy Garard of Flossmoor, George Dawson of Glen Oak, and Dick Martin of Briergate.

Members of Glen Ellyn Masonic lodge will meet at Glen Oak tomorrow in their third annual golf tournament, which is expected to attract a gathering of 100.

The Chicago Coal Dealers' Golf association will hold its annual tournament today at Olympia Fields. More than 100 are expected to compete. Tomorrow the club will be the scene of a tournament involving the Radio Industries club.

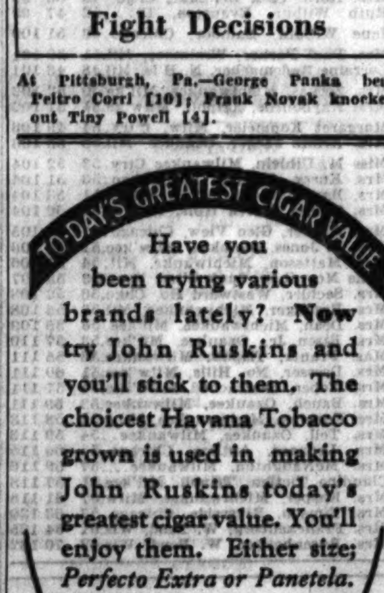

Entries for the 36th annual United States amateur championship, to be decided at the Baltimore Country club, Baltimore, Md., Sept. 12-17, close on July 26 with the United States Golf association, 110 East 42d street, New York. The entry fee is $5. Sectional elimination rounds in 20 district centers throughout the country will be held Aug. 16 with 36 holes of medal play. Bryn Mawr will be the battleground for the Chicago trials. Only Francis Ouimet, who won the title last year, will be exempt from qualifying.

Another closing date for golfers to remember is Friday, before which aspirants for the Chicago District Golf association junior championship must file entries with Joseph Davis, secretary of the association, 236 North Clark street. The fee is $1. The tournament will be played at Mission Hills, Northbrook, next Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday. Thirty-six holes will be played Monday to decide the qualifiers for the two individual championships, eight to qualify for the match play in class A, for boys under 18, and eight more to do likewise in class B, for boys 18 and 19. Match play will be held Tuesday and Wednesday. A team championship will be decided on the basis of the four best scores from any one club in the medal play.

The Illinois Golf club and the West Wilmette illuminated course will take over Thursday on the tournament calendar in the Chicago district. Illinois will hold its stampede tournament over 36 holes, while the West Wilmette club will present its first invitational tournament under lights for professionals. Twelve cash prizes will be offered in the 18 hole battle over the nine hole iron shot course.

Oak Park Tennis Club Clinches B Division Title

The Oak Park Tennis club clinched the north section B division championship of the Chicago Tennis association by defeating River Forest five matches to four at Oak Park. Oak Park will meet Jackson Park, south division winner, for the city championship.

Oak Park's A team continued to lead in its division by defeating the University of Chicago, 4 to 2, on the latter's court.

Stecher and Steinke Head Tonight's Card

Joe Stecher and Hans Steinke will wrestle at Marigold Gardens, Grace street at Broadway, tonight. The winner has been promised a match with Jim Londos, heavyweight champion. Stecher and Steinke are both more than 6 feet tall, with Steinke, who weighs 250 pounds, having a 15 pound advantage.

JOE STECHER.

Four supporting matches are scheduled, including a meeting between George Hills, Wisconsin lumberjack, and Ray Richards, Stecher's training partner. The semi-windup will bring together Willie Davis and Jim Clinkstock, Oklahoma Indian.

George Tragos will grapple Oscar Kohl, 218 pound newcomer to Chicago, in another preliminary, while Hans Bauer, Chicago German, and Charlie Fox, Cleveland policeman, will provide the action in the opener.

Promoter Doc Krone has made arrangements to move the show indoors in case of rain.

GIRL ATHLETES TO ARRIVE TODAY FOR OLYMPIC TESTS

Girl track stars from every part of the United States will begin congregating in Chicago today for the women's final Olympic tryouts, to be held Saturday at Dyche stadium. By tomorrow night it is expected that most of the 200 entrants will be here, awaiting Saturday's meet.

Babe Didrickson, the one girl track team from Dallas, Tex., is due on the Chicago and Alton at 7:30 this morning. She will attempt to win eight events in the tryouts. She will be accompanied by Mrs. Henry Woods, her chaperon.

Evelyn Furtsch, Los Angeles sprint star, is driving here and is expected today, accompanied by several other girls. Most of the California delegation came by train, however, and the last of them is due today. Lillian Copeland, Alice Ryden, Anna Vrana O'Brien, and Maybelle Reichardt will arrive this morning. The northern California delegation, consisting of Gloria Russell, Wilhelmina von Bremen, and Jean Sundborg came in yesterday.

N. W. Niles, Former Net Champion, Dies at 46

TELL WINNER OF EACH ROUND IN SPARTA BOUTS

Ten Four-Rounders on Card Tonight.

An experiment that long has been contemplated by the Illinois athletic commission will be launched tonight at Sparta stadium, 21st street and Kostner avenue, when the West Side Boxing club will present ten bouts, 40 rounds of boxing. Decisions of the referee and two judges of the matches will be announced to the audience after each round.

George Getz, member of the Illinois commission, offered the experiment to his co-workers, Gen. John V. Clinnin and Fred Gardner, yesterday and they immediately resolved to try it on the southwest side tonight.

Florida, East Like Plan.

The idea has been tried in Florida and New York rings with promising results. The system of announcing the winner after each round has been endorsed by Gene Tunney, Herbert Bayard Swope, Bernard Gimbel, New York millionaire fight fan, and John Shepard, mayor of Palm Beach. If the experiment is successful here, Gen. Clinnin will, no doubt, suggest its adoption in all National Boxing association territory. The general is president of the N. B. A.

The West Side club, of which Joe Triner, director of the Chicago Stadium, is president, and Sidney Strotz is secretary and treasurer, stages its second show tonight. On June 16 Tony Canzoneri, lightweight champion, and Harry Dublinsky fought the windup of the club's first show and drew $5,806.50. The Southtown Irish Athletic association offered the only other outdoor cards this season at White City. Tuffy Griffith and Jack Roper drew $1,867 on May 30 and receipts for the Charley Retzlaff and Les Marriner show, June 30, were $3,661.

Patrick Meets Firpo.

Mickey Patrick, East Chicago middleweight, and Henry Firpo, Louisville, Ky., meet in the main event at Sparta stadium tonight. The match is set for four rounds at 165 pounds. Patrick knocked out Larry Udell in his most recent encounter. Paul Dazzo, former Golden Gloves champion, and Young Mitchell will fight the four round semi-final.

The second appearance of Harry Schuman in Chicago since his successful encounters in Florida last winter is attracting considerable attention. Schuman won eleven of thirteen starts in Florida. He meets Harry [Kid] Roberts in a four round supporting contest. Last month Schuman whipped Joe Meyers on the southwest side. The complete card, all four round matches, follows:

Henry Firpo vs. Mickey Patrick.
Paul Dazzo vs. Young Mitchell.
Harry Schuman vs. Harry [Kid] Roberts.
Pete Pantaleo vs. Benny Goldblatt.
Jack Robinson vs. Tex More.
Jack King vs. Herb Peterson.
Danny Neenan vs. Art Donovan.
Oscar Liebman vs. Mickey McGee.
Dick Sisk vs. Jimmy Lundy.
Jack Roper vs. Tommy Davenport.

James A. Shortall, father of William Shortall, chief inspector of the Illinois athletic commission, was buried yesterday at All Saints' cemetery. He died Saturday at his home, 4418 West Congress street, from a heart attack. He was 74 years old. Shortall was a baseball pitcher with the Chicago Stars and Chicago Whitings. He is survived by his widow, six sons and two daughters.

UZCUDUN, SCHAAF TO MEET JULY 25 IN TITLE SERIES

New York, July 11.—[Special.]—James J. Johnston, boxing director at Madison Square Garden, announced today he had signed Paulino Uzcudun, Spanish heavyweight, and Ernie Schaaf, stable mate of Champion Jack Sharkey, for a fifteen round bout in the Garden bowl, Long Island City, on July 25. The contest, Johnston said, will be scheduled as the first of a series of eliminations planned to produce the outstanding challenger for a title match with Sharkey next year.

In these eliminations, Johnston asserted, Max Schmeling, former champion of the world, will not be required to compete. Instead, Schmeling will be held in reserve as the semi-finalist, according to present plans.

AGED FLAVOR is the uncommon ingredient in CLICQUOT

It is not just an "advertising claim." It is the real reason for Clicquot Club's popularity. Finest of ingredients are AGED 6 MONTHS—the time necessary for mellow, perfect blending. Then, and only then, are the sweetening and carbonated water added. Aged flavor is smooth flavor. And it's there in every bottle.

started the two weeks' preparation with one thought, a determination to be in the best condition of their lives. Already they believe that the eight representatives chosen will maintain the record established last year when the champions of France were defeated at Soldiers' field.

Tony Rises Early.

At 7 o'clock this morning the telephone operator plugged in the calls which supposedly were to start the boys on their way to the dining room. Actually half of her work was wasted, for a gang of early risers, headed by Tony Sutton, already were out on the lake front. At 8 o'clock all assembled for breakfast. From then until late afternoon work kept the fighters busy.

The first task was erection of the ring. This ring, complete from floor boards to press bench and borrowed from the Ashland Boulevard auditorium in Chicago, had been shipped to the lake last Friday. Johnny Behr, who has pushed the Illinois Athletic club ring around these many years, took command of a crew of Adam Smith, Tony Sutton, George Haberski, Vernon Miller, and Jabber Young.

Frankie Buys Some Pants.

In the meantime Photographer Swain Scalf, who has been recording the camp's activities, was chasing from the riding club to the golf links and back again, snapping the boys at work and at play. Frankie May was the first of the group to reach Syracuse, the small town on the north end of the lake three miles from the hotel. Frankie came away from home without a pair of work pants and so he visited the local haberdasher.

By the time Frank and your correspondent, who supplied the conveyance, came back, a red hot ball game was going on at the back lawn. We didn't miss the excitement, however, for we pulled up just as Pitcher Johnny Phagan tossed a home run ball to Duffy Dvonch. If Duffy hits a German like he hit that indoor ball it'll be just too bad.

Dr. C. R. Hoy of Syracuse visited the hotel after lunch. All passed his inspection except Henry Rothier, the lightweight champion. Henry had a slight touch of fever, about a half degree. He had a minor operation on his nose four weeks ago and it isn't completely healed. Dr. Hoy ordered a day's complete rest and prescribed a solution to be sprayed up the nose several times a day.

Connell Has Sore Hand.

Bill Connell, the middleweight from Streator, Ill., a newcomer, is the only other on the squad who has reported any trouble. His right hand is sore and he can do no bag punching for several days. X-rays taken last week however, show no fracture.

Headquarters have been established in the wing of the hotel which the Golden Glovers occupy. Mr. Buckley the manager, ordered all furniture taken out of a room and two long tables have been brought in. On these the lads will receive their daily rub downs and have their bruises treated. The bulletin board will provide an easy means of contact with all boxers. Here will be located the scales and the weight records of each fighter.

The team now consists of 16. In reality, however, two others are considered on the squad. Billy Celebron of Rockford, the welterweight runner up who could not make the trip because he recently secured employment, will be drafted if anything should happen to Johnny Phagan. George Goodman, bantamweight, is the other. Goodman failed to secure permission of his employers to make the trip, although it is hoped he will get away next week to finish conditioning.

Roman Forced Out.

Joe Roman, the 1932 featherweight champion from Joliet, did not come to the lake. Roman felt that he could not afford to miss two weeks' income. Frankie May, George Haberski and possibly Leo Rodak are ready to take care of the 126 pound class. All have demonstrated this summer that they are better boxers than the champion. Rodak won the bantamweight title, but he may be advanced to the featherweight division if he finds it difficult to reduce to 118 pounds.

The summer residents of Lake Wawasee and the surrounding towns have evidenced intense interest in Golden Gloves. Many came over this afternoon to watch the first workout. The hotel authorities predict that a couple hundred fans will be here this weekend to see the boys who will meet the German champions.

La Grange, Sunset Polo Teams Meet Tomorrow

The Stalford Stable Polo club of La Grange will meet the Sunset Polo club trio in a twilight game tomorrow night at Cantigny field. Capt. Arnold Tausig will be at No. 2 for Stalford. Leo Beck will play at No. 1 and Joseph Giacobbi at No. 3. It will be a return game, Stalford having won the first contest, 5 to 4. A trophy, donated by Mrs. Maybelle Llewellyn, will be awarded to the winning club.

In the Wake of the News

TEAM SPIRIT.

LAKE WAWASEE, IND., July 11. —[Special.]—Friend Arch: Exercise of their own choosing and a pep session were on today's program for the Chicagoland boxers who will meet Germany's eight best mitt slingers at Soldiers' field July 26.

You may think, Arch, that we're a little slow in getting started on the formal training schedule which begins tomorrow. That, however, is part of a deliberate plan which aims primarily at physical condition and the right mental attitude. Even when regular work beings, there will be a minimum of actual boxing. Instead, will come upbuilding from nutritious food, then gradual tapering down to weight as July 26 approaches. Supplementary, of course, will be road work, rope skipping and setting up exercises to develop wind and stamina. The boys also will do shadow boxing and compete in various sports to develop speed and to sharpen eyes.

Now let me tell you why our boxers will be in the ring probably not more than two rounds a day as compared to the six to ten rounds in which Jack Sharkey, Max Schmeling, and other champions or near champions indulge before a big fight. Professionals usually go out of training between bouts and resume their normal life. Therefore, they need more boxing to pick up where they left off.

Of the 16 boys here at Lake Wawasee, 11 were on our intercity Golden Gloves team. That means they were boxing for weeks through the preliminary tourneys. After our city finals, they worked for the New York bouts. Because of the reputation acquired, they have since been in demand for appearances at stags and amateur shows. They have boxed in competition perhaps twice a week. The five boys who are seeking to displace intercity champions have followed much the same routine.

These boys are not dull in boxing. They might even go stale from too much of it. By this time, too, they have acquired a fighting style of their own. It would be foolish to attempt to change or improve that on a major basis within two weeks.

In one respect, however, Chicagoland boxers will be coached. That will be in continuous fighting. It was in this phase that their showing against New York was not satisfactory. Perhaps it was their inexperience. Ringwise amateurs know that action and whaling away, unless ordered to break clean by the referee, is permissible. It makes an impression on both judges and spectators in short three round bouts to which the amateurs are limited. The tendency of several Chicago boxers was to relax in the clinches at New York. We thought it cost us at least one decision. Especial stress will be laid on keeping going at all stages unless the referee orders otherwise.

Now there's another point, Arch, which may surprise some of our followers. That's about smoking. At the pep session Wilfrid Smith told the fellows he wanted them to have a good time while here, and he cited the good food, swimming, golf, horseback riding, indoor ball, and ping pong, but he added we were here for only one purpose and that purpose is to beat Germany.

Then Trainer Johnny Behr outlined the daily program. Morning call is at 7:45, breakfast at 8, road work at 9:30, luncheon at 12, boxing, bag punching, and rope skipping from 2 to 4. Dinner is at 6 o'clock and the boys are in their rooms by 10 o'clock.

After other routine instructions, Behr paused, then asked, "How many of you boys smoke?" There was no reply. "Come on, out with it," the trainer continued, "I know some of you smoke. Adam Smith, Rockford baker boy, veteran of three Golden Gloves tourneys admitted "A cigar occasionally." Several others confessed an occasional fag.

"Well," resumed Behr, "smoking doesn't do any one any good. The practice may not hurt some fellows accustomed to smoking. Others it will. You are only handicapping yourselves. The point is, we don't want to be policemen. If you smoke tell us about it. Do it out in the open air. Don't sneak into your rooms and lock your room doors as some of the boys did in New York, then sleep in the polluted air.

"We don't approve of smoking but we're not going to hit you on the chin or throw you off the team if you tell us about it. I don't think any of the German boys smoke."

So that's that, Arch, and I don't think there'll be much smoking on our team. Regards,

HARVEY T. WOODRUFF.

Illinois Coaches Are Hit by Ruling on Income Tax

Urbana, Ill., July 11.—(AP)—Thirty-eight coaches and other employés of the Athletic Association of the University of Illinois, who did not file income tax returns for 1930 and 1931, are affected by the announcement of the internal revenue office at Springfield that salaries received from athletic associations are subject to taxation.

Only one employé of the university's athletic association filed a return for the years in question, it was revealed today. The others had not filed returns as they were under the impression they were exempted.

O. G. Addleman, collector of internal revenue, has notified association officials that returns need not be made on that part of the salary paid by the university, but must be made on the money paid by the athletic association. Fourteen of the coaches receive their entire salaries through the association and the others are paid partly by the university and receive the balance of their salaries from the association.

Addleman said he contemplated no action against the association employés who had made no return.

COLUMBUS FIRES LEIBOLD; PUTS IN SOUTHWORTH

Rochester, N. Y., July 11.—(AP)—William H. Southworth, for the last five seasons manager of the Rochester club of the International league, and winner of four pennants with that team since 1928, has been switched to Columbus of the American association, Warren C. Giles, president of the Rochester club, announced today.

George [Specs] Toporcer will succeed Southworth.

LEIBOLD IS FIRED.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 11.—[Special.]—Nemo Leibold, manager of the Columbus club of the American association since 1928, has been dismissed, it was announced today by Larry McPhail, president of the Red Birds, who was here with the team. Leibold formerly was a member of the Milwaukee and Columbus clubs in the association and also played with the Chicago White Sox.

Leibold's dismissal came after the Red Birds dropped six consecutive games.

Tilden to Seek Ninth Title in Pro Meet Here

When William T. Tilden takes the court at South Shore Country club July 23 to 31 in the sixth annual United States professional tennis championships he will be seeking his ninth national singles title. Twelve years ago he won his first national amateur championship at Forest Hills and now he will be faced by the strongest field that has ever opposed him as he seeks to demonstrate that, despite his 39 years he still rules supreme.

His old amateur rival, Vincent Richards, three times holder of the national professional title and a finalist last year against Big Bill, Hans Nusslein, the smooth stroking German, who has defeated Tilden on several occasions this year; Karl Kozeluh, the Czechoslovakian, who had an uninterrupted reign in professional tennis until Tilden entered the field, and Albert Burke, the French professional champion, lead the field that will face Tilden.

GLEDHILL WINS FIRST LONGWOOD TENNIS MATCH

Brookline, Mass., July 11. — [Special.]—Keith Gledhill, Los Angeles, one of the favorites in the Longwood Bowl tennis tournament, advanced to the second round by defeating Paul Washburn, Princeton, N. J., today in straight sets. The scores were 6-1, 6-1.

Others entering the second round included Berkeley Bell, Texas; Henry Culley, Los Angeles; Ricardo Pernambuco, and Carlos Aranha. Bell won from Walter E. Arensburg, New York, 6-2, 6-4; Culley defeated Humberto Costa, 7-5, 7-5; Pernambuco triumphed over Horace Taylor, Brookline, 6-2, 6-1, and Aranha eliminated Paul Guibord, France, 6-2, 6-2.

U. S.-Hungary Swim Stars Meet Sunday

The Kalili brothers, Austin Clapp, Buster Crabbe and other outstanding American swimmers will face the Hungarian Olympic team in an international meet at the California park pool, Sunday night. The proceeds will go to Chicago's quota of $50,000 for the Olympic fund.

Among the Hungarian stars is Oliver Halassy, European champion in the 1,500 meter event, who has only one leg. Despite the handicap he has defeated Jean Taris, of France, former champion, and other stars. Halassy, who is 21 years old, also is the mainstay of the Hungarian water polo squad.

The American team, which will come to Chicago from Cincinnati, where the United States Olympic tryouts will be held on Saturday, will include, in addition to those named, Tom Blankenburg, Frank Walton and Frank Booth, all of the Hollywood A. C; George Kojac, John Howland, Carleton Leedy, and George Fissler, all of the New York A. C.; Ted Wiget of the Athens A. C. of California; Art Highland and Merton Wilcox of Northwestern university; Walter Laufer and Donald Horn of the Lake Shore A. C., and Al Schwartz of the Illinois Athletic club.

In conjunction with the international program the Central A. A. U. 100 yard free style championship for senior men and the 100 yard free style for junior women will be held.

Entries for the two events should be filed with Lyman Bingham, 110 South Dearborn street. All athletes registered with the central district of the A. A. U. are eligible.

Boston, Mass., July 11.—(AP)—Detroit made it two out of three from the Red Sox by scoring a 5 to 3 victory today behind the pitching of George Uhle. The bulk of the Tiger attack was furnished by Davis and Webb, while McManus, Alexander, and Johnson, former Tigers, showed the best punch for the Sox.

Cubs Pick Smith to Face Braves in Final Today

Bob Smith will seek to make it three out of four for the Cubs this afternoon in the final against the Braves. The Braves say they are keeping their selection secret, but it probably will be Cantwell or Cunningham.

Pat Malone yesterday again sagged under the .500 mark. He now has won 7 while losing 8. In 1929 Pat lost 10 while winning 22 and in 1930 won 20 while losing 9. The second half of the season starts today and it is apparent that to tie his 1929 mark Pat, in 77 games, must win 15 while losing 2. He may not do it.

Lon Warneke has the statisticians all het up. It is reported that his earned run showing per nine innings in 135 innings pitched is 2.11. Lefty Grove last year made the majors' eyes pop out with an unearned run record of 2.05 and Bill Walker led the National league last year in effectiveness with a mark of 2.26.

Tomorrow comes Hack Wilson, who recently has been going much better than he was at the time of his first visit, what with sixteen homers and many runs driven in.

The last Cub-Brooklyn series, in Brooklyn, was pretty rough, but so far no Cub has been seen sharpening his spikes for the Robins' four game stay.

It was decided yesterday to play a doubleheader with the New York Giants next Sunday instead of a week from today, as previously planned.

Polo Teams to Swell Olympic Fund Sunday

Chicago polo players yesterday offered their services to the committee which is raising funds to defray expenses of United States athletes in the Olympic games. Arrangements call for one or more matches to be played at the Oak Brook Polo club, York road and 22d street, among the strongest teams in this area. The first game on the schedule is set for next Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Following a conference between officials of the American Olympic committee and the Central Polo association, a Chicago polo committee was named to handle arrangements for the matches. The Chicago committee includes Paul Butler, chairman; Charles F. Glore, R. W. McIlvain, George F. Getz Jr., Maj. Gen. Frank Parker, John J. Mitchell, Herbert J. Lorber, Roy D. Keehn Jr., Frank Bering, Otto W. Lehman, Brig. Gen. Thomas S. Hammond, W. P. Saunders, Chauncey McCormick, Capt. M. M. Corpening, Horace O. Wetmore, James A. Hannah, Henry Babson, George A. Bates, J. Fred Butler, Walter H. Eckert, George F. Nixon, and Capt. M. L. Stockton.

"The public will be assured some of the fastest and most sparkling polo ever seen here," said Mr. Butler yesterday. "All the teams in and around Chicago have been practicing and playing in competition for several months. They are at the top of their game."

Pirates Whip Dodgers, 5-3; Widen Lead

Pittsburgh, Pa., July 11.—(AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates increased their lead in the National league to two and one-half games today by defeating the Brooklyn Dodgers, 5 to 3, while the Cubs were losing to the Braves.

Steve Swetonic, aided by the bat of Tommy Thevenow, hung up his 10th victory of the season as he held the Dodgers to seven hits. Thevenow, substituting for the injured Traynor, drove in two runs in the fifth and led off with a triple in the eighth, finally scoring. Gus Suhr accounted for the other two runs.

Jones Shy of Rest, but Will Face Senators

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 11.—Because of the series of twin bills at Philadelphia, Manager Fonseca is shy of properly rested pitchers. He will have to bring back Sam Jones with only a three day layoff tomorrow. It will be Bob Burke for the Senators.

The season is only half gone and Manager Fonseca already is carrying around photographs of the palatial training field the Sox will occupy at Pasadena, Cal., next spring. Well, you can't blame him for tryng to get his mind off his present troubles.

Dagila handles himself like he knew right well what his work is all about. He takes plenty of time between pitches and this annoys the batters considerably. He keeps them waiting so long that invariably they step out of the box and call for time.

Red Kress hit in hard luck, but nevertheless captured a single and double. In his first two appearances he walloped the ball to the center field fence, but West ran back and got them. In the sixth he aimed another long one a bit toward left and this fell for a double with one out. Blue then popped out and Appling fanned. Kress' single came with one out in the eighth. The same two men failed him.

The money in the house today wouldn't have bought a meal for the bonus expeditionary army camped on the Anacostia flats here. There were less than 1,000 customers.

Junior Golf Tourney to Open at Rock Island Today

Davenport, Ia., July 11.—[Special.]—The qualifying and first round of the Rock Island Arsenal junior tournament will be played tomorrow and will bring together some of the best younger golfers in Illinois and Iowa. William Hutchins, defending champion, and Joe Vonmaur, Rock Island Arsenal, and last year's runner-up, played a practice round today, as did the remainder of the 37 entries.

INDIANS DEFEAT MACKS IN PAIR; FOXX HITS NO. 34

Cleveland Wins 1st, 9-8; Takes 2d, 12-7.

Philadelphia, Pa., July 11.—(AP)—The Cleveland Indians gave the Athletics' hopes of gaining on the Yankees a severe jolt today when they won a double header, 9 to 8 and 12 to 7.

The Indians pounded Roy Mahaffey for 12 hits and drove him off the mound after seven innings in the nightcap. Earl Averill, who hit a home run in the first game, cracked two more in the second. Jimmy Foxx hit his 34th home run of the season in the A's half of the seventh, high over the roof of the left field seats.

Top yesterday, $7.25; average, $6.50.

The markets for both cattle and hogs came through with new high prices yesterday. Steers reached a $9.45 top, the highest since Feb. 1. Hogs reached $5.55, the highest since last October. The general average moved up to the $5.00 line, showing a 5c gain. Prices in the hog division ruled steady to 10c higher, but the higher price level did not last throughout the session and some sales at the finish were made at a slight saving to the buying side. However, the undertone is still firm and cheerful reports from other points offset the news that local prices for fresh pork loins had suffered a slight setback. High points in the east quoted the first $6.00 hogs of the season. Only two low western markets sold top grades below the $5.00 line. The spread between eastern and western markets warrants buying on shipping account, according to the trade. Yesterday's shipments from here were equal to the largest since early last March at 5,500.

Heavy packing grades of hogs are showing an inclination to drag lately and the range of prices yesterday reached the widest point since last September. The inside price for common rough "packers" and the peak for sorted lightweight hogs stood $2.10 apart. Early last week the range was $1.80 and a month ago these prices were $1.25 apart. The top and average shows a 55c spread now against 20c a month ago. During the winter price ranges were about the narrowest on record, the top and average frequently being only 10c apart.

Big Steers Strongest.

Weighty beef steers took the lead in the cattle market early yesterday and pulled all other classes and weights up the hill. The advance did not stop until toward noon when prime 1,357 lb averages had reached a 45c higher position at $9.45 and 1,284@1,441 lb steers had sold at $9.40. That beef is in good demand on the rise is indicated by the additional advances of 50c to $1.50 scored in the wholesale market for carcasses yesterday. All houses were eager to replenish their supplies and big local packers were among the most aggressive in the cattle market.

A big proportion of the day's receipts sold at $9.00 and above, with the average market $2.50 above the low spot in May. Bulk of offerings brought $7.50@9.15, only occasional lots of the poorest light weight steers selling at $6.50 and under. Butcher stock ruled strong to 25c higher, with top yearling heifers at $8.25, a new top. Calves jumped 25@50c in value. Even bulls moved up 10@15c. Few stockers and feeders were available and with demand better prices were strong to 25c higher.

Lambs Decline 25c.

The lamb market was unable to withstand the pressure of 18,000 head yesterday and prices ruled weak to 25c lower, the majority being range stock at the full decline. Thirty-six carloads of Idaho and Washington range lambs sold at $6.50@6.75, with one load to a city butcher early in the session at $7.25. A few natives were handpicked by city butchers at $7.25, while packers bought most of the supply at $6.75 and below. This reduction in the price of live lambs came in the face of a sharp rise of 2@3c per pound in the wholesale price of lamb carcasses. Carcasses quoted a week ago at 8@17c were similar to the kinds selling at 11@20c yesterday.

CANDY MAN BUYS FIVE ACRE HOME SITE IN GLENVIEW

Frank V. Brach Plans a $30,000 House.

BY AL CHASE.

Frank V. Brach, president of E. J. Brach & Sons, candy manufacturers, yesterday purchased a tract of five acres in Glenview, on the east side of Wagner road, a little more than a quarter of a mile south of Lake street, from Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. Everett for a reported $8,500. The property is heavily wooded. It extends east to the Memorial Woods forest preserve. The property looks west across Wagner road to the grounds of the North Shore Golf club, a short distance away.

Mr. Brach is having plans made by a Chicago architect for a residence to cost in the neighborhood of $30,000. It will be of French design, with solid brick walls, and will contain seven rooms and a two car garage. Work will start shortly. Wyatt & Coons, Glenview realtors, were the only brokers in the transaction. Ryan, Condon & Livingston were attorneys for the buyer, and C. C. Mitchell represented the sellers in a legal capacity.

Some Leases.

Cerf & Ehrenhalt report three leases, two of them in the suburbs. They leased the store at 1617 Sherman street, Evanston, to Mouldiste millinery at a reported annual rental of $2,000. Walter C. Hagen, receiver, was lessor. The Sample Dress Shops, Inc., leased the store at 847 East 63d street at a reported rental of $3,600 annually as a minimum and a percentage above that. The 63d and Maryland Building corporation was lessor. The Adeline Shops, Inc., leased the store at 5143 Homan avenue, Hammond, Ind., at $4,000 rental annually. The Hook Drug company was lessor.

The Chatham Superservice Station, Inc., has purchased the northwest corner of Cottage Grove avenue and 80th street, lot 50x124, from the Mutual National Bank of Chicago, trustee. Revenue stamps indicate a price paid of $10,000.

The southwest corner of 22d street and Wabash avenue, lot 205x109, with old improvements, has been conveyed by L. E. and John H. Dalton to Samuel M. Schwartz. Revenue stamps indicate a price of $10,000.

James A. Malooly, secretary of the bondholders' protective committee for issues underwritten by the Depositors State bank and the Southwest State bank, calls attention to a story which appeared in THE TRIBUNE on July 4 reporting the formation of a "Peoples Bondholders association," which was organized for the purpose of "representing and protecting the rights and investments of owners of bonds and mortgages purchased from the following closed banks: The Peoples National Bank and Trust company, the Depositors State bank and the Southwest State bank."

MORTGAGE BOND NEWS

Mr. Malooly states that his committee was organized last January and consists of the following: George D. Hopkins, secretary of Wilson & Co., chairman; John S. Jurik, Southwest Investment company; John R. O'Connor, real estate; Frank L. Webb, receiver for the Depositors State bank, and Mr. Malooly, real estate mortgages.

Issues of Two Banks.

"We handle exclusively issues underwritten by the Depositors State bank and the Southwest State bank, and the offices of our committee are in the Depositors State bank building at 4701 South Ashland avenue. Our depositary is the Stock Yards Trust and Savings bank, 4150 South Ashland avenue," Mr. Malooly states.

"You are also advised that this committee is already successfully adjusting several bond issues under plans avoiding foreclosures and receiverships wherever possible, and in several instances have already secured one hundred per cent deposit of bonds."

This initial bondholders' committee was fully reported in THE TRIBUNE of Jan. 29, 1932. The personnel was somewhat different at the time, although Mr. Hopkins was then chairman.

COTTONSEED OIL.

NEW YORK, July 11.—(AP)—Bleachable cottonseed oil was strong, with final prices showing net advances of 14 to 22 points. Offerings were light and prices responded to increasing covering promoted by the new highs for hogs, and the sharp advance in lard. Reports of export sales of lard to the continent the first time in a long while from here, was also a supporting factor. The census bureau report on consumption will be issued at 11 a. m. tomorrow. The trade is looking for a disappearance of 225,000 barrels during June, against 222,384 in May and 222,991 in June last year. Crude oil was 3¼c nominal in the southeast and the valley, and 3c nominal in Texas. Sales were 12 contracts or 1,800 barrels. Bleachable spot closed 3.90c, July 4.12c, September 4.29c, October 4.26c, December 4.30c, January 4.34c.

Industrial Rayon.

Please give me the benefit of the latest available information on stock of Industrial Rayon.—P. M. A.

Industrial Rayon corporation is one of the three largest manufacturers of rayon in the United States. The yarn is manufactured solely under the viscose process.

Net income for the first quarter of 1932 was $178,000, or $1.23 per share, against $13,000, or 9 cents per share for the corresponding 1931 quarter.

Production in 1931 totaled 12,500,000 pounds, against 9,600,000 pounds in 1930 and 5,367,000 pounds in 1929.

Two important factors in 1931 results were the sale of obsolete yarns at unprofitable prices and price cutting tactics by manufacturers during the greater part of the year. Net income for the year was $684,000, or $4.71 per share, against $1,548,000, or $7.74 per share, on a larger number of shares, for 1930. Net for 1929 was $1,452,000, against $1,654,000 for 1928.

On Dec. 31, 1931, current assets were $6,026,000 and current liabilities were $825,000. Cash assets alone were $3,000,000. Working capital was $5,201,000, against $4,390,000 the year before.

Funded debt totals $230,000. There are outstanding 144,999 shares of no par common stock, against 200,000 shares on Dec. 31, 1930.

A dividend of 50 cents per share was paid on July 1, 1932. On April 1, 1932, a dividend of $1 per share was paid.

Decline in silk prices tends to reduce the demand for rayon products. The successful conclusion of the company's experiments with a transparent viscose wrapping material would provide diversification and an additional source of profit.

Denver Gas and Electric Light.

I am holding some Denver Gas and Electric Light bonds and would, therefore, appreciate a report on them.—M. N. M.

Denver Gas and Electric Light company and Western Light and Power company merged in 1923 to form Public Service company of Colorado. The latter, a part of the Cities Service system, furnishes about two-thirds of the electricity and gas used in Colorado.

Net income after all charges in 1931 was $3,328,000, against $3,152,000 in 1930.

Charges were earned 2.34 times in 1930, 2.20 times in 1929, and 1.99 times in 1928.

In the twelve months ended June 30, 1931, charges were earned 2.38 times, against 2.31 times in the preceding twelve months.

PLACES $2,744,250 MASSACHUSETTS BONDS ON MART

F. S. Moseley & Co. and associates yesterday offered $2,744,250 3¾ per cent Massachusetts bonds at prices to yield as follows: 1932, 2 per cent; 1933, 2.50 per cent; 1934, 3 per cent; 1935, 3.25 per cent; 1936, 3.40 per cent, and 1937-'41, 3.50 per cent.

The $20,000,000 5½ per cent fourteen year debenture issue, offered by the Province of Ontario, Canada, directly to investors, was fully subscribed in three days. More than one-fifth of the issue was sold in denominations of $100 or $500.

The Bank of Montreal and La Banque Canadienne Nationale will purchase $1,800,000 of two year, 6 per cent bonds of the Montreal Metropolitan commission at 99.

New York City Gets $6,000,000 Banking Loan

New York, July 11.—[Special.]—New York City borrowed today an additional $6,000,000 from the Chase National bank and the National City bank. That was the last installment under the $25,000,000 credit which it obtained from those banks under a tentative arrangement last April. For today's loan which will run until July 15, 1933, it paid at the rate of 4¾ per cent, whereas on the previous installments the city paid 5½ per cent. The loan took the form of the sale of $3,000,000 of tax notes and a like amount of special revenue bonds both dated July 15, 1932. These issues will be offered to the public by the security affiliates of the banks.

Big Demand Again Shown for U. S. Treasury Bills

Washington, D. C., July 11.—[Special.]—Acting Secretary Ballantine of the treasury announced today that subscriptions totaling $273,658,000 were received for $75,278,000 worth of 90 day treasury bills maturing Oct. 11. The average price of the bills to be issued is 99.904. The average rate on a bank discount basis is about 0.39 per cent.

Brown Fence Co. Warned by Federal Trade Board

Washington, D. C., July 11.—(AP)—The Brown Fence and Wire company of Cleveland had been ordered by the federal trade commission to stop advertising that goods purchased by it from other manufacturers go directly to the consumer without a middleman's profit. "In reality, this company is a middleman," the commission said.

Crown Willamette Paper Reports Gain in Profits

New York, July 11.—(AP)—Consolidated net profits of the Crown Willamette Paper company for the fiscal year ended April 30 totaled $2,233,926, compared with $1,893,630 for the preceding fiscal year. The company is a division of the Crown Zellerbach corporation.

U. S. Stamping Company Plant Back at Full Time

Moundsville, W. Va., July 11.—(AP)—Full resumption of operations at the U. S. Stamping company enamel works here next Monday was announced today by F. S. Earnshaw, plant manager. "Business is much better and I believe the move is justified," Earnshaw said. The plant has been operating on a part time basis for several months.

BONDS ADVANCE DESPITE SELLING IN FOREIGN GROUP

Smattering of Plus Signs in Curb Market.

New York, July 11.—(AP)—Despite the slightly chilling performance of some foreign bonds, notably German and Brazilian issues, further buying appeared in the bond market today and prices advanced.

United States government obligations displayed a firm tone, advancing from 1-32 to 5-32 point, with the exception of the Liberty group, which recorded a 1-32 point loss for all three issues.

Selling in German bonds which carried the government 7s off 2¼ and the 5½s off 3¼ points, respectively, was attributed partly to Adolf Hitler's prediction that the Lausanne agreement would amount to little. Profit taking also played a part.

Brazilian government issues were down between 1 and 2 points with one exception, while the Sao Paulo 7s of 1940 lost over 5 points. Weakness was attributed to the revolutionary outbreak in that state.

Move Up a Point.

Austrian, Australian, Chilean, Colombian, Finnish, New South Wales, and other foreign bonds moved up a point or more. The Argentine 6s of May, 1961, were up more than 4 points.

The utilities registered fairly substantial gains in the domestic group. Gains of 1 or more points were recorded by the Brooklyn Edison 5s, Detroit Edison 5s, Illinois Bell Telephone 5s, and Kansas City Power and Light 4½s. American Telephone issues moved fractionally higher.

Packing company bonds featured in the industrial list, the Wilson & Co. first 6s moving up 2½ points and Armour & Co. issues advancing 2 points for the 4½s and 3¼ for the 5½s. The rails were generally fractionally higher.

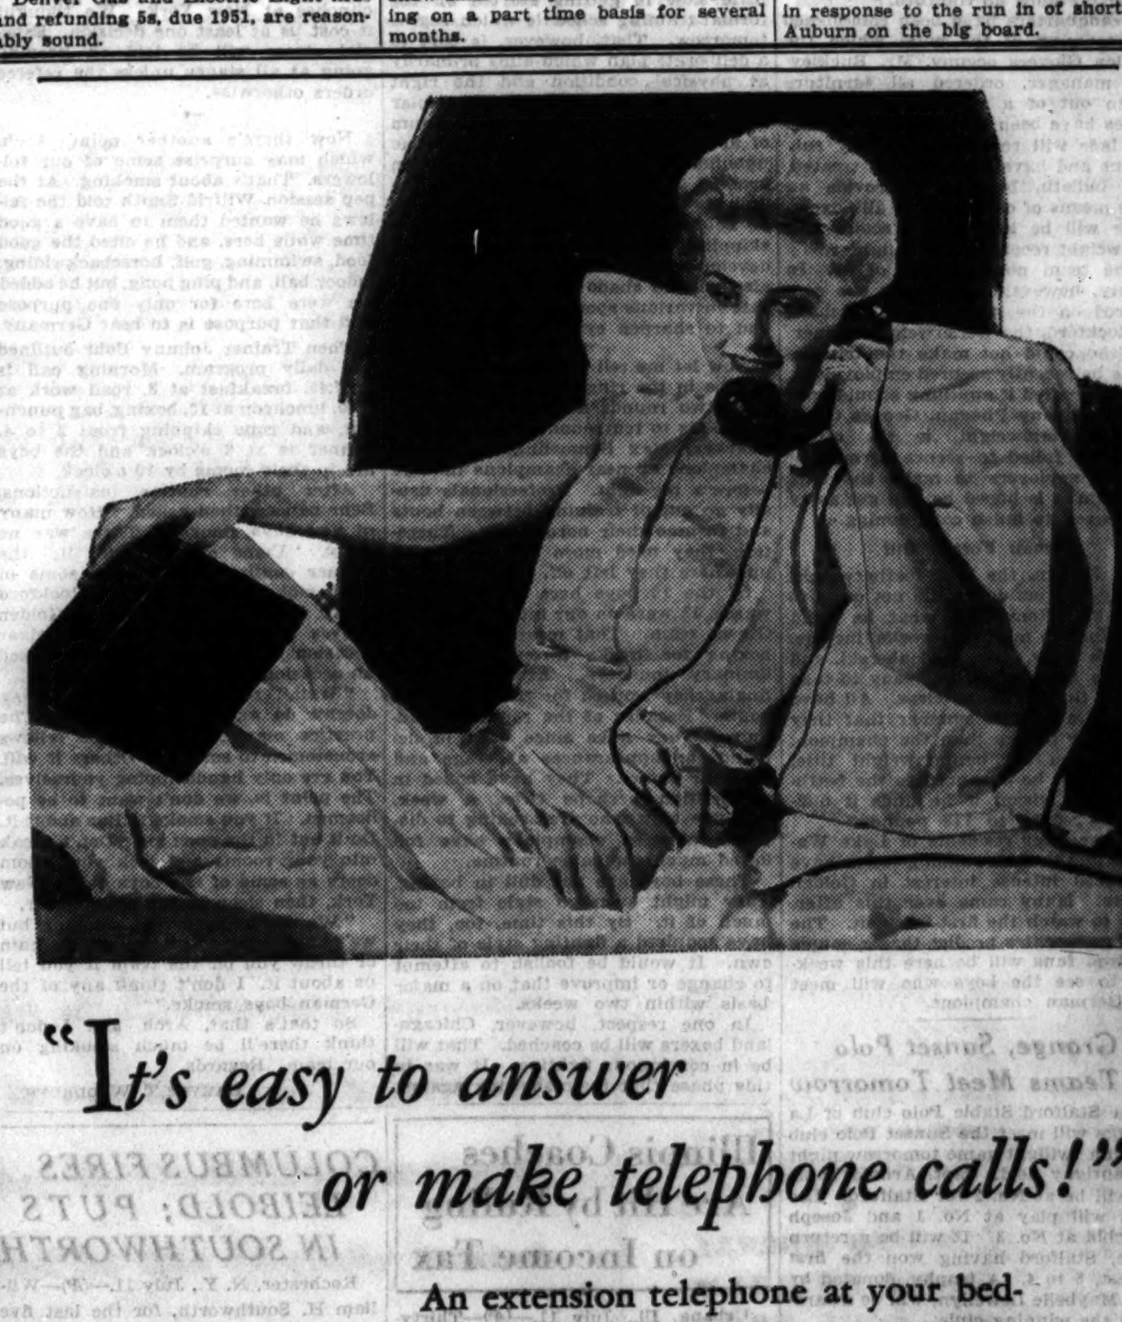

CURB MARKET GAINS

The curb market managed to chalk up a smattering of plus signs in an extremely listless session today, in which the volume shrank to roughly 60,000 shares, or around the smallest of recent years.

Utilities were irregularly higher. Consolidated Gas of Baltimore sagged a point, possibly in response to introduction of a resolution in city council asking a voluntary reduction in rates, but recovered later, as Commonwealth Edison gained nearly 2 points, and American Gas and Electric and Electric Bond and Share advanced fractionally. Montreal Light, Heat and Power gained more than 2 in a thin market.

Oils held up well, in view of indications of crude production increases in California and east Texas. Standard of Indiana closed ⅛ higher, and Kentucky gained nearly a point. Gulf and Humble were inactive.

The Swift issues showed outstanding strength in the industrials, as hog prices continued to gain. Swift & Co. rose more than a point to 12¼, in contrast to the year's low of 7. Cord corporation gained fractionally, in response to the run in of shorts in Auburn on the big board.

MARGIN CALLS, TAXES WIPING OUT OLD RICH

Shifting of Wealth Now in Progress.

BY HOWARD WOOD.

Who will be the new rich?

Since 1929 there has been a great shifting of wealth. Steady declines in securities and oft repeated calls for margin have eaten into many fortunes. Collateral has been sold to satisfy debts. Unwilling bondholders have had to take over buildings and corporations, thereby wiping out the stockholders' equity.

What little the declining markets have left of one time fortunes has been consumed by taxes. Income tax has greatly reduced net income, property taxes have confiscated part of the principal, and inheritance taxes have prevented the passing on of fortunes intact from one generation to the next.

The former president of one of the nation's leading corporations says his income is one-tenth what it was in 1929 and after several years of leisure he's looking for a job. Samuel Insull is in Paris on a pension. Presidents and vice presidents are pounding pavements looking for jobs.

At Half Price.

On the north shore real estate men report that anything from a cottage to a mansion can be had at what in 1929 would have been considered half price.

Members of exclusive golf clubs that two or three years ago had a waiting line of patient millionaires say that memberships may be obtained now by paying the admission price, demonstrating ability to read and write and exhibiting a clean face. Some clubs have made the concession of deferring dues until the unpaid bill equals the value of the membership.

Wills have been probated showing that the current market value of the assets are not much more than the amount required to pay the inheritance tax.

Other Side of Picture.

That is one side of the picture—the downhill side. There is another side to consider. What of the people who acquire deflated securities and real estate at the bottom? It is assumed that business cycle will revolve as it has revolved in the past and that after the bottom has been reached there will be gains commensurate with the preceding losses.

It would be folly to attempt to predict the turn. No one is able to do that. Some commodity prices have seemed lately to be heading in the right direction. Hogs, cattle, sugar, oil, butter, eggs, and of late even bonds have been exhibiting signs of convalescence.

If commodities and bonds keep on going in that direction long enough the depression can be turned over to the historians. But we don't know, because there is the threat of war debt cancellations and the possibility of postoffices. It's a complicated job weighing hogs against postoffices.

More on Band Wagon.

But if the depression should in the near future wear itself out, who's going to be riding on the band wagon? Here's the record, for instance, of the number of holders of common stock of United States Steel corporation at the close of each of the last six years:

1926	86,601	1929	120,813
1927	96,558	1930	145,560
1928	102,905	1931	179,572

And look what's happening to the stock of Pennsylvania railroad. On June 1 the Pennsylvania had 249,977 stockholders, more than at any time in its history. A month before it had 249,228 stockholders and on June 1, 1931, 241,454.

The same is true of a large number of leading American corporations whose stocks were called "blue chips" when there was such a thing.

This gives an indication as to who buys stock when the broker sells out after the last unproductive call for margin and who buys stock when the one time millionaire has to sell part of his assets to pay his tax bill. The little fellow has been acquiring it in small dabs and putting it away for the long pull. For every seller there is a buyer. The rich man sells and the poor man buys.

Have Faith in Future.

Many of these little fellows don't know an ingot from a blast furnace, but all of them have faith in the future of American business. They know that on the basis of present earnings most stocks are not worth even what they are being quoted at now, but they are betting their dollars that things won't always be as they are now.

The old order gives way to the new. The people who hold Steel in the twenties are not the same people who held it at 261¾. Taxes and politics willing, there will still be rich people in 1940. But a lot of them will be nouveaux riches.

On Dec. 1, 1928, there were 102,905 people betting that U. S. Steel was a good stock to own. On Dec. 1, 1931, in the slough of the world's greatest depression, there were 179,572 betting on Steel.

If good times aren't coming back then there are a lot of people making wrong guesses.

SIMS MAKES STATEMENT

"The banking situation in Chicago is stronger today than it has been in a year," said Howard M. Sims, chief examiner of the Chicago Clearing House association, yesterday in response to a request for an expression of opinion.

"The Chicago banks," he said, "generally occupy a very strong position with respect to cash, government securities, and secondary reserves. More important, they are in shape to assist actively in general recovery when a turn for the better comes and the normal demand for legitimate credit is resumed.

Use of Trade Credits Seen Business Help

BY SCRUTATOR.

Out of many and varied proposals for expanding credit and increasing currency circulation has come a practical plan by a group of well known industrialists and financiers. It is for greater use of the trade acceptance, a credit instrument little used in this country but common in Europe for many years.

This plan was indorsed by the New York federal reserve district's banking and industrial committee a week or so ago. Since then it has been approved by a number of large industrial concerns, including E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co., which has announced that it will use trade acceptances both in selling goods to its customers and buying its own materials and supplies.

What is the trade acceptance and what are its possibilities in promoting business recovery by expanding credit?

Is a Draft.

A trade acceptance is a draft which a seller of goods draws on a buyer. The buyer writes "accepted" on the face of the draft and designates his bank, thus acknowledging the debt and promising to pay it when due, which usually is within from one to six months. This draft or trade acceptance is returned to the seller of the goods, and when he also signs it it becomes two name commercial paper, which is negotiable and suitable for investments by banks.

The holder of this trade acceptance can discount it at his bank and so obtain cash to finance still more business to be handled again in the same way. The bank has an ideal form of short term commercial paper for payment of which it can look to either or both of the signers of the acceptance. This double guarantee would do much toward expanding credit at the present time, when banks are scrutinizing prospective borrowers carefully.

The trade acceptance has still further possibilities for expanding credit. It is eligible by law for rediscount with the Federal Reserve banks. This means that a member bank in the reserve system can use the acceptance as collateral for borrowing from a reserve bank. Thus the bank has a liquid form of investment on which it can quickly raise cash whenever necessary.

Collateral for Notes.

Moreover, the trade acceptance can be used as a basis for increasing the amount of currency in circulation. The Federal Reserve banks by law can use such acceptances, together with gold and government bonds, as collateral for the issuance of federal reserve notes, which constitute nearly half of all American currency in circulation. A larger supply of rediscounted trade acceptances would enable the reserve banks to rely less on gold and government bonds as security for their currency.

Advocates of a broader use of the trade acceptance urge that it offers a practical and sound method for expanding credit greatly or moderately as the country's needs change from time to time. They contend it offers a good substitute for various proposals for currency inflation. Moreover, it requires no new machinery or legislation, being adaptable to established business and banking facilities. Even when the present credit emergency has passed, it is argued that a broader use of the trade acceptance would continue and constitute a beneficial improvement in American credit practices.

The trade acceptance has been little used in this country because of the way the banking practice has developed. In ordinary times both buyers and sellers have been able to get lines of credit from their banks or to borrow on their accounts receivable. Thus our credit system has taken the form of direct financing between borrowers and banks.

Produces Intangible Credit.

While this system results in a vast volume of credit, it also produces considerable unliquid and intangible credit not represented by negotiable paper with fixed maturities. It also puts on the seller of goods the burden of financing the buyer, although the latter actually has taken the goods. Also, the system opens the way to various disputes which might be avoided.

Advocates of the trade acceptance claim that it would convert indefinite credits into fixed credits evidenced by negotiable paper, that it would curb any tendency to buy and borrow excessively, and that better terms and prices would result because credit risks would be reduced.

"We are supporting the trade acceptance plan," the du Pont company says in an announcement, "in the belief that it will assist legitimate business to obtain needed credit from the banks, that it will increase bank deposits and that it will serve as a means of expanding the Federal Reserve banks' outstanding credit. The trade acceptances received by our companies in payment for products will be discounted at banks or sold to banks through note brokers. We shall urge the banks to rediscount them with the federal reserve.

"All of this should tend to stimulate business, stop further deflation and accelerate the return to normal conditions. Coöperation and support of this procedure should materially expedite the return of many unemployed to the ranks of industry and aid in reviving business to a more normal volume."

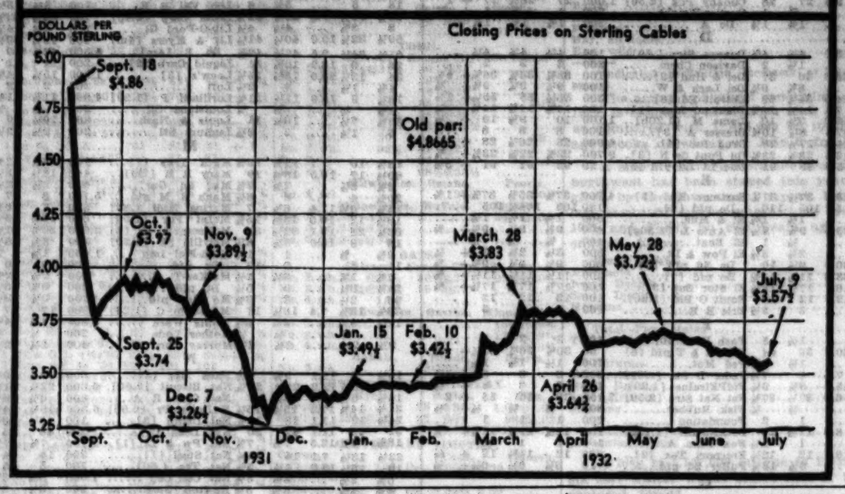

Factory Association Leaders Meet to Fight High Taxes

New York, July 11.—(AP)—The rising cost of federal government and its effect on transportation, the motor industry and public service corporations was discussed at a meeting today of the executive committee of the National Association of Manufacturers.

Robert L. Lund, president of the association, in declining to comment on the discussions, indicated that no statement would be forthcoming until after a further meeting has been held, probably next Monday.

The meeting was addressed by James A. Emory, the association's general counsel, on the subject of political consequences.

World Bank Favors Use of Gold Standard

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

BASEL, Switzerland, July 11.—Into the world discussion of bimetalism managed currencies and other substitutes for gold as a cure for economic ills was flung a challenge today.

The board of directors of the Bank for International Settlements, composed of nineteen members of ten nationalities and representing twenty-five central banks, passed a formal resolution that "the gold standard remains the best available monetary mechanism and the one best suited to make possible a free flow of world trade and international financing. Therefore it is desirable to reëstablish it as soon as possible."

Restore Freedom of Trade.

The resolution proceeded to make other scarcely less important declarations. To enable the mechanism of international balance of payments to work satisfactorily again it will be necessary, the resolution said "to restore to a reasonable degree freedom in the movement of goods, services and capital and to complete the solution of reparations reached at Lausanne by a satisfactory solution of war debts."

The resolution also stressed "the necessary steps in each individual country to restore and maintain equilibrium in internal economy, not only regarding public revenue and expenditures, but also regarding cost of production and organization of internal money and capital market."

Little progress can be expected, said the directors, as long as the main outstanding problems are not definitely dealt with by governments. When these are settled action in the monetary sphere can begin. As a starting point in this latter field the directors record themselves as "in substantial agreement with the conclusions of the report of the league of nations gold delegation made last June."

Britain Favors Gold.

There are several notable points about today's action. Not only does the resolution represent the considered opinion of banking experts of many countries to whom is entrusted the duty of protecting their national currencies, but that opinion as expressed comes from the principal countries, notably England, Sweden, and Japan, which have recently abandoned the gold standard.

It is particularly notable because the adherence of Montagu Norman provides the first intimation of where the Bank of England, as distinguished from the British government, stands in regard to speedy resumption of the gold basis, and it is regarded as a severe blow to those members of parliament who have been advocating discussion at the imperial conference at Ottawa or some other basic currency.

Incidentally the action marks also the first step of the world bank governors into a new field, that of financial adviser to the nations.

No Mention of Cancellation.

In this connection it is noteworthy that the board suggests a "solution" of war debts rather than cancellation. This is wholly in line with the state of mind of many conferees at Lausanne, who in their hearts are hoping that payment of a modest lump sum to America will meet their debts and have given up hope in the face of the attitude of congress of entire cancellation.

Before adjourning for more than two months, until Sept. 19, unless a special meeting which President Gates McGarrah of the United States is empowered to call becomes desirable in the meantime, the directors received the June statement of the bank and the statement of its year's operations as trustee of Germany's 1930 5½ per cent loan.

It also renewed for three months its credits to Austria, Hungary, and

STANDARD (N. J.) CUTS PRICE OF STOCK TO EMPLOYES TO $23.30

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 11.—The Standard Oil Company of New Jersey today announces that the price at which employés of the company may buy stock during the second half of the current calendar year will be $23.30 a share. The price fixed by the company for stock bought during the first half of the year was $30.50 a share.

The Standard Oil Company of New Jersey fixes the price by computing the average market price of the company's shares for the three months preceding the opening of the half year period. The directors at their discretion may fix the price 10 per cent under the actual market price.

The figures for stock purchases for the second half of this year is the lowest price ever fixed by the company under its stock acquisition plan. The stock sold this afternoon at $24.75 a share.

Jugo-Slavia, and then turned to other matters arising out of the Lausanne conference.

The trusteeship of a European reconstruction fund and the future German $714,000,000 bond issue planned by the conference was accepted, as was also an invitation by the conference to nominate two experts to sit with the proposed financial committee of the forthcoming world economic conference. Mr. McGarrah is empowered to select these delegates when the general composition of this committee is better known. This is expected to be very soon, as the committee hopes to begin preliminary work this month.

PACKING SHARES FEATURES OF CHICAGO MART

Continued strength in the shares of the packing companies was the feature of the trading yesterday on the Chicago exchange. The companies which suffered drastic inventory losses in 1930-31 stand to benefit from the recent sustained advance in livestock prices.

Swift & Co. and Swift International were the outstanding strong spots. The former issue was the most active on the board, with a turnover of 4,100 shares. It was bringing a price of 12¼ when trading ended, as compared with its previous quotations of 10¾. Swift International advance 1¼ to 21 on a slightly smaller volume of transactions.

Commonwealth Edison made a good gain of 2¼ points on sales of less than 1,000 shares, and Public Service no par stock rose fractionally. Public Service preferred, however, on a thin market dropped 4 points to 51. Among others improvement was scored by Montgomery Ward A, Cord corporation, and Quaker Oats, the latter issue was up nearly 3 points on sales of 270 shares.

Oldest of Chillicothe, O., National Banks Is Closed

Chillicothe, O., July 11.—(AP)—The Ross County National bank, with resources of $1,895,089.94, did not open today. The bank, the oldest in the city, ascribed its closing to the decline in value of its bonds and to steady withdrawals. The bank was turned over to the U. S. comptroller of the currency. On June 30 the bank had capital of $150,000 and an undivided surplus of $110,000.

RAILWAYS USE TRUCK SERVICE IN NEW YORK

Get Carload Freight at Store Doors.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 11.—Store-door delivery and pickup of freight in the metropolitan district will be started by all the steam railroads serving New York City and its environs on Sept. 15. Announcement of the new service was made at a conference of carriers and shippers today.

An extra charge, in addition to the regular freight charge will be made for the extended service of the railroads, and the rate will range from 6 cents a hundredweight for shipments of 36,000 pounds and more to 20 cents a hundred pounds for shipments ranging from 10,000 to 13,999 pounds.

Applies to Carloads.

The store-door delivery and pickup service applies to carload nonperishable traffic, according to the announcement made at the conference.

In announcing the railroads' plan to start store-door delivery and pickup of carload freight, which is regarded as the railroads' answer to the challenge of truck competition, D. T. Lawrence, vice president of the Traffic Executives' association, made it plain that the new delivery and pickup service would be optional with consignee and consignor.

Forecast of Earnings.

In comparison with 1931, June railroad earnings probably will show as large if not the greatest percentage of decrease recorded for any month this year.

Traffic last month was about in line with that of May. Normally there is a good upturn in volume. June of 1931 was substantially better from an earning standpoint than May of the same year.

In the aggregate, June net operating profits may be somewhat better than the approximately $12,000,000 of net operating income reported by the class 1 carriers for May of this year, but in 1931 June net operating income increased sharply to $50,000,000 from $41,000,000 in the previous month; results of the past month therefore will be compared with period in which profits displayed fairly sizable expansion which will accentuate the failure of operating profits to undergo the usual upturn in the past month.

Gross revenues of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific are estimated at $6,400,000 for June against actual gross of $10,100,000 reported for the like 1931 period. This indicates that total operating income of the St. Paul for the last month was cut more than 35 per cent below that of 1931, a larger percentage recession in gross than reported by the company so far in 1932.

Expect Larger Deficit.

Estimates also place the net operating deficit of the road at $1,500,000 for the month, which compares with a deficit of $1,248,000 for May and net operating income of $650,350 for June, 1931. The indicated deficit of $1,500,000 for June is, of course, only after expenses and taxes and is before any provision for charges on the funded debt.

In the case of the Alton, generally the first road to report its monthly results, a net operating deficit of $30,268 was incurred in June against net operating income of $32,433 for the like 1931 period. After charges, a smaller deficit was reported this year as the result of lower interest charges and notwithstanding that June operations provided no earnings for fixed charges.

Would Rejoin Merger.

Frankfort, Ky., July 11.—(AP)—A suit seeking to prevent the Southern Pacific railroad from acquiring the Cotton Belt railroad was started in Federal court here today.

Judge Charles A. Moorman of the Circuit Court of Appeals, Cincinnati, heard the case together with Judge A. M. J. Cochran of the Eastern district of Kentucky and Judge Charles I. Dawson of the Western district.

T. D. Gresham of Dallas, Tex., presented the first arguments for the plaintiffs, the Missouri Pacific and the Texas and Pacific railroads, alleging the decision of the interstate commerce commission in approving the acquisition of the Cotton Belt by the Southern Pacific was contrary to the evidence and the law. Ben C. Dey of New York City spoke for the defendant, the Southern Pacific. The judges took the case under advisement.

Suit Attacks Straus Co. on Realty Bond Deal

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 11.—A suit charging fraudulent representation in a mortgage bond issue under written by S. W. Straus & Co. was disclosed today in Supreme court. The suit brought by Reuben S. Adler, charges officers of the Straus company, constituting a bondholders' committee for Straus bonds made false representations to get holders of a certain issue to deposit their bonds with the committee in order that the Straus officers could obtain control of the bonds for their own "illegal, improper and wrongful profit."

The suit was disclosed when Mr. Adler, owner of two $1,000 bonds filed a motion to require the Straus company to turn over to him a list of holders of $3,100,000 first mortgage bonds of the Madison corporation issued in connection with a mortgage on property at No. 616 Madison avenue. In his suit he asks an accounting appointment of a temporary receiver, removal of the Straus committee and nullification of the deposit of bonds with the committee.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 11.—June consumption of cigarets in the United States will show a decrease of about 12 per cent from the figures of June last year, according to estimates based on production figures as measured by revenue collections.

In June of last year the production of cigarets reached a total of 11,508,082,432, according to the records, and it now appears that last month's total will be in the neighborhood of 10,127,932,000 cigarets, which would be a decrease of something more than 1,380,000,000.

Including this figure the total production in the first half of the current year will be about 51,464,416,000, as against 59,432,526,000 in the corresponding 1931 period. This will be a decline of 7,978,110,000 cigarets, or about 13.4 per cent. In the five months ended with May production decreased 13.8 per cent.

The improvement in June is attributed to the offering of a special deal to distributors by some of the large manufacturers in connection with a special price on packages of fifty cigarets. Competition brought about a sharp drop in price, which stimulated demand.

EASTERN BANKS SEEK CONTROL OF BIG UTILITIES

Peoples Gas, Edison Future Involved.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Whether control of the Chicago utility operating companies built up by Samuel Insull will remain in Chicago or shift to the New York bankers is the question wrapped up in current negotiations over the refinancing program of the three concerns.

Recently the New York banks which are large creditors of the Insull companies have shown an inclination to take the situation in their own hands and apply their own methods toward working out the problems of the properties. On several points the Chicago banks have disagreed with the New Yorkers. The result has been that protracted negotiations have been carried on over the manner in which the current refinancing shall be carried out.

When Insull formally surrendered control of the three big Chicago companies last April it was understood that the New York banks would leave the management of the properties in the hands of the Chicago group. Even before Insull resigned the Chicago banks began to take a more active part in the direction of policies.

Chicago Control Planned.

Solomon A. Smith, president of the Northern Trust company, Sewell L. Avery, a director of the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company, and James Simpson, then chairman of Marshall Field & Co., were elected directors of the executive committee of the Commonwealth Edison company early in this year.

The later election of Mr. Simpson as chairman of the board of the Edison company, Peoples Gas and Public Service of Northern Illinois was seen as a further step in this direction. It was understood that at the time of Mr. Simpson's election that an outstanding eastern utility man had been considered for the post of chief executive of the Edison company, but had been turned down on the theory that it was more desirable to have a Chicago man at the head of the concern.

More recently, however, the New York interests have shown a disposition to take a more active part in the affairs of the companies. The eastern banks, it is understood, expressed the wish that one of their group be named head of the syndicate which is to offer the $70,000,000 of bonds for the three companies. Chicago bankers took a different view and the matter has been the subject of many recent conferences here and in New York.

An agreement was believed to have been reached last week following the return of several Chicago bankers from New York, where the matter had been discussed at some length. They were back home, however, only a short time when they learned that the New Yorkers wished to reopen the question. The present conferences are the result.

Plan to Market Bonds.

There is little doubt in banking circles that an early settlement of the plans for marketing the bonds will be agreed upon. It is believed that the

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 11.—The stock market climbed a bit today, staging a moderate recovery during the afternoon. Total sales amounted to about 600,000 shares and there was no news of importance to influence the trading. The action of the market on the whole was satisfactory and it is possible that developments of last week in foreign debt affairs are just now beginning to be felt in the market.

American Telephone and Telegraph drew attention at the opening when it sagged to a new low level, but it promptly recovered and had considerable to do with influencing the other stocks to take an upturn. At the close American Telephone was up 1⅝ points on the day.

Auburn Auto Gains.

Auburn Auto and Brooklyn Manhattan Transit were the center ring performers this afternoon. Auburn opened at 45¼ and climbed to 58 before the gong sounded, registering 12⅝ points for the session. Brooklyn Manhattan common gained 1⅝ points in active trading and the preferred stock had a net advance of 4⅝ points, closing near its high.

Coco Cola was weak during the morning, but showed that it was able to recover quickly when it turned right around and picked up a net gain of 1⅝ points for the day.

United States Steel climbed fractionally, General Motors was unchanged and American Can had a point and one-quarter advance.

Standard Oils Firmer.

The Standard Oil stocks were firmer, but there were losses in some of the independents. Motors were firm to unchanged. The copper issues were strong and tobacco stocks advanced, American Tobacco climbing almost three points on the day's trading.

Among the preferred stocks which gained from 2 to 6 points were American Brake Shoe, American Smelting, Procter & Gamble, J. C. Penny, Liggett & Myers, General Gas and Electric, United States Steel, and South Porto Rican Sugar.

In the money market there was little of note happening. Activity in that quarter was uninspiring, due to the low volume of trade here and in foreign countries. Call money was plentiful at the regular 2 per cent rate on the exchange and 1 per cent outside. Dollars were higher almost everywhere against foreign currencies.

Change in Terms.

One topic of conversation among traders this afternoon concerned American Telephone. With the stock selling around 72 there was talk of a revision of the terms under which the stock is sold to the public on the monthly payment plan.

Present contracts call for a down payment of $50 a share, the balance in bits of $10 a month. A year ago the terms were changed from $20 to $10 a month in recognition of the decline of the stock. At today's low price American Telephone yielded about 12⅝ per cent. Partial payment subscribers pay 6 per cent on their debt balances, but receive dividends on the stock while it is being paid for.

The proposed issues consist of 18 million dollars first mortgage 5½ per cent bonds of the Edison company, due in 1962; 20 million dollars first and refunding 5½ per cent bonds of Peoples Gas, due in 1957, and 32 million dollars first lien and refunding 6½ per cent bonds of Public Service of Northern Illinois, due in 1952.

Current maturities of the properties are as follows: Commonwealth Edison, 20 million dollars 3½ per cent notes; Peoples Gas, 20 million dollars 3½ per cent notes; Public Service, 15 million dollars of 4 per cent notes and 10 million dollars of 5 per cent notes. The maturities all occur July 30, with the exception of the 10 million dollars Public Service note issue, which occurs Aug. 1.

ACTION IN THE EAST

New York, July 11.—[Special.]—The National Electric Power company and subsidiary holding companies today again became the object of a standstill agreement between banking creditors until the situation arising from the appointment of the Irving Trust company as receiver in bankruptcy for the National Public Service corporation and the Seaboard Public Service company, has been fully canvassed and the prospects reviewed. Federal Judge John C. Knox appointed the trust company as receiver for the two companies today on petitions filed in the Federal District court.

Minor changes in the schedules of liabilities of the two bankrupt companies were filed in the Federal court yesterday. Liabilities of National Public Service were stated at $38,280,277, and book value of assets were given as $66,193,987. Liabilities of Seaboard Public Service were restated as $10,612,873, and assets were shown as $43,938,542.

Bank to Delay Action.

Meanwhile, pending the canvass, the New York Trust company will postpone the auction set for Wednesday, collateral pledged for a loan to National Public Service. It is said some of the properties probably will be reorganized. One problem will be whether to continue or change the system whereby management of the properties has been in the hands of the Electric Management and Engineering corporation, comprising at present 79 persons, under Harry Reid, president of National Electric Power. The expenses of this group have been defrayed by the system companies.

Gather for Conference.

Operating executives of the major groups either are in or on their way to New York to receive instructions. A. W. Higgins, head of the Seaboard Public Service group, has been here for several weeks assisting Mr. Reid. J. H. Shearer, head of the companies in the Municipal Service company group, which is not affected by the bankruptcy proceedings, is on his way here. W. S. Wyman, head of the New England Public Service group, is expected here tomorrow. The Northeastern Utilities group, the third subsidiary holding company to escape bankruptcy petitions, is in a formative stage directly under the New York offices of the national system.

Will Need New Funds.

The engineering and management group will require new funds in order to perform its duties, and if selected by the Irving Trust company to manage the properties as a group instead of splitting up authority between the resident official of each operating company, ways and means of providing these funds will be an important consideration.

MARGIN CALLS, TAX WIPING OUT OLD RICH

ing June has been squarely met. It is unfortunate that many small institutions were forced to close in that month, were often than not because of unnecessary, heavy withdrawals.

"In consequence, however, the elimination of weak banks has been virtually completed. Future banking troubles, should such be experienced, will be strictly minor in character."

MEMBER BANKS REPORT

Time deposits of weekly reporting member banks of the federal reserve system throughout the country showed no shrinkage for the week ended July 6, the total being 5,542 million dollars, exactly the same as on June 29. This compares with 7,176 millions a year ago.

Net demand deposits on July 6 were 10,799 millions, against 10,925 millions on June 29 and 13,604 millions a year ago.

Total borrowing from the federal reserve banks increased from 167 millions on June 29 to 197 millions on July 6. Total loans and investments dropped from 18,754 millions to 18,532 millions during the same period.

Reporting member banks on July 6 had 4,210 millions invested in United States government securities, against 4,254 millions on June 29, and 3,206 millions invested in other securities, compared with 3,237 millions on June 29.

LESS SUGAR CONSUMED.

Consumption of sugar in the United States for the first five months of 1932 amounted to 2,127,429 long tons, raw sugar value, according to B. W. Dyer & Co., sugar brokers. This is a decrease of 32,979 tons or 1.53 per cent compared with the corresponding period of 1931.

COTTON HAS FAIR BREAK

Poor cables from Liverpool, combined with commission house selling, particularly by one of the most conspicuous in the trade, had a depressing influence on cotton prices in a comparatively slow market. Weather conditions were said to be ideal througout the south. A private estimate of 11,700,000 bales based on returns to July1, had no particular influence although the authority for the estimate was said to have been unusually accurate in recent years.

The dry goods trade was somewhat better. The market is said to have adjusted its techincal position by a decline of 40 points which has created a more confident feeling among buyers.

Exports for the past week were 92,335 bales, compared with 62,264 bales last year. Since August 1, the aggregate exports have been 8,400,000 bales against 6,600,000 bales last year. New York futures closed 6 to 10 points lower, New Orleans 6 to 8 points and Chicago 7 to 9 points lower. Spots were 5 points lower. New York being 6.85c, New Orleans 6.70c, Galveston 5.95c and Houston 5.65c. Prices follow:

LIGHT OFFERINGS OF LARD

Buyers of lard found offerings of future light and had to pay big prices to induce holders to sell. The close was at net gains of 20 to 37½c. Oldest men in the trade said that they had never seen the selling pressure so limited. Shorts were presumably the best buy and warehouse speculators were credited with taking profits.

Liverpool lard was 3d to 9d higher. Trade in bellies was limited and prices 2½c higher. Regular lard was $5.20, loose, $4.85; leaf, $4.87½c; short ribs were $6.25, and bellies, $6.20.

Cash trade in cured products was fair, but in fresh pork loins there was less demand with light weights at 20 to 21c at the close last week reduced to 18½ and 20c, with heavyweights slow sale and lower. Exports of lard for the week 3,556,000 lbs, against 6,468,000 lbs last year. Of bacon they were 2,151,000 lbs, against 4,576,000 lbs. Hogs were 10c higher with the top at $5.55, the best of the season, and decidedly smaller receipts as compared with a week and a year ago. Prices follow:

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, July 11.—(AP)—Sugar raw was quiet today and in absence of business prices were unchanged at 3.05c. The undertone, however, was steady and refiners seemed willing to make further purchases at last paid prices of 3.05c for spots, but holders generally were asking 3.10c. After early advances of 1 to 2 points on most positions, futures eased under liquidation or realizing promoted by the inactivity in spot. Final prices were 1 point higher to 1 net lower. Volume was smaller and as a rule the trade was inclined to limit fresh commitments. After opening 1 point higher to 1 point lower near months gained another point on covering and some buying by trade and Cuban interests. Approximate sales were only 16,450 tons, and these included 5,300 tons in exchanges. Prices follow:

WHEAT RANGES AROUND 50C IN DAY'S MARKET

News Here and in Britain Is Bearish.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Crop news was bearish yesterday, with light trading in all speculative markets. There was an evening up of open commitments preparatory to the government report, which came out after the close. That report was more bearish than the traders expected. Foreign markets were weak. Liverpool was unchanged to ⅛d lower at the close in the face of bullish foreign statistics.

Russian news was that harvesting had commenced in that country. It was said that Liverpool was depressed by cheap Argentine offerings and a reduction of 25 per cent in the French foreign wheat quota. Another factor was the favorable crop report from the American and Canadian spring wheat country. Australian wheat on passage was under pressure, while reports on Danubian supplies were not large or liable to be this year.

Rains in Central West.

Good scattered rains were reported over the central west and farmers there were said to be in no hurry to sell their wheat and will store the bulk of it, present prices being regarded as too low. Movement in the southwest was liberal, although not as large as last year, and receipts at 12 leading points in that section were 3,729 cars against 9,028 cars last year. A year ago the peak of the southwestern movement was reached July 8. Cash houses that bought wheat freely in the southwest hedged it by sales of futures in Chicago. In the visible supply there was a decrease of 1,930,000 bu, the bulk of it being in Chicago, owing to wheat which was moved out to the east by lake during the last week.

Supplies on ocean passage were reduced and are only 40,640,000 bu against 49,592,000 bu last year. World's shipments of 10,354,000 bu were about 3,000,000 bu less than the previous week.

Wheat Around 50 Cents.

A large part of the trading in wheat was around 50c for September. Offerings below that limit were readily absorbed, while anything above the 50c line brought a small increase in pressure. The day's range is less than 1c a bushel, the smallest in a long time and net losses at the last were ⅜c to ⅝c, with the finish on September, 47⅝c; September, 50⅛c to 50c, and December, 53⅜c to 53¼c.

CORN IS NEAR THREE BILLION BUSHELS, U. S. REPORT FIGURES SAY

Corn production in the United States has exceeded 3,000,000,000 bu only four times in the last 23 years. The record was 3,208,000,000 bu in 1920. In 1912 production was 3,122,000,000 bu. Production in nine states this year is 2,040,000,000 bu, compared with 1,724,788,000 bu in 1931 and 1,440,501,000 bu in 1930.

Iowa leads this year with an estimate of 469,000,000 bu and a condition of 89. With the exception of Ohio, where the condition is 79, the corn belt states show conditions ranging from 82 to 89, the latter in Kansas. Comparaive details by states, with the last three ciphers omitted, follow:

BUTTER AND EGGS

Another slight gain was recorded in October eggs on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday, the price moving up ⅛c. Butter was steady to firm, November unchanged, July up ¼c. Buying support in eggs was fairly active, but profit taking and new hedging sales on the gain restricted the price level. The four markets showed a net outward movement of stocks, increasing the shortage 4,500 cases. Butter news was less bullish, the inward movement of stocks to storage being heavier than last year, but buying was active early. Selling gained to the close, settling the market back after an early gain. Sales: Butter, 66 cars; eggs, 49 cars. Deliveries: Butter, 1 car. Prices follow:

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

The government crop report was a surprise to the traders making the corn estimate lower than general expectation and wheat materially higher. It is not expected to have much if any effect on the trade in general. It all depends upon how Liverpool takes it. The trade here was understood to be evening up on all grains.

One of the surprising features of the trade is the way the market absorbs the hedges from the southwest. Professionals complain about the tax absorbing all the profits and are not operating to any extent.

LONDON WOOL MARKET.

LONDON, July 11.—(AP)—At the wool auction today 9,276 bales were offered, of which 8,026 were sold. Competition was keen and chiefly from the home trade, the buying being at full current rates. There were some withdrawals of greasy Merinos owing to firm limits. Prices are now about 5 to 10 per cent above the last series.

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, July 11.—(AP)—Cotton goods were quiet today. Burlaps improved slightly. More interest was shown in men's wear lines for fall. Buyers were looking for small yardages of woven silk novelties. More inquiry was reported for rayon yarns. Retail trade opened quietly.

BLACKSTONE VALLEY GAS AND ELECTRIC COMPANY

To the holders of the Mortgage and Collateral Trust Series A 5% Gold Bonds of the Blackstone Valley Gas and Electric Company, due April 1, 1951:

Under the Sinking Fund Provision of the Indenture bearing date of April 1, 1926, between the above company and the State Street Trust Company of Boston, the undersigned trustee hereby gives notice that until July 21, 1932, at 12 o'clock noon, Daylight Saving Time, it will receive sealed proposals for the sale of the above-named bonds at a price not exceeding face value and accrued interest to absorb the sum of Forty Thousand Dollars ($40,000) or any part thereof.

Crop Estimates Given by U. S. Report

An increase of 21,000,000 bu of winter wheat was indicated by the July government report, issued late yesterday, the crop being estimated at 432,000,000 bu.

The spring wheat estimates were more than expected, being 305,000,000 bu, a total of 737,000,000 bu for all wheat. The corn returns were lower than the private estimates, suggesting a crop of 2,996,000,000 bu as compared with 2,557,000,000 bu last year and far above the five year average. Estimated production of all grains, with the six ciphers omitted, follow:

The amount of wheat remaining on farms in the United States on July 1, 1932, is estimated at 8.04 per cent of the crop of 1931, or about 71,925,000 bu, as compared with 32,865,000 bu on July 1, 1931, and 25,741,000 bu the average stocks of wheat on July 1 for the five years 1924-1928.

A sharp recovery from the crop failure in spring wheat in the American northwest has been staged this year, the total crop of the four states, as given by the government report, being 200,610,000 bu, against 54,370,000 bu last year. Of durum wheat there are 80,521,000 bu, against 18,395,000 bu in 1931 and 57,683 bu two years ago. Comparisons, with the three ciphers omitted, follow:

A loss of 5,167,000 bu due to Hessian fly and to the March freeze in the six soft winter wheat states east of the Missouri river is given by the government report.

Kansas is given 81,510,000 bu, or close to what most of the trade had estimated. There was a gain of 9,300,000 bu. Last year that state raised its record crop of practically 240,000,000 bu. The total hard winter wheat crop is 179,939,000 bu as compared with 447,000,000 bu last year and a five year average of 279,000,000 bu. Comparative details, with the three ciphers omitted, follow:

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, Office of the Supervising Architect, Washington, D. C., July 6, 1932. Sealed Bids, in duplicate subject to the conditions contained herein, will be publicly opened in this office at 3 P. M., August 3, 1932, for furnishing the materials and performing the work required for installing a complete elevator plant in the U. S. appraisers' stores building at Chicago, Ill. All prospective bidders are hereby notified that prior to the award of the contract, the right is reserved by the supervising architect to require any or all bidders to submit a "statement of facts as to qualifications to furnish elevators, in strict accordance with the specifications" in detail of such data as may be required, including the business and technical organization of the bidder available for the contemplated work, financial resources, building experience, material proposed to be used, etc. The United States expressly reserves the right to reject any bid in which the facts as to business and technical organization, financial resources, or building experience compared with the project bid upon, or materials proposed to be used, justify such rejection. The successful bidder will be required to furnish a performance bond of 50 per cent of the contract price. The prevailing rate of wage shall be paid all laborers and mechanics employed on the project as provided in the Act of March 3, 1931 (Public No. 798). Drawings and specifications may be obtained from this office. JAS. A. WETMORE, Acting Supervising Architect.

Why pay more than Household's low rate?

The nationally known HOUSEHOLD LOAN PLAN offers cash loans of $300 or less to husbands and wives at reasonable rates.

Loans above $100 and up to $300 are made at a rate less than the usual small loan rate.

If you are working and keeping house you have all the security needed for a Household loan.

Commonwealth Customers—PAY LESS—for LOANS

THE personal property which nearly every family owns and the signature of husband and wife enable one to secure any amount up to $300 quickly and easily.

You get the full amount of the loan, and up to 25 months to repay. Interest at the reduced rate is charged only while you keep the money.

WIDOW OF SLAIN HEIR TO TOBACCO MILLIONS TELLS DRAMATIC STORY OF EVENTS THAT LED TO HIS DEATH BY PISTOL SHOT. Three pictures of Libby Holman Reynolds, former Broadway "torch singer," who testified yesterday at the inquiry into her late husband's death at Winston-Salem, N. C. She declared he had often threatened to kill himself and in substantiation of her statement offered notes, one bidding her "good-by forever," the other being a facetious will and testament. [Underwood & Underwood Photo.] (Story on page 1.)

FREED BY INQUEST. Ab Walker, chum of slain Smith Reynolds, as he appeared during school days. (Story on page 1.)

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

HER TESTIMONY AT INQUEST TENDS TO CLEAR REYNOLDS' CHUM. Blanche Yurka, New York actress, whose story confirms "Ab" Walker's assertion that he was downstairs in Reynolds home when shot that led to young millionaire's death was fired. She is shown as she appeared in Lysistrata. (Story on page 1.)
